Community mourns the loss of KSP Sgt. Brett Miller

Oct 9, 1974 – Jul 1, 2026

The Western Kentucky law enforcement community is mourning the unexpected loss of Kentucky State Police Sgt. Brett Miller, a former Graves County deputy whose career was marked by service, leadership and a commitment to helping others.

The Graves County Sheriff's Office shared a heartfelt tribute to Miller in a social media post following his passing on July 1, 2026, remembering him as a friend, colleague and mentor whose impact extended far beyond his years with the agency. According to the post, Miller began his law enforcement career with the Graves County Sheriff's Office in 1999. After serving briefly with the Calloway County Sheriff's Office, he returned to Graves County before joining the Kentucky State Police in 2005.

While with the Graves County Sheriff's Office, Miller served as a patrol deputy and school resource officer at Graves County High School. He also spent his free time coaching football and was known for his love of animals.

The sheriff's office noted on social media that even after joining the Kentucky State Police, Miller continued assisting agencies throughout the region as a crime scene technician and canine handler. He was widely respected for sharing his expertise and mentoring new deputies and troopers, helping prepare the next generation of law enforcement officers. The department asked the community to keep Miller's family, friends and fellow officers in their thoughts and prayers as they grieve his unexpected passing. The social media post concluded with a personal tribute:

"Brett, we last knew you here as GCSO 4210, but you will live on in our hearts as KSP 213. Your work ethic, humor, quick wit and love for others will never be forgotten. We miss you, brother, and we will always love you."

U.S. 51 Cairo bridge to remain closed for repairs; officials urge motorists to plan ahead

By Laurna Todd
KPI Writer

WICKLIFFE, Ky. — The U.S. 51 Ohio River “Cairo” Bridge connecting Wickliffe, Kentucky, and Cairo, Illinois, will remain closed until further notice after engineers identified an area on the Kentucky approach to the bridge requiring repairs.

The Kentucky Transportation Cabinet (KYTC) closed the bridge Monday, July 6, after a citizen reported a noticeable change to the bridge deck. A special inspection was completed later that day, with engineers determining repairs are needed on the approach to the Kentucky side of the bridge.

According to KYTC, crews have identified the area requiring repair where a section of the bridge approach has begun to fail. Engineers are developing a repair plan and meeting with contractors to establish a timeline for the work.

At this time, motorists should expect the bridge to remain closed until repairs are completed, a process officials say could take several weeks. KYTC said the closure is necessary to ensure the safety of the traveling public while repairs are being made.

As news of the closure spread, numerous rumors began circulating on social media suggesting the bridge was sinking or that significant structural damage had already been discovered.

KYTC spokesperson Carrie Dillard said those rumors are inaccurate.

“The advisory stated that a citizen reported a noticeable change to the bridge deck, which led to the special inspection for safety purposes,”

Dillard said.

While the inspection confirmed repairs are needed on the Kentucky approach to the bridge, KYTC has not indicated the bridge is sinking or described the issue as a widespread structural failure.

With the bridge expected to remain closed for an extended period, Ballard County Emergency Management Director Travis Holder is encouraging motorists and businesses to prepare now rather than wait for traffic conditions to worsen.

Holder said the most important thing travelers can do is plan ahead before leaving home.

“My biggest message is to plan ahead,” Holder said. “Know the route you’re going to take before you leave, because GPS applications can sometimes reroute you back toward the bridge closure or direct you to roads that aren’t the best option.”

He recommends allowing extra travel time, especially during peak travel hours, as detour routes will likely experience heavier traffic than normal.

“We understand this closure is an inconvenience, but taking a few extra minutes to plan your trip can help reduce frustration and improve safety,”

Holder said.

For motorists traveling between Kentucky and Illinois, Holder said there are two primary detour options. The first is to travel Interstate 24 to U.S. Highway 45 in Metropolis before taking Illinois Highway 37 south into Cairo.

A second option is the Dorena-Hickman Ferry once it resumes operations.

“If you choose the ferry route, I strongly encourage you to check its operating status before you leave, as weather, river conditions or maintenance can affect service,” Holder said. “No matter which route you choose, expect increased traffic and allow additional travel time.”

Motorists using the Interstate 24 detour should also be aware that the I-24 Ohio River Bridge between Paducah and Metropolis is currently operating under temporary traffic restrictions as part of an Illinois Department of Transportation rehabilitation project. Traffic is reduced to one lane in each direction in a head-to-head pattern using the westbound bridge, and a 10-foot, 6-inch lane width restriction remains in effect.

Holder said the bridge closure will also be felt by local businesses that depend on the steady flow of travelers crossing the Ohio River each day.

“Businesses in Wickliffe, including establishments like Hillbilly BBQ and Indian Hills, rely heavily on travelers using U.S. 51,” Holder said. “I encourage everyone, especially our local residents, to support these businesses during the closure. Your continued patronage can make a real difference while traffic is reduced.”

If repairs continue for several weeks, Holder encourages commuters to begin developing a long-term travel plan.

“That may mean adjusting departure times, identifying the detour route that works best for your schedule and staying informed on bridge repair updates,” Holder said. “Planning ahead will help minimize disruptions until the bridge can safely reopen.”

KYTC said it will release additional updates as engineers finalize repair plans and establish a timeline for reopening the bridge.

