94th Annual Wingo Trade Day Draws Crowds, Community Spirit

By: Laurna Todd
KPI Writer

WINGO — Another successful chapter of community tradition is in the books as the 94th Annual Wingo Trade Day wrapped up a weekend full of family fun, local pride and hometown celebration.

People lined the streets of downtown Wingo as the annual parade made its way through town, bringing smiles from both spectators and participants throughout the afternoon. Parade entries included local election candidates, emergency service agencies, churches, businesses and community organizations, all coming together to celebrate one of the region's longest-standing traditions.

One of the newest additions to this year's festivities was the first-ever Wingo Lions Club Pinocar Derby, which brought excitement and creativity to downtown Wingo on Saturday morning. Local youth gathered at the basketball court to race their custom-designed Pinecars in front of cheering families and spectators. Organizers called the inaugural event a success and hope it becomes a lasting Trade Day

The Graves County Women in Business Luncheon brought together nearly 400 attendees on April 28 for a day centered on encouragement, community and celebrating women making a difference throughout Graves County.

Guests were welcomed with vendor booths, shopping opportunities and a catered lunch featuring sandwiches, pasta salad, fruit and desserts before the program began. Graves County Chamber Executive Director Katie Beth McCord welcomed those in attendance before Mayfield Mayor and former Business Woman of the Year Kathy O'Nan delivered the invocation.

O'Nan spoke about the importance of gratitude and community, calling the luncheon a special event that continues to bring women together each year. She reflected on the strength shown by local women, especially in difficult times, and encouraged

Graves County FFA Celebrates Students, Leadership at Annual Chapter Banquet

By: Laurna Todd
KPI Writer

Members, families, and supporters of the Graves County FFA chapter gathered Saturday evening to celebrate another successful year during the organization's annual chapter banquet. The event highlighted student accomplishments, leadership growth, and the continued tradition of agricultural education within the chapter.

Throughout the evening, students were recognized for their hard work and dedication in Career Development Events (CDEs) and Leadership Development Events (LDEs) during the 2025-2026 school year. Several members were also honored with Greenhand and Chapter Degrees, recognizing their commitment and progress within the organization.

The banquet also included the installation of a new officer team eager to serve the chapter during the 2026-2027 school year. Students, advisors, and families celebrated the next generation of leaders who will continue promoting agriculture, leadership, and community involvement throughout the coming year.

Recently, during the chapter's final meeting of the year, senior officers Darcey, Mannix, Jayce, and Katie officially retired their FFA jackets and delivered their retiring addresses. The emotional tradition gave each officer the opportunity to reflect on friendships, leadership experiences, personal growth, and the lasting impact FFA has had on their high school journey.

The annual banquet served as both a celebration of accomplishments and a reminder of the strong leadership and dedication that continue to shape the future of Graves County FFA.

First Love Farms to Host Farm-to-Table Dinner Celebrating Local Agriculture

By Laurna Todd
KPI Writer

Local agriculture and community connection will take center stage June 20 as First Love Farms partners with Wild Goose Catering for a special farm-to-table dining experience designed to showcase the region's agricultural roots.

The event will feature a high-end dinner prepared with locally sourced ingredients, tastings of local spirits, live music, and fellowship at the farm located at 3105 KY-125 in Hickman.

Owner Brooke Simmons said the event has been a longtime dream inspired by her appreciation for local agriculture and community support.

"This event has been on my vision board for years," Simmons said. "As someone who appreciates all things local, it just seemed like the perfect fit for us."

Simmons said some of the ingredients featured during the dinner will be grown directly on First Love Farms, adding a personal touch to the evening's menu.

"After meeting

First Love Farm Owners Ginger, Jill and Brooke

with chef Jamie and hearing about his experience with farm to table, we knew that we could make this happen," she said. "Our community is rooted in agriculture, and that has always felt very special to us."

Beyond the meal itself, Simmons hopes guests leave with a greater appreciation for the hard work behind locally produced food.

"Our hope is that guests will not only enjoy an incredible meal, but to gain an appreciation for where the meal begins," Simmons said. "From the pasture or garden, straight to your plate. No middlemen, long hauls, or extensive processing."

She added that Western Kentucky's strong agricultural presence deserves recognition and celebration.

"Our region is a huge food supplier, and deserves to be celebrated in a big way," Simmons said.

Tickets for the June 20 event can be purchased online at firstlovefarms.com.

From mid-June through October, First Love Farms is also open to the public from sunup to sundown unless special events are scheduled.

Hydrangeas are showy and surprisingly easy

Source: Rick Durham, extension professor, University of Kentucky Department of Horticulture

If you're looking for a head-turning effect in your garden, think about planting a hydrangea or two or three. Hydrangeas, with their diverse flower shapes and colors, are some of the most eye-catching plants in a garden. Many are particularly suitable for shade gardens, where a jolt of color is always appreciated.

You'll find many varieties at garden centers. The macrophylla, or French, hydrangeas come with two distinctly different bloom forms. The commonly seen mophead flower has a large rounded bloom made up of both sterile and seed-producing flowers. Its colors range from blue to crimson, depending how acidic or alkaline the soil is, which changes the availability of soil aluminum levels. The more delicate lacecap form has a thick cluster of small, seed-producing flowers surrounded by a halo of showier, sterile flowers. Its colors are often softer, perhaps more refined, than the mopheads. Hydrangea paniculata has a conical flowerhead and blooms in mid-summer. If you've seen a showy, big-headed white hydrangea, that's often the popular Annabelle variety, which is a H. arborescens or smooth hydrangea. Oakleaf hydrangea, or H. quercifolia, has conical blooms that start out white in late spring/early summer and fade to pink. They also provide great dried flowerheads for winter arrangements. Both the H. arborescens and the oakleaf hydrangea are natives.

Once established, hydrangeas require little care. Most don't appreciate sitting in wet soil, but on the whole, they are remarkably forgiving, so they're a good plant for the beginner gardener.

The older forms of the French hydrangea only bloomed from old growth, so pruning at the wrong time of the year, or a bad winter that killed old stems could reduce or prohibit the plant from blooming the next year. However, breeders have now produced macrophylla hydrangeas that bloom on both new and old stalks, almost guaranteeing a good display of color every summer.

And speaking of pruning, everyone wants to know when to do it. The good news is, for most varieties, you can put those pruners back in the shed, except maybe to trim back dead wood or old flower spikes. Pruning is not a requisite for producing good blooms, and in many cases, it can stymie blooming if done at the wrong time of year. Here are the proper pruning times for each type of hydrangea to insure the most blooms next season.

Summer, after the bloom fades: oak-leaf hydrangeas, once-blooming mopheads or lacecaps

Late winter: Paniculata and smooth hydrangeas

Summer or late winter: reblooming or ever-blooming French hydrangeas

KCTCS Giving Day Raises Over $340,000 to Support Students Across the Commonwealth

The Kentucky Community and Technical College System celebrated a successful Giving Day on April 22, 2026, raising a total of $343,705 through 1,631 gifts to support students and programs across its 16 colleges.

