Citywide Cleanups set for this weekend

Mayor Morrell's Citywide Cleanups are just one of the ongoing efforts fulfilling the Clean City 2.0 initiative for a cleaner, safer, more welcoming community.

How do Citywide Cleanups work?

Central Location Dropoff All Marion residents may drop unwanted items off at the Central Location—Citywide Maintenance (520 E. 6th St.) anytime between 9am and 2pm during Cleanup days. *ID is required for proof of residence.

Numerous dumpsters are provided by the City of Marion at the Central Location. Litter grabbers, trash bags, gloves, and other resources are also available to citizens who need them. A pizza lunch is served at Noon, on a first come, first serve basis.

Special Curbside Pickup

(segmented each Cleanup) Special Curbside Pickup service is a component of Citywide Cleanups, serving one section of the city at each Cleanup. Before each Citywide Cleanup, the City announces a designated Curbside Pickup section for that weekend. *Residents must have items at their curbs no later than 9am that Saturday morning as Citywide Maintenance crews start early and work all day Saturday, break on Sunday, and sometimes continue to pick up on Monday or even Tuesday of that following week depending on inclement weather and amount of trash. All residents outside the designated section each time are asked to take unwanted items to the Central Location and not set them out at their curb. City crews are doing Curbside Pickup as an added service to citizens.

Activate Your Area
We encourage residents to form groups within their neighborhoods and clean up areas in need, especially on Citywide Cleanup days. For this, we strongly encourage connecting with your neighborhood association leader for direction or ideas. Contacts for all neighborhood associations are found at cityofmarion .in.gov/neighborhoods.

Final Cleanup: 9/20

What Happens in Inclement Weather? Citywide Cleanup

dropoffs happen rain or shine. *Walking cleanup efforts and other projects on Cleanup days are not orchestrated by the City, therefore decision-making based on weather, etc., is at the discretion of those outside individuals or groups.

Statements from Lt. Gov. Micah Beckwith and ISDA Director Lamb on USDA hub announcement

INDIANAPOLIS — The United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) Secretary Brooke Rollins announced a multi-month reorganization plan for USDA to bring the agency's core functions closer to their constituents. As part of this process, Indianapolis was selected as one of the five hubs for staff relocations.

"I'm thrilled the USDA chose Indianapolis as one of its five hubs," Lieutenant Governor Micah Beckwith said. "Having services and decision-makers in the Hoosier state naturally gives our rural communities an advantage in agricultural innovation."

Director Lamb made the following comments after

the announcement:

"I had the pleasure of meeting with Secretary Rollins a few weeks ago regarding the potential USDA reorganization and was proud to represent Indiana alongside my fellow Hoosier agriculture leaders and Senator Jim Banks.

The announcement is a big win for Indiana agriculture and for our farmers who utilize USDA services each day. Home to Corteva Agriscience, Elanco Animal Health and Beck's Hybrids, Indiana has dozens of large and small agribusinesses and research universities, like Purdue University, that maintain the mission of feeding our world and conserving our natural resources

Don Lamb

priorities

Indiana is an agriculture powerhouse, and we know this relocation will only strengthen our industry."

The reorganization consists of four pillars:
Ensure the size of USDA's workforce aligns with available financial resources and agricultural

Bring USDA closer to its customers

Eliminate management layers and bureaucracy Consolidate redundant support functions

VICTORIOUS Juving ... in a troubled world

Prayer enhances love

Teresa LeNeave leneave2@comcast.net

I once read an African proverb that said, "Even an old hen raises its head to heaven when it swallows its grain." I'm wondering, do we take too many blessings for granted? Recently, while studying the book of Revelation, I suddenly realized when my heart cries for God (expresses great love), feelings of gratitude seem to grow. It's like praise enhances love.

In the Bible, created beings praise Him for two things: because he is the Creator and because Jesus was slain for our redemption.

Have you ever loved someone so much that you struggled to put your feelings into mere words? The closest thing we can come up with is, "I love you SO much". Or, when someone does something really nice for us, the most we can say is: "I just can't thank you enough". Somehow, we have no words to express our deepest gratitude to another person.

In the history of the United States we read where George Washington was immensely popular after the Revolutionary war. Everyone was ready for him to be king or dictator. He could have taken any title he wanted, but instead he chose to share his glory and go a different route that involved a democracy that gave all the people a voice. That was his way of showing gratitude for freedom. He had the political backing to be a dictator, but he chose to show his thankfulness by sharing his glory.

From what I understand in scripture, Jesus actually wants to share His glory with us, too. He has already won the victory for Himself, but He wants to share His glory by making us rulers as well. That's what Revelation 5: 9-10 says: He has made us kings and priest.

In Revelation 4, heavenly beings sing with great devotion and adoration to God as their voices ring in unison, "You are worthy, our Lord and God, to receive glory and honor and power. For YOU CREATED all things. And, by Your will, they were created and have their being (Rev: 4:11). These beings sing this over and over and over.

The next scene unfolds as another song of devotion is being sung: "You are worthy to take the scroll and to open its seals, because You were slain, and with Your blood You purchased men for God - from every tribe and language and people and nation. You made them to be a kingdom and priests to serve our God, and they will reign on the earth" (Rev. 5 9-10)

What a wonderful thing to praise God for: Because He created us. Because He was slain for us. Because He has a future plan for us. We often hear how far gratitude takes us toward a better life on earth. The same is true with God. Praise enhances love – love that goes both ways. God to you and you to God. Praise is like a sponge dipped in warm water. ...it swells and swells until the heart is filled with love.