Meade County announces historic transfer of Otter Creek Outdoor Recreation Area

Staff Report

FRANKFORT — The Meade County Fiscal Court has announced the official transfer of the Otter Creek Outdoor Recreation Area to Meade County, marking a historic milestone in the restoration of one of the county's most treasured public spaces. This achievement is the result of a strong partnership between the Meade County Fiscal Court, the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, and the National Park Service. Through years of collaboration and a shared commitment to conservation and outdoor recreation, these partners have made it possible for Otter Creek to enter an exciting new era under local stewardship. "This is a proud day for Meade County," said Meade County Judge Executive Troy Kok. "Otter Creek has always been more than just a park, it is part of our community's identity. Bringing it under local ownership gives us the opportunity to honor its history, and once again establish it as a premier outdoor recreation destination." The transfer returns more than 2,300 acres of forests, trails, campgrounds and many recreational amenities to local management, allowing the county to invest in improvements that enhance the visitor experience. Building on the county's successful management of Otter Creek Campground, Meade County will continue expanding recreational opportunities, supporting tourism and creating new economic benefits for local businesses. The Fiscal Court is committed to preserving Otter Creek's legacy while ensuring it remains a place where families can camp, hike, hunt, fish, bike, paddle and enjoy the outdoors for generations to come. Founded by the National Park Service in 1934 as a recreational area for residents in Louisville and neighboring towns, Kentucky Fish and Wildlife took over operation of the property in 2011 to add much-needed hunting and fishing access for more than a million residents of Jefferson and neighboring counties. Today, the property offers opportunities for hunting, fishing and numerous other outdoor recreational activities. "Meade County Fiscal Court has been a proven partner with its operation of the campground at Otter Creek for the last two years, and they will be great stewards of the entire property for years to come," said Kentucky Fish and Wildlife Commissioner Rich Storm. "County leadership has demonstrated concerted interest in preserving this special property for future generations and we are excited to continue our partnership as we maintain public hunting and fishing opportunities throughout Otter Creek." Kentucky Fish and Wildlife will continue to operate and maintain the property's shooting range for Meade County, giving hunters and shooting sports enthusiasts an opportunity for target practice or to site-in their firearms. A shooting range permit, free with any annual hunting or fishing license by checking the applicable box on the department's License Sales webpage, is required to use the range. "Today's announcement is about more than the transfer of property," Kok added. "It is about reclaiming a piece of Meade County's heritage and creating a destination that our residents can take pride in. We are grateful to Kentucky Fish and Wildlife, the National Park Service and everyone who helped make this vision a reality." The Meade County Fiscal Court looks forward to working with residents, community organizations, and outdoor recreation partners as it begins the next chapter for Otter Creek Outdoor Recreation Area. Driftwood invites visitors into the story of an artist who went off the grid on the river

PADUCAH, KY — Harlan Hubbard wanted a simpler life, so he built a shantyboat and went to the river. Driftwood, a visiting exhibit now open at the River Discovery Center, tells the story of Hubbard and his wife, Anna, who chose to live off the grid and let the Ohio River shape their days, their work, and the art Harlan created. Harlan built his shantyboat in 1944 near Brent, Kentucky. In 1946, he and Anna set off down the Ohio River, beginning a journey that would carry them along the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers toward New Orleans and the Louisiana bayous.

Through paintings, writing, and the story of that journey, visitors can see how life on the water inspired Hubbard's

National Weather Service issues rare four-day flood watch ahead of weekend rain

TOM LATEK
Kentucky Today

FRANKFORT, Ky. (KT) – The possibility of heavy rain and severe thunderstorms has prompted the National Weather Service (NWS) to issue a rare four-day Flood Watch that will be in effect into Sunday morning.

“Multiple shortwave disturbances will work across the Ohio Valley for the end of the week through the weekend,” said Brian Neudorff with the NWS office in Louisville. “At the same time, a surface boundary currently to our north across the Great Lakes, will slowly work southward and stall by the start of the weekend. This will setup a situation where we will have deep moisture over the region as the multiple waves of showers and storms work along this boundary.”

Soil that is already wet means susceptibility to flooding, especially with additional rounds of rainfall, Neudorff said. “Localized significant flooding may develop for areas that see several inches of rainfall.”

Neudorff advises Kentuckians to remain weather aware now and into the weekend, share updated weather information and remember “Turn Around, Don’t Drown” when encountering flooded roads or areas.

In addition to the flood potential, there is also a chance of severe weather from Thursday evening into Friday morning.

The storm Prediction Center says there is a marginal risk of severe weather, west of a line from Augusta to Albany, level one of five on their scale; while a slight risk, level two, is west of a line from just west of Louisville to Paducah.

While all forms of severe weather are possible in the areas where there is a severe risk, the NWS says the greatest threat is for damaging winds. There is a much lesser chance of tornadoes and hail.

“By the end of the weekend, the last of the convective waves of heavy rainfall and thunderstorms, along with the stalled boundary will push southward and out of the area,” Nuedorff said. “This is expected to be followed by high pressure building in from the north to help dry us out.”

PUBLIC NOTICE

INGEVITY VIRGINIA CORP – WICKLIFFE CARBON PLANT
TENTATIVE DECISION TO GRANT A REGULATION VARIANCE
WICKLIFFE, BALLARD CO., KY
EPA I.D.: KYR-000-009-266

AI: 59

The Kentucky Energy and Environment Cabinet, Division of Waste Management (Division) has made a tentative decision to grant a regulation variance to Ingevity Virginia Corp – Wickliffe Carbon Plant (Ingevity) for an exception to a Kentucky Administrative Regulation (KAR) requirement to store hazardous wastes in containers or tanks. Additional details of the variance follow. Ingevity’s carbon plant is located at 2025 Beech Grove Rd, Wickliffe, Ballard County, Kentucky 42087. The site contact person is Ms. Jenny Buckman, and she can be reached at (270) 936-6762.

Why does Ingevity need a variance from the Division?

Ingevity is requesting a site-specific variance to allow temporary accumulation (for 60 days or less) of a D002 hazardous waste in a curbed area on a concrete slab instead of in a tank or container. D002 is the United States Environmental Protection Agency (U.S. EPA) code for wastes having the characteristic of corrosivity. The variance is sought to more easily manage large (approximately 2-foot diameter by 24 foot long) spent filter elements generated onsite. According to the submittal for the variance, the alternative will provide relief from the difficult logistics of moving the unwieldy filter elements described in and out of any container. Additionally, the variance will allow human interaction with the acidic liquids drained from the filter elements to be minimized.