Among the stand-out institutions, West Kentucky Community and Technical College led the system in total dollars raised, securing $66,798 through 123 gifts—an increase over last year’s Giving Day totals in both categories. As the top-performing college, WKCTC will receive an additional $1,000 scholarship award from the KCTCS Foundation.

“We are thrilled by the incredible support shown by our students, faculty, staff, alumni, and community on Giving Day, and these generous gifts will strengthen WKCTC while creating life-changing opportunities for our students through scholarships, emergency assistance, and program support,” said Andy Wilson, Vice President of Institutional Advancement at West Kentucky Community and Technical College.

Donors showed strong support for several featured funds at WKCTC, including the Student Emergency Fund, Challenger Learning Center, Community Scholarship Program, Regional Educators Scholarship Fund, and PJC Academic Scholarships. The Student Emergency Fund alone raised nearly $8,000 through 65 gifts, demonstrating a shared commitment to helping students overcome unexpected financial barriers. In addition, the Paducah Junior College Foundation amplified donor impact by offering a dollar-for-dollar match on all Giving Day contributions, resulting in an additional $25,000 in matching gifts.

KCTCS Giving Day continues to highlight the generosity of donors and the lasting impact of community support on student success. Funds raised provide critical resources, scholarships, and emergency assistance that empower students to stay on track and achieve their educational goals.

Paducah Chamber to host U.S. Senate Republican Candidate Forum and Luncheon

Nate Morris

U.S. Senate Republican Candidate Forum and Luncheon is scheduled for Friday, May 8 at the Paducah-McCracken Co. Convention Center in Paducah. The Paducah Area Chamber of Commerce is hosting the event as part of their 2026 Public Policy Spring Mini Series. Candidates who have committed to attend include Congressman Andy Barr, Daniel Cameron and Nate Morris.

This is an opportunity for area citizens to hear directly from the candidates about their plans for the Commonwealth. WPSD Local 6 is partnering with the Chamber to broadcast these forums live during their midday newscast. Todd Faulkner, WPSD evening news anchor, will serve as the moderator.

The event will be held from 11:30 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. at the Paducah-McCracken Co. Convention Center, 415 Park Street, in Paducah. Tickets are $60 and includes lunch. The U.S. Senate Democratic Candidate Forum was previously held on April 27th. Register online at paducahchamber.org or call 270-443-1746 by no later than May 5th for the Senate forum.

Daniel Cameron

Congressman Andy Barr has served in the U.S. House of Representatives for Kentucky’s 6th Congressional District since 2013. Cong. Barr is a senior member of the House Financial Services Committee where he serves as the Chairman of the Financial Institutions and Monetary Policy Subcommittee.

Daniel Cameron previously served the 51st Attorney General of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, becoming the first Black American elected to a standalone statewide office in the state’s history. Cameron was also the Republican Nominee for governor of Kentucky in 2023. Most recently, he served as the CEO of 1792 Exchange.

Congressman Andy Barr

Nate Morris is Chairman and CEO of Morris Industries and founder of Rubicon Technologies. Morris was the youngest inductee to the Kentucky Entrepreneur Hall of Fame and the first Kentuckian to be featured in Fortune’s 40 under 40.

The 2026 Public Policy Series is presented by Four Rivers Nuclear Partnership and Swift & Staley. The Chamber’s Public Policy Series gives the business community access to legislative leaders, issues and information.

The final event in the Spring Series includes a McCracken Co. Judge Executive Candidate Forum on May 12. The deadline to register for the County Judge’s forum is May 8.

Bomber Baseball Heading In The Right Direction

By Tim Taylor
KPI Sports Writer

Ballard Memorial baseball has won 3 of their last 4 games as the team looks toward the last half of their season. Following a 10-0 shutout loss to Murray, the team refocused with games against Livingston Central and Ft Campbell. They defeated the Cardinals 13-5 and the Falcons 12-7 to improve their record to 6-12. Getting valuable playing time for players and making sure they are playing in positions that match their talent level has been a learning experience for the team. Sophomore Carson Farmer went 6-9 in the two wins and had 5 RBI. The Bombers outscored the Cardinals 12-1 in the final 4 innings and then 4-0 in the final 3 innings against the Falcon. Finding the strike zone by Ballard Memorial pitchers and putting the ball in play by the Bomber hitters are going to be vital as the team heads into the final month of the season. Getting faster starts and not relying on late inning heroics will help take pressure off the coaching staff and put players in less stressful situations. "We have to stay the course and stay calm and composed," said Coach Scott Matlock. With 3rd District games against Mayfield and Graves upcoming will determine the playoff picture with the Eagles being heavy favorites. Gaining confidence to finish off the regular season is important for the Bomber baseball team.

Lady Bombers Reset

By Tim Taylor
KPI Sports Writer

The Lady Bomber softball team has turned their attention to the 3rd District Tournament and the 1st Region Tournament in May. Following a 7-5 loss to Graves County to leave them in 2nd place in the regular season district standings, now they know they will face Mayfield in the opening round of the 3rd District Tournament in the middle of May. They surrendered 5 runs in the 5th to the Lady Eagles to fall too far behind to complete the late rally. The next day, they went to Paduch Tilghman as the Lady Tornado opened their new stadium. Ballard Memorial made themselves right at home at the Lady Tornado stadium, initiating the field with 3 home runs in an 8-4 win. Miley Nichols, Adalyn Hargrove, and Trinity Williams knocked the ball over the fence as 5 of their 8 runs came with the long shots. As the Lady Bombers now turn their attention to the final portion of their schedule, strong defensive plays, consistent pitching, and timely hitting will be keys to a strong end of the season. "We have been leaving girls on base, but when we are hitting, it is infectious," said Coach Scott Alexander. Making solid contact at the plate and scoring runs will determine how far this team will advance in post season play. The team has games with Hickman, McCracken, Paducah Tilghman, and Caldwell on the horizon and may be keys indicators of how well prepared the Lady Bombers are heading down the stretch.

And Then There Was One

By Tim Taylor
KPI Sports Writer

The Ballard Memorial Track and Field team has one more event scheduled prior to May 9th's Class A Regional. The Lady Bombers have high expectations to challenge for a regional title and as the weather gets warmer, the team is heating up as well. Blakeley Shepherd looks to defend her regional title in the Discus and middle schooler Zoe McGlenon continues to shine in the Shot Put. The relay teams are being competitive, and the team has been contending in the jumping events. Karley Veit has been a top 5 racer in the hurdles and is coming off a pair of wins and a pair of runner-up finishes in her last 4 competitions. Injuries and schedule conflicts have not allowed for full team competitions and juggling those obstacles may be the difference in how well the team finishes in regionals. The boys are not expected to contend for a team title but have several athletes looking to place high enough in regionals to qualify for state.

Freshman Brantley McDanel has been the most consistent high finisher in the Long and Triple Jumps. Gordon Mathews has done well in jumping events and looks to solidify his status in those events. Jacob Wilkins has had a couple of personal records in the Discus in his senior year, and Jackson Sutton has been throwing the Shot Put better in each event. They compete in the Area One Championships on Saturday, May 2nd in their final tuneup before regionals.

Bombers Tennis Prepping For Post Season

By Tim Taylor
KPI Sports Writer

As May has arrived, so has the end of the season for the Ballard Memorial Tennis teams. With only one home match remaining on May 7th, they quickly turn the page to the post season. On May 8th, the 1st Region Team Tournament begins and then on the 11th, the Individual Regionals start. Using the regular season competition to prepare for the post season, the team has been competitive in their match play. Luke Fickes is coming off an 8-4 win against his Mayfield opponent and dropped a close 8-6 match against Marshall. He and Chipper Collins also fought in a close doubles match before losing 8-6 to Mayfield. Against Marshall County, Keaton Dowdy cruised to an 8-2 singles win, and he and Caden Fickes combined for an 8-3 doubles win. In girls' matches against Mayfield, the Lady Bombers finished 4-2 with single match wins by Madelyn Davis, Layla Hooper, and Zaya Chuntirapong, and the latter two combined for a doubles victory as well. Trying to build off the late season achievements, Coach Doug Kineman likes the team's effort and thinks his team can translate that over to post season success.

LeBuhn honored as KAAA Female Athlete of the Year

NFHS launches free course on risks of sports betting for high school students

Staff Report

LEXINGTON — Since its founding almost 20 years ago, the NFHS Learning Center (www.NFHSLearn.com) has repeatedly created new online education courses to address the most important current issues in high school sports and other activities in our nation's schools.

Key issues such as Concussions, Mental Health, Sportsmanship, Emergency Action Plans, Name/Image/Likeness (NIL), Sudden Cardiac Arrest, Implicit Bias, Protecting Students from Abuse, Hazing Prevention, Heat Illness Prevention, Vaping — among many others — have been addressed and more than 29 million courses have been delivered.

Two weeks ago, another key issue was addressed with the launch of the Sports Betting course, which was started to help high school students understand the potential life-long risks associated with becoming involved with sports betting. A review of some recent studies would indicate the timing of this course could not have been better.

With the rise in the overall sports betting industry since the 2018 U.S. Supreme Court decision that legalized services for online and digital platforms, one of the effects has been an uptick in online sports betting among high school students.

In an article by David Purdum on ESPN.com, it was noted that a February survey by The Harris Poll on behalf of the National Council on Problem Gambling, revealed that one in three adults under age 45 placed a sports bet before turning 21 years of age.

High school students are growing up in a sports culture where sports betting is highly visible, with commercials, sports odds and commentators picking teams to win. Our society, in fact, glorifies gambling and there's a double-standard, in some cases, at higher levels of sports.

The interscholastic sports scene is — and must remain — different. The tag line of the Sports Betting course is "It's Not Worth the Bet," and the NFHS highly encourages leaders in our nation's schools to take this course, and then arrange for all student-athletes in schools — middle schools and high schools — to also take this free course in which they will discover the potential dangers of making that first bet.

For starters, the legal consequences of sports betting by high school students must be emphasized. It is against the law, and breaking the law could mean loss of high school eligibility, and it could start high school students down a lifelong path that could adversely affect their career, finances and family.

Sports betting can take a toll on an individual's mental and emotional well-being, and if a person becomes too involved, it can become an obsession and lead to destructive behaviors. And for high school students, becoming involved in sports betting could affect students' performances in the classroom and on the court or field.

Fortunately, education-based sports programs provide structure, supervision and trusted adult relationships that can help protect student-athletes from gambling-related behaviors. We encourage everyone in our nation's schools to take the free Sports Betting course and to remember, "It's Not Worth the Bet."

Bombers Shine at Kentucky FBLA State Conference

By Laurna Todd
KPI Writer

Ballard Memorial High School students made an unforgettable impression at the Kentucky FBLA State Conference, bringing home an impressive list of awards while earning opportunities that will impact their futures for years to come.

Competing against some of the top students across the state, BMHS students showcased excellence in leadership, technology, business, finance and communication skills. Their achievements not only brought recognition to the school, but also opened doors for valuable real-world experiences, scholarships, networking opportunities and national-level competition.

Students earning first-place honors included Ike Miller in Banking and Finance; Mikaila Apperson, Aubrey Alexander and Mady Bohde in Bulletin Board; Savara Cantrell and Hala Ouder Kirk in Digital Video Production; Jolan Gorostiza, Hadley Wray and Isabella Richards in Management Information Systems; and Chipper Collins in Network Design.

Second-place

winners were Kate O'Neill in Financial Statement Analysis and Patrick Johnson in Intro to Information Technology.

Third-place honors went to Chipper Collins and Ethan Olmeda in Website Coding and Development.

Fourth-place finishers included Gaia Brumana in Accounting; Emma Morrow and Peyton Phelps in Business Plan; Isabella Richards in Computer Applications; Brady Slayden in Networking Infrastructure; Luke Fickes in Securities and Investments; and Mayson Crowley, Ayden Owens and Grace Murphy in Sports and Entertainment Management.

Fifth-place winners were Natasha Halyak and Sarah Wilkins in Event Planning; Lila Robinson in Intro to Public Speaking; Nolan Bell in Real Estate; and Ethan Olmeda in Technology Support Services.

Adding to the school's success, Grace Murphy represented Ballard Memorial High School as the Kentucky FBLA State Secretary this year, serving in a leadership role that reflects both dedication and professionalism.

School leaders praised the students for their hard work and determination, noting that 26 of the 37 students attending the conference walked across the stage to receive trophies — an accomplishment that speaks volumes about the strength of the program.

The experience of competing at the state level gives students far more than awards. FBLA competitions help students build confidence, leadership abilities, teamwork, communication skills and career readiness that will benefit them long after graduation. Several students will now continue their journey by representing Ballard Memorial and Kentucky at the FBLA National Leadership Conference this summer in San Antonio, Texas.

With so many students excelling on such a large stage, one thing was made clear throughout the conference — it truly was a great day to be a Bomber.

State officials observe 'second-chance opportunities' in Lifeline tour

Lifeline Recovery Center showed off the second-chance opportunities for its clients during a tour Wednesday for officials from the Kentucky Justice and Public Safety Cabinet.

Secretary Keith Jackson, along with staff members Natalie Burikhanov and Ryan Walters, toured the center to learn more about Lifeline's work—particularly the workforce reentry and second-chance opportunities for clients in the recovery program.

Steve Powless, Lifeline board chair, said Lifeline is eager to cooperate with Kentucky's efforts to help their clients.

"We need to do our part," he said, "to support Frankfort's initiatives to help individuals transition from incarceration back into the workforce."

Powless also serves on the Governor's Council of Second Chance Employers, which works to promote second-chance hiring practices, improve reentry outcomes for individuals released from incarceration, and reduce recidivism rates across the state.

Lifeline partners with more than 30 employers, and 100 percent of its residents secure employment during the program's second phase of treatment.

The mandatory employment component of Lifeline's treatment plan is critical to residents' success in sobriety, according to Ashley Miller, executive director.

"Meaningful, long-term employment during recovery helps individuals maintain independence and build a foundation for a healthier future," Miller said.