The Division has tentatively determined that this change will likely pose an insignificant change in potential hazard to public health or the environment. This conclusion is further supported by positive results historically achieved through nearly identical variances previously issued to this same facility. On March 21, 2023, May 22, 2000, May 14, 2018, April 13, 2016, and December 15, 2006, current or previous owners of the facility (Ingevity, WestRock and MeadWestvaco) were granted variances. Those variances nullified requirements to temporarily accumulate (for 90 days or less) hazardous wastes in a tank or container. These variances are currently expired, but the Division is unaware of any additional human health or environment problems that resulted from the previous variances. Since Ingevity is basically seeking renewal of the above-described expired variances, history seems to support the Division’s tentative determination. Please note that the proposed variance is from provisions of 40 CFR 262.232(a)(4) incorporated in 401 KAR 39:080 Section 1(1) and a requirement of 401 KAR 39:080 Section 1(7)(a) which are essentially the current equivalents (or superiors) for the requirements that were codified at 401 KAR 32:030 Section (5) prior to 2018.

How can I tell the Division what I think about this tentative decision?

The Cabinet encourages public involvement and welcomes comments. Anyone wishing to comment on our tentative approval of this variance should submit their written comments to the Division on or before July 27, 2026, the close of the public comment period. Comments should be submitted to April Webb, PE., Manager, Hazardous Waste Branch, Division of Waste Management, 300 Sower Boulevard, 2nd Floor, Frankfort, KY 40601, or by email at April.Webb@ky.gov.

Where can I review the documents used to make and otherwise associated with this tentative decision?

Ballard-Carlisle County Public Library Ms. Alita Rogers 257 North Fourth Street Wickliffe, KY 42087 Phone: (270) 335-5059 Hours of Operation: Friday 9:00 AM – 4:00 PM (except holidays) Division of Waste Management 300 Sower Boulevard Frankfort, KY 40601 Point of Contact: Tina Fisher Phone: (502) 782-6357 Email: tina.fisher@ky.gov Hours of Operation: Mon.-Fri. 8:00 AM - 4:30 PM

Division of Waste Management Website: <https://eec.ky.gov/Environmental-Protection/Waste/Pages/public-notices.aspx> (Waste Management Public Notices – Kentucky Energy and Environment Cabinet)

What will the Division do with the comments they receive?

The Cabinet will consider all comments, received by the close of the public comment period on July 27, 2026, in making a final decision. Anyone submitting comments will be mailed a “response to public comments” document specifying any changes made or not made (with reasons why) as a result of the comment(s) submitted.

Any person who may be aggrieved by the Division’s final decision may file a petition with the Cabinet which sets forth the grounds of the objection and demands a formal hearing pursuant to KRS 224.10-420(2). This type of hearing is held before a hearing officer, and all parties are advised to have legal counsel present.

The Division of Waste Management does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, disability, sex, age, sexual orientation, gender identity, ancestry, or veteran status. The division provides, on request, reasonable accommodations necessary to afford an individual with a disability an equal opportunity to participate in all services, programs and activities. To request materials in an alternate format contact John Moore at (502) 782-6419 or johnf.moore@ky.gov. Sudoku Puzzle

How it Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle! Good Luck!

Larger first base option allowed in high school baseball

Staff Report

LEXINGTON — Beginning next year, high school baseball teams will be given the option to use an 18-inch first base or the double first base. The larger base is presented as an alternative to the previously mandated double first base, which goes into effect in 2027.

The larger first base option was one of seven rules changes recommended by the NFHS Baseball Rules Committee at its meeting last month in Indianapolis and which were subsequently approved by the NFHS Rules Review Committee and NFHS Board of Directors.

In conjunction with the double first base, allowing a larger first base has proven to be effective in reducing player collisions and enhancing player safety.

"The NFHS Baseball Rules Committee believes that providing schools with the option of using either an 18-inch first base or a double first base gives administrators the flexibility to enhance player safety while recognizing the varying needs and resources of member schools," said Elliot Hopkins, director of sports and liaison to the NFHS Baseball Rules Committee. "Both options are designed to reduce the potential for collisions at first base and support a reduced risk playing environment without changing the fundamental nature of the game."

One-way electronic communication will now be allowed from the coach to the pitcher and/or the catcher for the purposes of calling pitches. Prior, the catcher was the only defensive player allowed to receive communication from the coach. While the coach must still be located in the dugout/bench area, the committee believes this change responsibly integrates electronic communication that enhances game management.

Bat certification was addressed with USA Baseball assuming bat-testing standards. Effective in 2028, there will be an additional class of permitted non-wood bats. Bats that are not made of a single piece of wood shall meet either the USA Baseball Batted Ball Coefficient of Restitution (USA Baseball BBCOR) of .50 or the USA Baseball Bat Performance Standard (-4, -5, -6). Bats must be labeled with a silkscreen or other permanent certification mark.

"In addition, the NFHS remains committed to fostering the growth and development of high school baseball players," Hopkins said. "As the game continues to evolve with the adoption of the USA Baseball BBCOR standard, expanding the available drop-weight options provides younger and developing players with additional opportunities to build proper mechanics, confidence and skills while maintaining the safety and performance standards expected in education-based athletics."

Additional rules changes include:

- Eye shade must be a solid stroke and not include words, numbers, logos or other symbols within the eye shade.

- Use of electronic communication devices by players on the field is prohibited (except as outlined with one-way coach to player communication). This includes amplifying devices, wireless communication devices, headphones, etc., for the purposes of recording, streaming or transmitting audio or video. The prohibition does not include medical devices.

- Coaches will be allowed to use a handheld electronic scoring device or other scoring material while in the coach's box.

- When using a tiebreaker to end a regulation game, an option is now available to start each half-inning with a runner on second base. The runner would be the last scheduled batter in that respective half-inning.

A complete listing of the baseball rules changes will be available on the NFHS website at www.nfhs.org. Click on "Sports" at the top of the home page and select "Baseball" and then "Rules." The print version of the 2027 Baseball Rules Book will be available for purchase in October at www.NFHS.com, and the digital version will be available in September via NFHS Digital at www.NFHS.org.

According to the 2024-25 NFHS High School Athletics Participation Survey, baseball is the fifth-most popular sport for boys with a total of 472,598 boys participating at 16,110 schools across the country. In addition, 1,381 girls played high school baseball.

NFHS introduces updated version for NFHS Digital Rules App

Staff Report

LEXINGTON — The NFHS, in partnership with RefReps, has announced the release of NFHS Digital 2.0, a major upgrade to the NFHS Digital platform designed to make rules publications, case books, guides and officials resources easier to access.

Built by RefReps, NFHS Digital 2.0 represents a significant step forward in the digital experience for officials, coaches, administrators and others who rely on NFHS publications. The updated platform was reimaged based on user feedback, focusing on faster navigation, better search, more flexible reading options, and a more connected experience across publications.

reflects our continued commitment to the people who rely on NFHS rules and resources, and it builds on feedback we've heard from users across the country,” said Davis Whitfield, incoming NFHS Executive Director. “This update makes it easier for users to find what they need, understand rule references in context, and stay connected to the latest information.”

NFHS Digital 2.0 includes a refreshed sign-in experience, allowing users to sign in or create an account using email, Google, Apple or RefReps. Once inside the platform, users are welcomed with an overview of the new features and improvements included in the release.

A key addition in NFHS Digital 2.0 is the introduction of ‘Publication Home Pages’. These central hubs give users quick access to each publication’s table of contents, highlights, notes, search, share options and linked publications. Users can jump directly into specific sections, access related materials, and move through content more efficiently.

The reading experience has also been enhanced with continuous scrolling, adjustable text sizing and background options to help users customize the way they view content. These improvements are designed to make rules publications and related materials easier to read and navigate on mobile devices.

The search feature has been upgraded across the platform as well. Users can now search books, keywords, highlights, notes, tags and rule references more efficiently. Global search allows users to find publications and content without first navigating into a specific book, while improved PDF search helps users locate relevant topics faster.

NFHS Digital 2.0 also introduces in-context rule references, allowing users to view related rules directly inside PDFs and case books when one rule references another. Users can quickly preview the referenced rule and then jump to the full rule when needed.

Additional new features include a Bulletins tab for NFHS Digital news and announcements, as well as publication feedback tools that allow users to submit feedback on formatting or potential inaccuracies. Feedback submission statuses can be tracked through the user’s Profile.

“RefReps is honored to continue working alongside the NFHS to build tools that serve the officiating and education communities,” RefReps Chief Executive Officer Kyle Armstrong said. “NFHS Digital 2.0 was designed around the way users actually interact with rules content. The goal is simple: make the information easier to find, easier to read and easier to use.”

NFHS Digital 2.0 is now available in the NFHS Digital app and on the web at <https://store.nfhsdigital.org/>.

Users are encouraged to update the app and experience the upgraded platform.

Graves County FFA Members Build Leadership Skills at State Camp

By: Laurna Todd
KPI Writer

Fifteen members of the Graves County FFA Chapter, including the chapter's executive officer team, recently attended Week 3 of camp at the Carol Martin Gatton Kentucky FFA Leadership Training Center, where they spent the week developing leadership skills, strengthening friendships and preparing for the upcoming year.

According to a social media post from Graves County FFA, members participated in leadership workshops, officer training classes, and organization and operations sessions designed to help students become more effective leaders within their chapter, school and community.

In addition to classroom instruction, campers worked alongside FFA members from across Kentucky, building relationships, sharing ideas and learning from one another. The experience also gave the chapter an opportunity to develop its Program of Activities, outlining goals, community service projects and events planned for the coming year.

FFA leadership camps offer students much more than leadership training. By spending several days together away from home, members learn the importance of teamwork, communication, responsibility and problem-solving while developing friendships that often last well beyond their high school years.

Camp activities encourage students to step outside their comfort zones, build self-confidence and discover strengths they can carry into college, their careers and everyday life.

The Graves County FFA Chapter noted that it was proud of the growth each member demonstrated throughout the week, adding that students fully embraced every opportunity to learn, lead and serve.

Armed with new ideas, stronger leadership skills and a renewed sense of purpose, Graves County FFA members are looking forward to putting what they learned into action as they work toward another successful year of agricultural education, leadership and community service.

years. According to historical accounts, they originated in China during the second century B.C., when bamboo stalks were thrown into fires, creating loud popping sounds that were believed to scare away evil spirits.

Chinese alchemists later developed an early form of gunpowder by combining saltpeter (potassium nitrate) with other ingredients and packing it into bamboo or paper tubes. Over time, advancements led to the colorful fireworks displays enjoyed around the world today.

The Fourth of July remains one of America's biggest celebrations, with Americans spending an estimated $3 billion on fireworks each year, according to industry estimates.

Early Back-to-School Physicals & Vaccinations

By: Laurna Todd
KPI Writer

As the new school year approaches, the Graves County Health Department is encouraging parents and guardians to schedule their children's physicals and vaccinations as soon as possible to avoid the annual back-to-school rush.

According to a recent social media post from the health department, families are encouraged to make appointments early to ensure students meet school health requirements before classes begin. Waiting until the final weeks of summer can make it more difficult to secure an appointment as demand typically increases closer to the start of school.

Annual physicals give healthcare providers an opportunity to assess a child's overall health, monitor growth and development, address any medical concerns and confirm students are ready for a successful school year. Keeping vaccinations up to date also helps protect children from vaccine-preventable illnesses while reducing the spread of disease in schools and the community.

Scheduling appointments early also gives parents time to complete any required paperwork and obtain any additional immunizations that may be needed, particularly for students entering kindergarten, sixth grade or other grades with state immunization requirements.

The Graves County Health Department is accepting appointments for back-to-school physicals and vaccinations. Parents and guardians can schedule an appointment by calling 270-247-3553.

The health department is located at 416 Central Avenue in Mayfield and is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Health officials encourage families not to wait until the last minute, allowing students to begin the school year healthy, prepared and ready to learn.

By: Laurna Todd
KPI Writer

The Graves County Sheriff's Office recognized two veteran officers for their dedication and service with promotions announced in a recent social media post.

According to the post, Detective Sgt. Snapper Seaton was promoted to the rank of captain effective July 1, 2026.