Lifeline is a Christ-centered, long-term residential recovery program that serves approximately 200 adults each year, with more than 3,000 individuals supported since its founding in 2004. The organization is accredited by the Commission on Accreditation of Rehabilitation Facilities. Lifeline operates a 45-acre men's campus, acquired in 2022 in Ballard County, and is developing a new 45-acre women's campus near Barkley Regional Airport.

Fast Turnaround. Proven Success.

Four years, one voice: A University of Kentucky student's leadership journey to graduation

By Jacob Rudy
University of Kentucky

LEXINGTON, Ky.— When Jackson Baird first arrived at the University of Kentucky in 2022, he wasn't thinking about serving in the UK Student Government Association (UKSGA) or representing thousands of students on campus.

Baird is graduating from the University of Kentucky, with a dual degree from the Martin-Gatton College of Agriculture, Food and Environment (CAFE) and the College of Communication and Information, as the UKSGA Student Body vice president — a role that allows him to advocate for students across campus.

"I remember being a freshman and thinking the university was so big that nothing like that would ever be possible," Baird said. "As SGA vice president, we are giving students a voice who otherwise wouldn't think they would have one."

Baird grew up in Taylorsville, Kentucky, on a small dairy and beef farm where agriculture was simply a way of life. His father served as his FFA advisor at Spencer County High School, and leadership opportunities came naturally through the organization.

"The UK College of Agriculture has always kind of been running in my blood," Baird said. "Both my parents are UK grads."

Baird's sister is also a UK alumnus. This connection to agriculture and UK made Martin-Gatton CAFE feel like home when Baird first arrived on campus.

"The college made it possible for me to find my footing," Baird said. "It really first helped me get comfortable in being a leader."

Baird chose to major in agricultural economics and communication, and also became a member of UK's Lewis Honors College. While his sister first encouraged him to pursue agricultural economics, it was the sense of community in the department that made him stay.

"I can go up to the Barnhart building right now and everyone's always there with a welcoming smile," Baird said.

Experiences outside the classroom also helped shape Baird's path. One moment that stands out came during a trip with the Agriculture Economics Academic Team to Puerto Rico for the 2024 Food Distribution Research Society case study competition, where students were able to showcase their creativity and skills in areas such as farm-to-institution programs and university student farms.

"That experience really opened my eyes," Baird said.

Baird initially thought he would finish his four years at UK and begin his career; however, that quickly changed when he returned from Puerto Rico. Baird now plans to attend law school after graduating from UK in May.

Being the voice for students was Baird's leadership roles that defined his time at UK.

As UKSGA vice president, Baird works between the executive and legislative branches of student government — meeting with university officials, helping guide legislation and ensuring students' concerns are heard.

"Whether I'm meeting with the director of transportation, trying to work on parking, or the director of well-being, or trying to work on different things for students' mental health — it's just such a wide variety," Baird said.

For Baird, it all comes back to making sure that "students' voices are represented." The most meaningful part of the role is helping students feel heard.

"Our big thing in student government this year was if we can change one person's day for the better, if we can make one student's life just a little bit easier, then we were successful," Baird said.

As one of The Bill Gatton Foundation Scholars, Baird also experienced firsthand how scholarships can impact students' lives. Baird said the scholarship allowed him to devote more time to school and get involved on campus.

"The Bill Gatton Foundation Scholarship has just been so important," Baird said. Looking back on his four years at UK, Baird said the growth he has experienced is clear.

"When I first came in, I was very immature, I didn't really know what I wanted to do," Baird said. "Now I really understand what my passions are, especially in agriculture. I feel stronger and more confident with myself and have had so many opportunities because of it."

A simple leadership philosophy

As he prepares to graduate and pursue law school, Baird hopes his story encourages other students to believe in themselves and that leadership is within their reach.

"I always saw people and was like, oh, I'm never going to be able to be in their spot," Baird said. "I now believe you really, at the end of the day, can do it."

And if his time at the UK is remembered for anything, Baird hopes it reflects a simple idea.

"I just hope that when I leave that somebody had a better day at least once because of me," Baird said.

The Spring 2026 University of Kentucky Commencement ceremony will be held on Friday, May 8, and Saturday, May 9, at Rupp Arena at the Central Bank Center.

INSPECTION PERIOD FOR THE PROPERTY TAX ASSESSMENT ROLL

The Livingston County real property tax roll will be opened for inspection from May 4 through May 18, 2026. Under the supervision of the Property Valuation Administrator (PVA) or one of the deputies, any person may inspect the tax roll.

This is the January 1, 2026, assessment on which state, county, and school taxes for 2026 will be due beginning October 1st, 2026.

The tax roll is in the office of the property valuation administrator in the Livingston County Office Building and may be inspected on the dates indicated between the hours of 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., Monday through Friday, and from 8:00 a.m. to 11:00 a.m. on Saturdays during this period.

Any taxpayer desiring to appeal an assessment on real property made by the PVA must first request a conference with the PVA or a designated deputy. The conference may be held prior to or during the inspection period. Written documentation supporting your opinion of value will continue to be required; however, you will be instructed on the best method to submit your documentation after contacting our office regarding your request to have a conference. Scheduled conferences may be conducted in-person or via telephone.

Any taxpayer still aggrieved by an assessment on real property, after the conference with the PVA or designated deputy, may appeal to the county board of assessment appeals.

The appeal must be filed with the county clerk's office no later than one workday following the conclusion of the inspection period. Please contact the county clerk's office to receive instructions on the method the office is using to accept appeals this year and to obtain a form that can be used to file your appeal.

Any taxpayer failing to appeal to the county board of assessment appeals, or failing to appear before the board, either in person or by designated representative, will not be eligible to appeal directly to the Kentucky Board of Tax Appeals.

Appeals of personal property assessments shall not be made to the county board of assessment appeals. Personal property taxpayers shall be served notice under the provisions of KRS 132.450(4) and shall have the protest and appeal rights granted under the provisions of KRS 131.110.

The following steps should be taken when a taxpayer does not agree with the assessed value of personal property as determined by the property valuation administrator.

Taxpayer must list under protest (for certification) what they believe to be the fair cash value of the property.

Taxpayer must file a written protest directly with the Department of Revenue, Office of Property Valuation within 30 days from the date of the notice of the assessment.

This protest must be in accordance with KRS 131.110.

The final decision of the Department of Revenue may be appealed to the Kentucky Board of Tax Appeals.

Paul introduces Senate legislation for Trump's White House ballroom

By TOM LATEK
Kentucky Today

WASHINGTON (KT) — U.S. Sen. Rand Paul, R-Bowling Green, is introducing legislation in the Senate that would authorize construction of President Donald Trump's proposed new White House ballroom.

Paul is sponsoring the measure in his capacity as Chairman of the Senate Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs Committee (HSGAC), and a member of the National Capital Planning Commission (NCPC).

The NCPC thoroughly reviewed the project earlier this month, and Paul voted in favor of its approval. In the wake of the assassination attempt of Trump at this year's White House Correspondents' Dinner, the legislation will allow the ballroom to proceed without requiring additional taxpayer funds and will also establish an expedited congressional review process for major White House projects going forward.