Captain Seaton has served with the Graves County Sheriff's Office since April 2019 as both a deputy sheriff and detective. Before joining the agency, he served with the Clinton Police Department, the Hickman County Sheriff's Office and the Hickman County Schools Police Department. The sheriff's office said Seaton began his law enforcement career in 2007 and also served in the U.S. Army.

The agency also announced the promotion of Detective Tony Cornwell to detective sergeant, effective July 1. According to the post, Cornwell began his law enforcement career with the Graves County Sheriff's Office in 2014 as a court security officer while also serving as a telecommunicator for the Kentucky State Police.

In 2018, he became a Kentucky State Police trooper before returning to the Graves County Sheriff's Office in October 2023. Since then, he has served as both a deputy sheriff and detective. In its social media announcement, the Graves County Sheriff's Office congratulated both officers on their promotions and thanked them for their dedication to the community.

Beshear presses for answers on McConnell's health

By TOM LATEK
Kentucky Today

FRANKFORT, Ky. (KT) – Gov. Andy Beshear has sent a letter to the office of U.S. Sen. Mitch McConnell, R-Louisville, requesting an update on his health status amid growing concerns around the Senator's ability to serve.

"Over the last several weeks, Kentuckians have grown increasingly concerned about the health and well-being of Sen. McConnell," Beshear said in the letter sent Wednesday.

"As Governor, and a fellow public official who understands the commitment we've made to the people we serve, I am requesting the Senator provide an update on his current health status. Allowing speculation to continue in the media is not fair to the Senator or to Kentuckians, and my hope is that this provides him the opportunity to share the information in a transparent manner, direct from the source. I wish him a safe and speedy recovery."

The request for information comes after Sen. McConnell was admitted to hospital on June 14 following a medical emergency at his home. Since then, limited information has been shared from the senator's office.

The governor's office said Beshear reached out directly to McConnell's office because of increasing speculation about the senator's health.

On Tuesday, McConnell's office issued a news release pointing to social media posts from individuals who had recent conversations with the 83-year-old former Senate Majority Leader, including CNN political analyst and McConnell ally Scott Jennings.

"I spoke to my old friend Mitch McConnell this morning, the senior Senator from Kentucky," Jennings posted on "X." He's still recovering in the hospital. We talked for just shy of 20 minutes ... about IRAN, UKRAINE, the unfolding situation in MAINE, my visit to the TR Presidential Library, and even a little bit of Senate history. I told him we want to see him back at work as soon as possible."

The release also repeated a statement from Tuesday that, "Senator McConnell appreciates the outpouring of support he's receiving while he continues his recovery in the hospital. The Senator continues to improve and is working closely with his staff on Kentucky and Senate matters while the Senate is out of session."

Elaine Chao, McConnell's wife, said later Tuesday after returning to the U.S. from China in a statement that her ailing husband's health "did not warrant an immediate return."

"The secretary was on a long-planned trip in China to support her family's philanthropic endeavors," a statement attributed to a spokesperson said. "During the trip, she met with a number of people, including the US ambassador. The Senator's health did not warrant an immediate return to the U.S."

FRANKFORT, Ky. (KT) – Kentucky Secretary of State Michael Adams has announced the launch of the Kentucky Time Capsule Project, a statewide initiative commemorating America's 250th anniversary.

The time capsule and a copy of the Declaration of Independence from the Secretary of State's office.

As the nation marks this historic milestone,

Kentuckians have a unique opportunity to reflect on who we are as a commonwealth and what we want future generations to remember about this moment in our history.

The Kentucky Time Capsule Project invites Kentuckians from every corner of the state to contribute their voices, stories, photographs, artwork and hopes for the future. Those interested in submitting can do so through the Secretary of State's website at sos.ky.gov.

"Housed in a modified traditional Kentucky bourbon barrel, the time capsule symbolizes both our rich heritage and our shared commitment to the future," said Adams. "We hope this project inspires Kentuckians to reflect on their role in democracy and civic life."

When the time capsule is opened in 25 years, it will provide a snapshot of Kentucky and America during this pivotal chapter in our nation's story. Kentuckians are encouraged to participate and help preserve the state's history for future generations.

The bourbon barrel time capsule will travel across Kentucky throughout the year and will ultimately house the winning entries from the Secretary of State's 2026 annual essay and slogan contests.

Prominent Kentuckians have been invited to offer their contributions to the barrels, including U.S. Sens. Mitch McConnell and Rand Paul, and Lt. Gov. Jacqueline Coleman with others to be announced soon. The University of Kentucky Athletics department will participate in the project, as will other partners to be announced.

he first stop for the Time Capsule will be at Somerset Community College now through July 19 for their Master Musicians Festival. Kentuckians will also have the opportunity to view the barrel in person at this year's Kentucky State Fair, which runs August 20-30.

Following its statewide tour, the barrel will be permanently housed in the Office of the Secretary of State until it is opened in 2051.

July is Cut Flower Month in Kentucky

By TOM LATEK
Kentucky Today

FRANKFORT, Ky. (KT) – A bit of sunshine in the form of some fresh cut Kentucky-grown flowers was handed out to students and staff at Stewart Home and School in Frankfort Monday to celebrate July as Cut Flower Month in Kentucky.

“The beauty Kentucky’s cut-flower industry adds to our great state is measured in more than dollars,” Commissioner Shell said. “Flowers, especially those grown in Kentucky, can brighten up a day, celebrate milestones, and speak when words are inadequate. In July, we celebrate what Kentucky’s farmer-florists provide for consumers. Having the chance to provide that little bit of sunshine to some special people today, really emphasizes the power of flowers.”

Agriculture Commissioner Jonathan Shell hands out flowers at Stewart Home and School in Frankfort on Monday. (Kentucky Department of Agriculture photo)

Sunflowers, zinnias, peonies, and an assortment of greenery, were donated by three Kentucky cut-flower farms including Double H Farms and Chickapoo Farm, both of Shelby County, and Hippy Chick Roots, from Hart County.

Approximately 80 percent of cut flowers are imported for U.S.

markets, yet Kentucky farm conditions are well-suited for high-quality commercial production. Cut flower farms have become one of the state’s fastest-growing specialty crops, with the number of farms growing cut flowers more than doubling between 2017 and 2022.

Today, Kentucky is home to 233 commercial cut-flower farms working 220 acres and producing $2.2 million in flowers each year. Most of these farms are small, family-run operations that sell directly to their neighbors through farmers’ markets, roadside stands, florists, and online platforms.

Kentucky flower

farmers have built two marketing collectives, the Kentucky Flower Market and the Southern Kentucky Floral Exchange, that together connect more than 50 farms with florists and consumers across the state. Since 2023, the Southern Kentucky Floral Exchange has sold more than 182,000 Kentucky-grown stems. At Kentucky Flower Market, we believe flower farmers should spend more time in the field than behind the wheel,” said Kayla Carey with Kentucky Flower Market. “This Kentucky Cut Flower Month, we’re proud to celebrate the more than 30 Kentucky flower farms we support by connecting them with florists and flower lovers through one marketplace, helping growers spend less time selling and more time growing.”

To help customers find Kentucky operations, the University of Kentucky Center for Crop Diversification (CCD) has produced an interactive, online map at <https://uk-horticulture.github.io/KY-Cut-Flowers/>. New farms are being added frequently and there may even be a flower farm close to you that doesn’t yet appear on the map.

Highway speed limits being strictly enforced

By TOM LATEK
Kentucky Today

FRANKFORT, Ky. (KT) – During the summer travel season, Kentucky highway safety officials are encouraging drivers to slow down and obey posted speed limits to help keep everyone on the road safe.

The Kentucky Transportation Cabinet, along with law enforcement statewide, are teaming up to promote safer roads through education and speed enforcement.

“Slowing down could save a life,” said Gov. Andy Beshear. “This summer, let’s all do our part to keep each other safe by abiding by speed limits and looking out for one another on the road.”

Higher speeds increase crash severity and reduce the time drivers have to react to hazards such as stopped traffic, road debris, highway workers, pedestrians, bicyclists and motorcyclists. Even five miles over the speed limit can make a difference between avoiding a hazard and a life-altering crash.

Speeding and aggressive driving are major contributors to roadway fatalities. In 2025, around one-third of all traffic fatalities in Kentucky involved a speeding or aggressive driver. In response, the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet’s Office of Highway Safety (KOHS) is partnering with law enforcement agencies statewide to implement the “Not So Fast, Kentucky” speed awareness campaign now through July 31. With funding from the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, KOHS distributes full-year grants to law enforcement agencies that applied.

To support year-round enforcement efforts and safety campaigns, KOHS has distributed more than 50 handheld radar units and more than 150 dash-mounted radar units to grantees over the past three years to enhance safety.

“Speed limits are in place to protect everyone on the road,” said Kentucky Transportation Cabinet Secretary Rebecca Goodman. “We’re asking drivers to slow down and stay alert, especially as more workers are out in construction work zones improving roads and bridges for travelers.”

To further increase safety in work zones for Kentucky drivers and construction crews, the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet (KYTC) began using automated speed enforcement devices in select active highway work zones in late fall of 2025.

As construction season continues, drivers need to stay alert and use extra caution in work zones. A work zone is any part of the highway where government crews, contractors or utility companies are doing construction, repairs, resurfacing, inspections or maintenance. To keep everyone safe, slow down, watch for signs and stay alert.

VICTORIOUS Living ...in a troubled world

The road to peace: Practice managing the moments

By Teresa LeNeave
leneave2@comcast.net

This world seems to create an atmosphere of anxiety. I'm convinced, a lot of things that people feel are brought on by things we hear. We hear speakers, both religious and political, saying things that are meant to get under our skin. And we let it! People feel overwhelmed. I feel it too, but I think I bring some of it on myself.

What we focus on can overwhelm us. I'm reminded of how Apostle Paul warned us about this topic when he said we should think on whatever is true, honest, just, pure, lovely, and of good report. He said to look for things of virtue (good moral qualities) and of ways to praise (Philippians 4:8). That tells me I have some control over my mind and what I allow to dwell on. The point is, not everything we hear is beneficial. In fact, some of it is downright detrimental. I saw something someone shared on Facebook that said, "Sometimes, I just have to turn off the news and put on a true crime documentary so I can relax". That's a little drastic, but it does say we have a responsibility to protect our own minds.

We say we want good things in our lives but science and the Bible, both, say our thoughts influence and support how we live our lives. The question is, "what are we thinking about?" Where do our thoughts lead us? Are they directing us toward good things or harmful things? Proverbs 4:23 says, "Above all else, keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life".

How do we "keep our heart with all diligence"? For starters, diligence is not giving up. Diligence is to keep on keeping on. It's impossible to stop "hearing" things that are harmful to our hearts, but we can be diligent about NOT dwelling on it. I've had people who have deeply hurt my feelings, but if I let myself dwell on it, I would definitely end up with emotional pain that wouldn't go away. I think managing the moments really matter.

I'm continuing to learn how to manage the moments ... the moments that bring me excess stress and even anger. I think that's what Solomon meant when he said "keep your heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life". Solomon wants us to practice managing the stress moments ... the unhealthy mind moments.

These days, we hear a lot about 'toxic people', but there are toxic conversations, too. The Bible speaks often about guarding both the heart (our inner thoughts) and the mind (how we think, discern and focus). God's message for "managing the moments" is not just to avoid harmful influences, but to actively cultivate a life centered on God.

2 Cor. 10:5 says, "... we take captive every thought to make it obedient to Christ." This suggests actively evaluating thoughts and opinions rather than automatically accepting them. Just because the world creates an atmosphere of anxiety, we don't have to be caught in its trap. We can actively, and intentionally, practice managing the moments of our lives by renewing our minds through God's truth. His words have more power than we realize and it can help us manage the moments.