"Following the security scare at the Correspondents' Dinner, it is clear we need efficient, responsible processes to address White House infrastructure needs," Paul said. "As HSGAC Chairman and an NCPC Commissioner, I have personally reviewed and supported this project. My bill cuts through the unnecessary legal delays getting in the way of the East Wing Modernization project. This bill ensures the ballroom can move forward using private funding, protects taxpayers, and creates a faster approval pathway for critical improvements while maintaining congressional oversight."

According to The Hill, a publication that tracks political news in Washington, Senate Republicans aren't in the mood to vote on legislation to greenlight the President's controversial plan to build a 90,000-square-foot White House ballroom, as some GOP lawmakers see it as a bad political move in the current political climate, especially if it would require taxpayer funding.

Republican senators generally support Trump's call for the construction of a ballroom where the historic East Wing once stood, but some of them are warning that spending any taxpayer money on the project would be politically "tone-deaf."

Although Paul has said he would the measure approved by unanimous consent in the Senate, there is no word on when his proposal will be addressed.

attendees to continue supporting one another.

This year's featured speaker was former television journalist Amy Watson, well known across the region for her years of storytelling and community coverage. Watson tied much of her message to the event's "Bridgerton" theme, comparing the strength and influence of women in the popular series to the women of Mayfield and Graves County.

Watson reflected on the aftermath of the December 2021 tornado and the resilience she witnessed while covering the devastation in Mayfield.

"You didn't just survive it all," Watson said. "You showed up every single day. You kept going. You chose to stand back up over and over again."

Throughout her speech, Watson spoke about faith, perseverance and finding purpose in hardship. She referenced the story of Dutch Holocaust survivor Corrie ten Boom and the well-known quote, "There is no pit so deep, that God's love is not deeper still."

Watson challenged attendees to continue rebuilding their community one act of kindness and one conversation at a time.

"Mayfield is filled with people who refuse to stay down," Watson said. "You get back up with strength, resilience and courage."

During the luncheon, organizers presented the Mary

Propes Business Woman of the Year Award to Donnitta Pyle. Organizers described Pyle as a leader who demonstrated dedication, integrity and compassion throughout more than four decades in banking. Beginning her career as a teller and later advancing to vice president and office manager, she was recognized for both her professional accomplishments and her service throughout the community.

The event also highlighted the work of The Lighthouse, a nonprofit organization serving women and children in crisis. A portion of ticket sales from the luncheon was donated to the organization as it continues rebuilding efforts after its facility was destroyed during the 2021 tornado.

Representatives from The Lighthouse shared updates on plans for the future and the continued need for support as they work toward reopening and once again providing safety, shelter and hope to families in need.

The luncheon concluded with a message of encouragement and faith, reminding attendees that even in difficult seasons, hope and healing are still possible through perseverance, community and trust in God.

Wingo Lions Club leadership said Wingo Trade Day has transformed through many versions over the years, but noted that many classic traditions are once again finding new life. "Right now in society, it seems like everything old is new again," organizers shared. "We had the opportunity to bring the Pinecar Derby this year. Enthusiasm started out slow, but the event ended up being a hit."

Organizers explained that many children and young parents were unfamiliar with Pinecar Derby racing at first, but the experience quickly became a favorite attraction during the day's events. Following the positive response, plans are already underway to bring the derby back next year.

The Lions Club also hopes to continue reviving traditional "blue ribbon" contests in future years, including categories such as Best Jam, Best Pie and Best Pickles, along with old-fashioned games once popular at community gatherings.

"Our community can be proud of Wingo Trade Day," organizers said. "Wingo Trade Day is the epitome of Small Town America at its best."

Adding a patriotic touch to the event, Emily McClure performed the National Anthem during the parade, while Pentecostal Tabernacle of Water Valley received this year's Parade Entry Winner award.

Mayfield Rotary Club delivers dictionaries, hosts speech contest, announces record scholarships

By: Laurna Todd
KPI Writer

The Mayfield Rotary Club continues to make a lasting impact on local youth through education-focused initiatives across Graves County.

Rotarians recently visited area elementary schools to deliver dictionaries to third-grade students as part of the club's annual literacy project. At Fancy Farm Elementary School, Rotarians John Carrico, Andy Elliott and Kent Hayden presented students with their very own dictionaries, sparking excitement throughout the classrooms. At Sedalia Elementary School, Rotarians Lee Martin and Darvin Towery carried out the same mission, ensuring more students received the valuable resource.

In total, the Mayfield Rotary Club is distributing more than 500 dictionaries across the county, reinforcing its commitment to supporting literacy and education among young learners.

In addition to its outreach in schools, the club held its Monday, April 20 meeting at the WKRECC Community Room, where members hosted the Sectional Student Speech Contest. Four students—Olivia McLaughlin, Kacey Kearney, Allison White and Keile Allen—delivered impressive speeches before Rotarians and guests.

Olivia McLaughlin earned first place honors, followed by Kacey Kearney in second and Allison White in third. Club President Chris Kemp presented checks to the top three contestants. Rotarian Nate Cox coordinated the event, with assistance from fellow members who served as judges, timekeepers and scorekeepers.

During the meeting, Sergeant-at-Arms Dale Usher led the club's traditional fines and "happy dollars," while Stacy Overby led members in singing "God Bless America." President Kemp also recognized prospective members Michael Harris and Bubba Winfrey, who were in attendance completing membership applications, and welcomed Jonah Seymour as the club's newest member.

Cox noted that dictionary preparation efforts were underway at Graves County High School and Mayfield High School, with volunteers encouraged to sign up through the club's Facebook page to assist with distribution.

The club also announced a milestone achievement in its scholarship program. According to Carrico, the Rotary has secured funding to award a record $55,500 in scholarships to 96 graduating seniors this year. Over the past 26 years, the program has provided a total of $1,305,500 in scholarships to Graves County students.

The scholarship awards ceremony is scheduled for May 3 at 1:30 p.m. at the Graves County High School Performing Arts Center, with Rotarians asked to arrive early to assist with the event.

Anyone interested in learning more about the Mayfield Rotary Club or membership opportunities may contact Membership Chair Amanda England at 270-356-1570.

Through its continued efforts—from promoting literacy to recognizing student achievement—the Mayfield Rotary Club remains dedicated to investing in the future of its community.

Graves County Sheriff's Fleet installation of Axon Dash Camera's

By: Sheriff Jon Hayden
Graves County Sheriff

The Graves County Sheriff's Office is currently undergoing the installation of Axon Dash Camera's in all of its marked patrol vehicles.

This has been a goal for some time to achieve. "We requested assistance from the Graves County Fiscal Court to assist in the funding of this initiative. After careful consideration, the request was granted and we are very appreciative," Sheriff Jon Hayden said.

"This is a good investment for the citizens of Graves County. There are no negatives and only positives associated with this initiative." These cameras will integrate and work in conjunction with the body worn cameras deputies are already wearing. Key benefits of Axon dash cams include:

Enhanced Evidence Capture & Recall: The "Video Recall" feature allows agencies to retrieve up to 24 hours of footage even if recording was not automatically triggered, ensuring critical evidence is never lost.

Real-Time Situational Awareness: Axon Respond enables supervisors to view live video streams and the location of police vehicles, allowing for better decision-making and officer safety during unfolding incidents.

Integrated Technology (Fleet 3 includes high-resolution. Automatic Activation & Evidence Sync: Cameras turn on automatically when light bars are activated. The system seamlessly syncs with Axon body-worn cameras for unified, secure video storage in Axon Evidence.

Improved Transparency & Training: High-resolution footage (including infrared for backseats) offers clear documentation of interactions, protecting officers from false accusations and providing realistic footage for training.

Secure & Flexible Uploads: Fleet systems use LTE routers for wireless, automatic uploads of video from any location, reducing the need to return to the station to transfer data. The installation process should be completed by the end of the week.

Ballard County experiencing steady growth according to Chamber director

Compiled by Laurna Todd
KPI Writer

- Ballard County is experiencing steady, gradual economic growth, with multiple projects supporting long-term expansion.
- Key initiatives include housing development, the new Cairo bridge, transportation studies on U.S. 60 and KY 286, and advocacy for a riverport in Wickliffe.
- Despite rising costs for materials and services, progress continues through ongoing planning and investment.
- Road improvements to U.S. 60 and KY 286 are expected to boost traffic flow and make the area more attractive to businesses.
- The county's access to rail, river, and road

- systems strengthens its appeal for industry and investment.
- Housing development is a top priority, especially with expected growth tied to expansion at the Department of Energy site in West Paducah.
- Increased population will require expanded infrastructure, including roads, water, and sewer systems.
- Lower tax rates may attract new residents, benefiting local schools and businesses.
- A proposed Wickliffe riverport could significantly enhance regional economic opportunities.
- Overall outlook remains positive, driven by strategic location, infrastructure improvements, and long-term planning.

KYTC secures over $67M for Ballard County

Compiled by Laurna Todd
KPI Writer

- Ballard County will receive over $67 million in funding from the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet (KYTC) for seven road and infrastructure projects over the next two years.
- Funding was supported by state legislators and coordinated planning with KYTC officials.

- More than $53 million is allocated for right-of-way, utilities, and construction along major routes including KY 286, U.S. 60, and U.S. 51.
- County leadership noted some projects were not funded but overall considers the outcome a major success.
- Additional benefits include bridge program funding and riverport investments, strengthening the - county's infrastructure.

- Major Projects:
 - $10M – U.S. 60 improvements (Humphrey Creek Bridge area)
 - $30.8M – New Ohio River bridge at Cairo, Illinois
 - $14.6M – Approach roads to Cairo bridge
 - $2.75M – U.S. 60 upgrades in LaCenter

 - Focus on improving safety, boosting freight movement, and supporting economic growth in Ballard County

Judge Executive Cooper focuses on Ballard's growth

Compiled by Laurna Todd
KPI Writer

- Ballard County is making steady progress in housing, infrastructure, and community partnerships, according to Judge Executive Todd Cooper.
- Infrastructure upgrades include multiple completed

- bridge projects, improving safety and accessibility.
- Housing development is expanding, with 13 new residential sites created at Barlow Estates through new water and sewer infrastructure.
- A local grant program offering up to $5,000 for home

- construction or renovations was fully utilized, indicating strong demand.
- Additional funding ($100,000 grant) will support development in Barlow Estates, WestHaven Subdivision, and a planned 40-acre subdivision in Kevil.
- Rebuilding the county's population is

- a top priority after a decline of more than 400 residents from 2010 to 2020.
- Efforts include increasing housing supply and encouraging the use of vacant homes.
- Progress is driven by collaboration among local leaders, organizations, and community partners.

City of Kevil continues to make steady progress

Compiled by Laurna Todd
KPI Writer

- The City of Kevil is making steady progress on community improvements

- and future development.
- A new fire station is nearly complete and will enhance emergency services; an open house is planned.

- The city's ISO fire rating improved from 7 to 4, likely lowering homeowners' insurance costs and reflecting better fire protection.

- Road infrastructure projects have faced challenges but are contributing to long-term growth.
- City leaders thank

- residents for their patience during ongoing improvements.
- Future priorities include finishing the fire station and continuing

- investments in quality of life.
- Overall focus remains on growth, infrastructure, and community well-being.

Gratitude Goes a Long Way at Life Care Center of La Center

Tana Cooper, Danielle O'neil, Ginger Atkinson and Michelle Hall

Life Care Volunteers

By Laurna Todd
KPI Writer

In a world where people often move too fast to stop and say “thank you,” one thing is certain — gratitude still matters, and some local businesses are proving just how powerful kindness can be.

One shining example in Ballard County is Life Care Center of La Center, a nursing home and rehabilitation facility known not only for its quality care, but also for the appreciation it shows to both employees and volunteers.

The facility recently hosted its Years of Service Dinner honoring employees who have dedicated five years or more to the center. In total, 42 employees were invited to celebrate their commitment and hard work.

Among those honored was Linda Tomlinson, dietary manager, who recently celebrated an incredible 48 years of service.

Staff members enjoyed a night filled with food, fellowship, and gifts as the facility took time to recognize the people who help make a difference in residents’ lives every day.

“We truly have the best of the best employees,” the facility shared in a recent social media post thanking associates for their dedication, compassion, and care.

The appreciation does not stop there.

Life Care Center of La Center also recently hosted a volunteer appreciation lunch to thank the many volunteers who spend time enriching the lives of residents.

Facility leaders said residents look forward to visits from volunteers and appreciate the kindness and companionship they bring. They also encouraged community members interested in volunteering to reach out and get involved.

Life Care Center of La Center focuses on inpatient and outpatient rehabilitation along with 24-hour skilled nursing care. The facility prides itself on creating a homelike atmosphere where nurses and therapists work closely with residents to provide individualized care based on personal goals and needs.

And perhaps that caring environment starts with something simple — gratitude.

When employees feel appreciated, that kindness spreads throughout the building. It reaches residents, families, co-workers, and visitors alike, creating a domino effect of compassion and positivity.

In today’s busy world, maybe we could all learn something from that example.

Sometimes the smallest acts of kindness and appreciation can make the biggest difference in someone’s day.

Ballard County Cemetery Restoration

Volunteers Are Citizens

By Betty L. Johnson
bettyjohnsonky@yahoo.com

"A volunteer is a person who can see what others cannot see; who can feel what most do not feel. Often, such gifted persons do not think of themselves as volunteers, but as citizens; citizens in the fullest sense: partners in civilization." (George H. W. Bush)

Our community cemetery volunteers are the BEST. The Bible encourages volunteering and serving others by using your gifts to help those in need (I Peter 4:10). Thankfully, Ballard County has two outstanding citizen volunteers that are active in historic cemetery preservation. Eric Williams is maintaining the Newton Family Cemetery near Hinkleville. Jody Brown is maintaining the Watwood Roach Cemetery in the Slater area. We are so proud of these two men. Both completely work on their own, preserving Ballard County regional history, and making a difference by community volunteering. Hopefully, others will follow Eric and Jody, as they serve in community cemetery restoration. May, 2nd., 8 a.m.