God's mercy endures forever, but He cannot compromise

By William F Holland Jr.
billyhollandministries.com

For the last two weeks, we have been discussing the afterlife and who will receive it. Most religions are dogmatic about their salvation ideas, and Christianity may be the most narrow theological view of them all. The exclusive view that following Jesus Christ is the only way to heaven has always been under scrutiny, and I'm facing this hostility today more than ever. I hear arguments such as: how could a loving and merciful God send anyone to an eternal hell just because they chose the wrong religion? Consider the billions of individuals who have embraced the religious path of their families simply because they trust what they have been taught. We read stories of God's strictness and how His truth cannot compromise, but human nature still hopes He is lenient and forgiving.

This subject has been on my heart lately, and I even had a dream the other night where I saw an endless multitude crying and agonizing, which was disturbing. I woke up, and my first thought was that I was seeing what it would be like at the judgment – they knew it was too late. This brings me to some important questions of my own: Since most Christians accept there is only one Savior who declared, "I am the way, the truth, and the life," why aren't we more broken-hearted about those who do not know Him? If we really believed the majority of the world would suffer eternal punishment because they are not born again, then why do we ignore it? Why aren't we praying, and witnessing more, or standing on the street corner preaching the gospel? Or are we just happy for ourselves and not concerned about others? Grieving for the lost is not the same as having pity for those who are not blessed like us. We are called to demonstrate our faith by our works, or our love is nothing more than an emotional whim.

A popular idea about salvation is that everyone has the free will to choose whatever they want to believe. This, in turn, makes each individual responsible for where they will spend eternity. The call of Christians to evangelize the world is more focused on those who have never heard about Christ, rather than trying to convince someone to abandon their religion and become a Christian. However, we are reminded of the analogy of having a cure for a deadly plague and hiding it. Is the gospel the power unto salvation or is it not? Maybe this is a subconscious excuse to not meddle in other people's business and just be glad you have the antidote. There is also a view that is opposite to the free-will philosophy, called predestination. Some Christians believe that before the world was created, God selected certain ones to be saved, which causes a lot of hostility from those who argue this is not fair. The response is that God has sovereign authority and can do whatever He wants.

If the doctrine of election is true, this would explain the lack of missionary support, personal evangelism, and weeping over the lost, since eternal salvation has already been decided. I personally have a hard time with this view, as the Bible discusses the importance of faith and personal choice. This brings up another simple question, which is whether a person believes what the Bible says. Some believe that when God leaves the ninety-nine and rescues the one, it means reconciling all humans to spend eternity with Him, but others say this is not the correct context. Between the tsunamis of religious interpretations and the critics that declare the Bible is not divinely inspired and does not really mean what it says, it's easy to see how religious pluralism, universalism, and even annihilationism is growing.

If all the passages about spiritual discipline and sacrifice, along with the small gate and a narrow road that leads to life, and only a few will find it, are discarded as an exaggeration, then it's easy to see how the rebellious human nature has created its own non-threatening version of salvation. It's true, everyone wants to go to heaven, but just how strict is God when it comes to sending invitations? Do you see Him as lenient, sneaking a few favorites through the back door? His truth cannot bend or make deals. According to the Bible, the overwhelming majority of every person who has ever lived will suffer forever. Not only all unbelievers, but every person of every other religion that has ever existed.

OUTDOOR Truths

I am a sports fan. I don't watch much television, but when I do, it's normally around some sporting event. During the past few weeks, it's been golf majors and some WNBA. And then there's also the largest sporting event in the world. The FIFA World Cup. International football. Or what Americans call soccer. And while I'm not a big soccer fan, I have found myself following this tournament, mainly because this year's event is in the United States. This tournament only happens every four years, and this year's event will include 48 teams from all over the world. Over one billion people will be watching, worldwide. At this writing, America has made it to the round of 16. Go USA! What has gripped me more than anything else, however, is how all our foreign guests keep going on with the hospitality of our people. Whether they are talking about the people in Dallas, Atlanta, Pittsburgh, Kansas City, or the 12 other host cities, the common theme is that they could not believe how friendly, accommodating, and helpful Americans have been. They almost always follow those glowing comments by saying, "That's not what our leaders and media led us to believe." And many of these people described the U.S. as a more friendly and welcoming place than their own country. They felt what I believe most Americans do very naturally. Love other people. Now we may not call it love. But that is how our actions were interpreted. And because we did what comes naturally, our neighbors were drawn to us. Even the players from Iran, despite the tensions between our nations, left a handwritten note to the people of Los Angeles thanking the city for its hospitality and expressing a desire for peace and respect among nations. All of this has not only been amazing to me but has given me so much to think about.

One thing I think about is that most of the common people in every country want to live in harmony with others. I think this is inherent because we are all made in the Image of God. Another thing worth remembering is that nearly all media are in the business for profit. And there is nothing wrong with profiting. But we all have to realize that our major news sources tend to report on what has the greatest potential to make them a profit. And then there are the governments - each one made up of people who are often driven by power and personal prosperity, unlike the Jills and Joes who live under their reign. But of all the images that came to mind, the most compelling was the one that led me to the words of Jesus. "A new command I give you: Love one another. As I have loved you, so you must love one another. By this everyone will know that you are my disciples, if you love one another." I can't correct every false view of my faith that someone here or even in another country might promote. I can't always explain my beliefs so that others can understand. I can't always defend against those who use Christianity as a tool for power or prosperity. But I can, by my actions, love the people God chooses to bring into my life, whether they are with me for a lifetime or just a moment. And if I do that, perhaps they'll leave saying that the ways of Jesus and His followers were not what they thought them to be. They're better. Go USA!

PHONY PEACE

Bro. Brandon G. Bramlett
Bandana Baptist Church

"Do you know how to blow up balloons, Brandon?" the surgical staff asked. Of course I knew how—I wasn't a sissy. In fact, one of my proudest moments as a kid was inflating a balloon by myself. But, instead of handing me a bright balloon to enjoy, the medical team strapped a mask on my face and instructed me to blow into it like I was inflating a balloon.

They were administering anesthetics through it to knock me out during my tonsillectomy, and after two breaths, I was in Snoozeville.

Anesthesia is a godsend in modern medical advancement.