Saturday, there will be young and old volunteering under MOUNT, Inc. (non-profit) cemetery cleanup and restoration. Our cemetery group will start in Hazelwood Cemetery, Bridgewater Cemetery, and Little Union Cemetery. Also, if time permits, working in Hendricks Cemetery on Kings Road. All are roadside cemeteries.

Please email me: bettyjohnsonky@yahoo.com or txt me at 270 210 3538, if you plan to volunteer. We would love for you to join us.

OUTDOOR Truths

By Gary Miller
Outdoortruths.org

That morning I had located what turned out to be four toms and some hens. They were still on the roost. And even though they had not been pressured, I made sure to do minimal and only light calling. A soft yelp on my slate call was enough for all the ears within 100 yards to hear me. So, I laid down the call, got my gun ready, and began scanning the top of the hill in front of me. I knew pretty much what any older tom would do. He would not come directly in line with my call. He would show up to one side or another. These birds know not to trust their ears as much as their eyes. I also knew that any other tom that might be with him would follow. Sure enough, in just a few minutes, two hens and four gobblers showed up about 100 yards to my right – which is a terrible place if one is right-handed like myself. Two of the toms began to perform in full strut. The other two shortly followed suit. The hens were not impressed. I thought about how I might go about getting a shot without being seen. Nothing came to mind other than “be patient.” Soon the hens moved within 35 yards of me, and two big toms were following. The problem, however, remained. They stayed to my right. How would I rearrange my seating, raise my gun and aim without them seeing me and flying away. I couldn’t. So, I decided once again to just be patient. Before too long, all those toms began coming my way and moving perfectly in front of me. The biggest one came to about 40 yards. When he moved behind a tree, I raised my gun, got ready, and waited (patiently again) for him to clear the tree. When he did, I aimed carefully and pulled the trigger. I ate smoked turkey breast for lunch the next day. He was a big bird. Eleven inches of beard. One and a half inch spurs. It was a fun hunt.

When you look at the subject of patience in the Bible, you will quickly notice that God thinks it is important. There are several reasons and many of them have to do with our everyday circumstances and situations. But I think when it comes to relationships, I see three things. First, God is patient with us. A synonym of patience that describes His dealings with us is the word long-suffering. God is longsuffering with us. I sure am glad He is. Secondly, since He is patient with us, He wants us to be patient with other people. Or be long-suffering with others. Yes, this is the hard part. But here’s the third piece. It’s the job of the Holy Spirit to produce in us the patience we need to deal with others. And in this I think is where people see Jesus in us. It’s when our patience with others is seen as coming from a place beyond us. So, the next time you’re struggling with patience with others, ask God to remind you how many times He has waited for you to get it right. For me, I think He’s still waiting.

Comforting those who need an encouraging word

By William F Holland Jr.
billyhollandministries.com

For those who have visited a nursing home or a medical care facility, you know what I mean when I refer to these places as difficult and uncomfortable. The sights and sounds are difficult for our emotions to process, which explains why many would rather avoid them altogether. I’ve heard people say they dislike hospitals, nursing homes, or funerals, and this is usually because they prompt us to think more deeply about our own future. When we look around and witness how individuals are coping with aging and health problems, it’s a normal response to live in denial as the old saying reminds us, “Out of sight – out of mind” however, let us not avoid those who suffer, or live in fear about our own future because God reminds us for example in Psalm 27 that He will always be with us and help us. The Lord is filled with compassion and desires for us to have empathy toward others and to see the world as He sees it. “Blessed be God, even the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of mercies, and the God of all comfort; Who comforts us in all our tribulation, that we may be able to comfort them which are in any trouble, by the comfort where-with we ourselves are comforted of God” II Corinthians 1:3-4.

We are not here to just selfishly enjoy our blessings, but, as Matthew chapter seven mentions, we are to do unto others as we would like others to do unto us. Helen Keller is quoted as saying, “Once I knew only darkness and stillness... my life was without past or future, but a little word from the fingers of another fell into my hand that clutched at emptiness, and my heart leaped to the rapture of living.” My friend Ian White, who is a highly intelligent and humorous newspaper editor, shared a story with me about his experiences with nursing homes. He said that many years ago, when he was still living in England, he was the chairman of his hometown’s carnival association, which included an elaborate parade featuring the annual carnival queen and her court of two princesses. These beautiful young women, who had won beauty pageants the previous fall, were now ready to embark on a celebrity tour.

As a part of the carnival promotion, the association would take these girls to surrounding cities and have them participate in parades and public appearances. On each official outing, the girls wore stunning ballgown gowns and crystal crowns that projected the magic of fairy tale royalty. However, with all of the attention and star status, there was one stop on the tour that was not considered glamorous. They were required to visit a cancer hospital for children. Ian found himself trying to persuade these “rock stars” to spend some time on Christmas Day with these kids. It was Ian’s duty to collect the girls and chauffeur them to the facility and, with absolutely no hint of his inner apprehension, convince them that this visit would forever change their perspective on life.

Each year, a new group of celebrities would enter the faculty with trepidation, obviously intent on getting the ordeal over and done with. However, surprisingly, these young ladies remained at the children’s bedsides far longer than anyone would have expected, hugging and chatting with the youth who could hardly speak. The mask of pride and pomp quickly melted into a sobering realization that many innocent individuals live each day with misery and suffering that very few are aware of. As the young women hugged and listened to each child, Ian could sense the power of compassion that was creating waves of gratitude and humility in everyone present. The girls were sincerely grateful to everyone for allowing them the opportunity to meet these special individuals and to understand more clearly how important it is to sincerely share the feelings, thoughts, and experiences of others.

We do not need to be ordained clergy or a popular hero to brighten someone’s day. We all have the capacity to listen and obey God and help those who desperately need to know that someone cares. “Then they also will answer him, saying, Lord, when did we see you hungry or thirsty or a stranger or naked or sick or in prison, and did not minister to you? Then he will answer them, saying, Assuredly, I say to you, inasmuch as you did not do it to one of the least of these, you did not do it to me.”

VICTORIOUS Living ...in a troubled world

Why “built a tower” should bring you comfort

By Teresa LeNeave
leneave2@comcast.net

Peter, Jesus' loud and energetic disciple, once said, “He (God) has given us everything that pertains to life and godliness” (2 Peter 1:3). That's a powerful statement because “everything” means “everything” ... not just some of what we need to live in this world. When you're going through a battle, it may not feel like He's given you everything but even though we can't see it, it's still true.

There's a parable in the Bible, told by Jesus, in Matthew 21:33 where He describes God's investment into humanity. In the parable, after planting a vineyard, the Landowner (God), builds a hedge, digs a winepress, then builds a tower. When the vineyard is carefully set up with provision and protection, He rents it out to tenants then goes away.

The people understood the parable because vineyards were valuable and, in those days, they were vulnerable to thieves and wild animals.

The Landowner (God) knew there would be dangerous things coming to try to destroy the vineyard, but I believe the focus here is not the danger, but that before leaving, He provided all they needed. “Nothing was missing. Everything needed for success was already given”.

Then, there comes a twist in the story. When harvest time comes, He sends servants to collect his share. The tenants beat, stone, or kill them. He sends more servants, but with the same result. Finally, he sends his Son, thinking they'll respect him. Instead, they kill the Son to try to seize the inheritance.