It is better than chomping down on a hunk of wood or chugging a bottle of whiskey to make painful procedures bearable. But the sedation-induced sleep doesn't last forever, and it doesn't compare to hitting the hay after a long day. The pain-free sleep that anesthesia provides lasts only a few hours until its effects wear off. At best, it offers temporary tranquility and peace that isn't permanent.

The world also offers a perishable peace and spurious serenity that wears off faster than anesthesia. It lasts for only a little while, and then you wake up in distress all over again. The world may tell you that peace comes to those who follow their heart and fulfill their selfish ambitions, but the end result is always dissatisfaction and chaos. The world's prescription for peace is found in pill and beer bottles, but such external things can never produce internal peace in the soul. And the reason the world's peace is fleeting is because it is false.

James warned that pursuing selfish ambitions produces disorder, not peace (James 3:17). Living life for yourself results in death, not a happy and harmonious life: "For to set the mind on the flesh is death, but to set the mind on the Spirit is life and peace" (Rom.

8:6; cf. Isaiah 48:22). And peace cannot be found in drugs or alcohol, as they are simply

"broken cisterns that can hold no water" (Jer. 2:13). True and lasting peace can only come from Jesus: "Peace I leave with you; my peace I give to you. Not as the world gives do I give to you. Let not your hearts be troubled, neither let them be afraid" (John 14:27).

The best the world can offer is anesthesia for your soul. But the "God of peace" will grant you a "peace that surpasses all understanding" if you will trust in Him and believe on His Son, Jesus (2 Thess. 3:6; Phil. 4:7). And Jesus invites you to seek true peace from Him: "Come to me, all who labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest"

(Matt. 11:28-29). What kind of peace do you have: phony or permanent? Do you have

"anesthesia" for your soul, or have you come to Jesus for the real thing?

A - Admit to God That You Are A Sinner

For all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God. - Romans 3:23 Repent, turn away from your sin. - Acts 3:19; 1 John 1:9

B - Believe Jesus Died for Your Sins

For God so loved the world that He gave His one and only son, that WHOEVER believes in Him shall not perish but have eternal life. - John 3:16

C - Confess Jesus is Lord

If you confess with your mouth "Jesus is Lord," and believe in your heart that God raised Him from the dead you will be saved. - Romans 10:9

Coleman joins lawsuit on livestock emissions

By TOM LATEK
 Kentucky Today

FRANKFORT, Ky. (KT) – Attorney General Russell Coleman announced Monday that the state has joined a 25-state coalition and the Trump Administration to protect Kentucky’s farmers from additional bureaucratic paperwork.

The group of attorneys general support the dismissal of what they term a lawsuit filed by extreme activists trying to force farmers to track and report the natural emissions of livestock. A federal court previously upheld the EPA’s common-sense exemption for routine agricultural operations.

According to the brief filed in The D.C. Circuit Court of Appeals, farming, ranching, and related industries contribute more than $1 trillion to the U.S. economy each year. The D.C. Circuit Court is often called the second-most important court in the country, just below the U.S. Supreme Court.

Coleman and the other AGs argue agriculture is a cornerstone of states, and that individual states are best positioned to protect their own farmers. In Kentucky, agriculture contributes over $46 billion to the state economy every year. Kentucky is also the top beef producing state east of the Mississippi River.

“Washington climate activists keep trying to shovel on regulation after regulation onto Kentucky Farmers. Working with Commissioner Jonathan Shell, we have fought back each and every time,” Coleman said. “The people who grow America’s food need less interference from Washington and more freedom to do what they do best.”

“Burdensome regulations have left too many farmers buried in paperwork instead of feeding and fueling our country,” added Kentucky Agriculture Commissioner Jonathan Shell. “I appreciate Attorney General Coleman for defending Kentucky agriculture, and I’m proud to work alongside him to remove unnecessary barriers so our farmers can get back to what they do best.”

Kentucky joined the Utah-led brief along with AGs from Alabama, Alaska, Arkansas, Georgia, Idaho, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Montana, Nebraska, New Mexico, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, West Virginia and Wyoming.

KSP in national best cruiser competition

By TOM LATEK
Kentucky Today

FRANKFORT, Ky. (KT) – Gov. Andy Beshear and the Kentucky State Police are calling on Kentuckians to help power a statewide push in a national competition that celebrates the most eye-catching police cruisers in the country.

KSP has entered the 2026 Best Looking Cruiser Contest, held annually by the American Association of State Troopers (AAST). The contest consists of the public voting on their favorite cruiser photo, with the winning image earning the cover of the association’s 2027 calendar.

“The men and women of the Kentucky State Police represent the very best of public service,” Beshear said. “I encourage every Kentuckian to show their support by voting in this national contest.”

This year, KSP is highlighting the dedication and training required to be a trooper by featuring a 2024 Mustang GT cruiser outside of the KSP Academy in Frankfort, Ky. Beyond its striking design, the image also serves as a tribute to fallen heroes who paid the ultimate sacrifice.

The Kentucky State Police have 39 troopers, officers and patrolmen who lost their lives in the line of duty. Among them was Trooper James W. McNeely who drowned during a rescue mission on the Kentucky River in 1972 and his body was never recovered.

In 2015, the KSP unveiled a nearly 10-foot-tall bronze statue, titled ‘The Trooper’, which is in front of the Academy Building. This statue was created in Trooper McNeely’s likeness and depicts a trooper walking towards the future to serve the citizens of Kentucky.

“This year’s contest photo symbolizes what it means to be a Kentucky State Police trooper, by showcasing the devotion, hard work, commitment and sacrifice that our troopers give to their local communities daily,” stated KSP Commissioner Phillip Burnett, Jr. “We would be humbled and honored to have your vote and support on social media.”

KSP has placed in the top five in the past eight years, taking home back-to-back wins in 2021 and 2022. While the Florida Highway Patrol won the competition last year, Kentucky is ready to take the top spot and needs your help to win it all.

Kentuckians are encouraged to vote for KSP’s entry now through Friday, July 10, at 12:00 p.m. EDT.