The landowner is God and the parable assures us He is watching, but He's also returning. The vineyard is God's people. The hedge, the winepress, and the tower is everything God provided for success: protection (hedge); purpose/productivity (winepress); added protection, a place to watch over and protect the vineyard from predators and thieves (the tower). That's why “built a tower” should bring us comfort. He refused to leave us defenseless against evil.

In short: nothing was lacking. The setup was complete. God gave leaders responsibility over His people. Those leaders failed and abused that responsibility. They rejected God's messengers again and again and finally, they rejected (and killed) His Son. The Good News is that even after killing his Son, God made provision: His Son rose from the grave and currently is in heaven making intercession for us.

That's a good God. A good Landowner. And, no matter what anyone believes, God is the Landowner. He created it all. He created you and He cares about you. Trusting God's love and provision is the best arsenal we have against evil.

CONFORMITY TO CHRIST

Bro. Brandon G. Bramlett
Bandana Baptist Church

It is an enormous celebration, but many people have never heard about it. “Hemingway Days,” as it is known, is a week-long celebration in Key West, Florida, in which writers, fisherman, and fans of the famous Ernest Hemingway gather to honor his legacy. And one of the highlights of the festival is the Hemingway lookalike contest, in which dozens of older men with frosted beards compete against one another for the prize of resembling the great American writer. The contest is held at Slop Joe's Bar, and it is so momentous that it occupies three whole days of the festival! And according to the Associated Press, a winner is chosen on the anniversary of Hemingway's birthday, which is July 21st.

It must be a great honor to look like the renowned Hemingway, but it is a far greater honor to look like the Author of Salvation, the Lord Jesus Christ. And while it is not a contest between believers to see who looks the most like Jesus, looking like Christ is every believer's ultimate conquest. God's plan for His people is that they be “conformed to the image of his Son” (Romans 8:29b). Moreover, the Holy Spirit is always shaping and molding all true believers, with the goal of helping them resemble Jesus. As Paul said, “And we all, with unveiled face, beholding the glory of the Lord, are being transformed into the same image from one degree of glory to another. For this comes from the Lord who is the Spirit” (2 Cor. 3:18).

It is through this transformation process that believers may be fully assured that they have been saved by God's grace. Everyone who truly knows Christ will look like Him: “But whoever keeps his word, in him truly the love of God is perfected. By this we may know that we are in him: whoever says he abides in him ought to walk in the same way in which he walked” (1 John 2:5-6). Such Christlikeness primarily entails following the example of Jesus in our thoughts, words, attitudes, and actions (John 13:15). Simultaneously, looking like Christ also means looking less like our old selves and less like the world around us. That is why Paul commanded, “Do not be conformed to this world, but be transformed by the renewal of your mind” (Romans 12:2a).

And the process of becoming like Christ will be completed one glorious day (Phil.

1:6). But it won't happen in this life; it will happen on the Last Day when Christ comes again. As John assured, “Beloved, we are God's children now, and what we will be has not yet appeared; but we know that when he appears we shall be like him, because we shall see him as he is” (1 John 3:2). Until then, all believers must resolve to follow in the footsteps of the Lord Jesus until all the world bows before His feet (Phil. 2:9-11).

Four tornadoes confirmed from recent storms

By TOM LATEK
Kentucky Today

FRANKFORT, Ky. (KT) – Four tornadoes have been confirmed to have struck Kentucky on Monday night and Tuesday morning, according to the National Weather Service (NWS) offices in Paducah and Louisville.

NWS Paducah says the first occurred in Hopkins County, outside Jewel City, shortly before midnight (CT), Monday night. It was an EF-0 tornado with peak winds of 85 mph. Its path was 50 yards wide and just over three miles long.

Trees were snapped and rooted and numerous large limbs were downed. Two electrical transmission line cross members were broken.

Less than ten minutes later, a second tornado touched down, not far from the end of the first one. An NWS damage survey team found an EF-1 tornado with peak winds of 95 mph occurred near Livermore in McLean County. Its path was 6.3 miles long and 125 yards wide. Extensive tree damage along the path of the tornado, including snapped tree trunks and uprooted trees.

Two homes suffered significant damage when trees fell onto them. Other homes suffered shingle and fascia damage. A few power poles were damaged.

Another EF-0 was reported at Millerstown in Hart County, by a damage survey team from NWS Louisville. This one touched down at 1:24 a.m. and lifted back up a minute later. Peak winds were 80 mph and the path was a mile long and 150 yards wide.

A second EF-1 was reported in Ohio County with peak winds of 105 mph. Its path was 1.8 miles long and 110 yards wide. It was on the ground for four minutes, starting at 12:30 a.m. It touched down briefly near the Rough River. It intensified as it crossed Highway 69, doing significant tree damage and some minor structural damage to homes along Highway 69. The tornado continued to the southeast where it ripped much of the roof of a home along Mill Run Lane, before lifting just before the Hartford, KY Airport.

Fortunately, no injuries have been reported due to the tornadoes.

The NWS Louisville survey crews also found straight line wind damage. 80 mph winds were reported in Green County, while 90 mph straight line winds were confirmed in both Harrison and Oldham counties, from the storm system.

Coleman defends church shrine proposal in religious liberty case

By TOM LATEK
Kentucky Today

FRANKFORT, Ky. (KT) – Kentucky Attorney General Russell Coleman announced Tuesday he is leading a 20-state coalition to ask the U.S. Supreme Court to clear the way for a northern Kentucky church to build an outdoor shrine on its property.

In a brief, Coleman and the states urge the nation's highest court to take up the case and underscore the fundamental protections of religious practice under the Religious Land Use and Institutionalized Persons Act (RLUIPA).

The Missionaries of Saint John the Baptist is a Roman Catholic religious order that operates Our Lady of Lourdes parish in Park Hills, Ky. The order received zoning approval from the City in 2021 to build a modest shrine offering a quiet place for meditation and worship before and after Mass. Neighbors who opposed the shrine brought a lawsuit, and the Kentucky Supreme Court eventually blocked the construction over Coleman's strong objections.

"In this country, we cannot allow a heckler's veto to trump religious liberty," Coleman said. "It's not up to the courts to decide how we practice our faith. We're asking the U.S. Supreme Court to provide nationwide clarity and stand with people of faith who simply want to worship without unlawful government interference."

Congress unanimously passed the RLUIPA in 2000, and President Bill Clinton signed it into law. The law was meant to ensure governments do not impose substantial burdens on religious organizations through zoning laws. According to Coleman's office, unfortunately, many courts, and now the Kentucky Supreme Court, have misinterpreted the law and infringed on Americans' religious liberty.

Coleman and the other attorneys general in the coalition are asking the U.S. Supreme Court to take up this case and provide clarity to people of faith and religious organizations across the country about their rights under RLUIPA.

The 20-state coalition, led by Coleman, is joined by attorneys general from Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Utah and West Virginia.

Kentucky Solicitor General Matt Kuhn, Principal Deputy Solicitor General Jack Heyburn and Deputy Solicitor General Jacob Abrahamson filed the brief on behalf of the states.