Heroes without capes or superpowers

By Dr. Billy Holland

We hear a lot about heroes these days. Accomplished athletes are admired as idols for throwing around a ball, while actors in blockbuster movies portray individuals who can fly and use their incredible powers to save the universe. However, in the real world, it's encouraging to know there are humble and hardly noticed genuine heroes all around us. Without a desire to be praised or even recognized. there are selfless good Samaritans who are willing to sacrifice their lives so that others can live, a testament to John 15:13. The following story is an example of these heavenly secret agents.

Irena Sendler was a Polish nurse and social worker who worked in the Warsaw health department during World War II. In a short window of time between 1942 and 1943, she, along with a small band of co-workers, led a courageous effort within the Warsaw ghetto to secretly smuggle at least 2,500 Jewish babies and children away from facing the certainty of the German concentration camps. She and her small team of helpers were members of Zegota, an underground organization established in 1940 by the Polish government for the purpose of rescuing Polish Jews. The team was given permission by the Nazis to enter the ghetto to help segregate the city's 380,000 Jews, and this was the window of opportunity that helped with the dangerous undercover plan to secretly smuggle babies and young children to safety.

The Zegota used every idea possible to rescue the innocent, which included hiding them in toolboxes and under gurneys, sneaking them into ambulances, taking them through sewer pipes or other underground passageways, wheeling them out in suitcases, and leading them out through an old courtyard which led to the non-Jewish areas. Irena carefully recorded the names of the children on cigarette papers and sealed them in glass bottles, which she buried in a colleague's flower garden. After the war, the jars were dug up and the lists handed over to Jewish representatives. Attempts were made to reunite the children with their families, but sadly, most of the parents had perished in the Treblinka death

Irena was arrested in October 1943 and taken to Gestapo headquarters where she was interrogated to surrender information about the leaders of Zegota. She endured severe beatings which included her legs and feet being broken. With orders to be executed, (with what many consider to be a miracle from Heaven), a secret deal was made at the last minute between Zegota and her wouldbe executioner, and she was released. Irena was later found unconscious along the side of the road and had to use crutches for the rest of her life as a result of her injuries.

One of the 2500 names placed in the jars was Michal Glowinski, who became a professor of literature. He said, "I fondly think about her and owe my life to her." Elzbieta Ficowska was another name who came forward to sav how eternally grateful she was for the heroic actions of the Zegota team. In her case, she had been smuggled out of the ghetto inside a large toolbox when she was just five months old.

Unlike the German industrialist Oskar Schindler, who saved more than 1,000 Jews by employing them at his Krakow factory and is widely recognized thanks to an awardwinning book and film, Mrs. Sendler's story remained relatively unknown until a few years ago when it was discovered in America by a group of Kansas school children who wrote a play about it called "Life in a Jar." Word spread very quickly, and now the world is aware of her and her team saving many defenseless victims of the Nazi ideology. When interviewed, Irena sternly insisted she did nothing special and is quoted as saying, "I was brought up to believe that a person must be rescued when drowning, regardless of religion and nationality. The thought of being considered a hero irritates me greatly as I continue to have pangs within my conscience that I did so little. My emotions are overshadowed by the fact that my faithful co-workers, who also constantly risked their lives, did not live long enough to share their sorrow for those they could not save." She spent her last years in a Warsaw nursing home and passed away in 2008. "Do nothing from selfishness or empty conceit, but with humility of mind regard one another as more important than yourselves; do not merely look out for your own personal interests, but also for the interests of others" Philippians 2:3-4.

Farewell to the flesh

Bro. Brandon G. Bramlett Pastor - Bandana

Pastor - Bandana Baptist Church

The house was deserted and devoid of life. The front door was cracked open, the once-attractive exterior color had retired to a glum grayish-brown, and the silence of death packed the halls. The bubbling tide washed this abandoned residence right up to my feet—it was a suntanned shell, formerly occupied by a hermit crab that vacated it during molting. There comes a moment in every hermit crab's life when they must depart their old shell in search of a new one. These ten-legged crustaceans do not typically die when they surrender their obsolete housing to the ocean—they simply move on and move into an upgraded version.

The time will come when every Christian must say goodbye to the shell of their old flesh as well. The body is merely a temporary residence and the tide of death will bury your mortal frame six feet beneath a headstone. But the real you—your soul, that is—will live on. If you believe that the death of Christ was the deathblow to death, the earthen vessel of your body is all that truly dies (cf. John 11:25). You will bid adieu to your old shell and live in the eternal presence of the Author of life (Phil. 1:23), and the Lord shall grant you a new and improved body when He returns: "[Jesus] will transform our lowly body to be like his glorious body, by the power that enables him even to subject all things to himself" (Phil. 3:21).

A believer's death, therefore, is not the end. It is simply the end of living in the fragile shell of the flesh. "For we know," promised Paul, "that if the tent that is our earthly home is destroyed, we have a building from God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens. For in this tent we groan, longing to put on our heavenly dwelling" (2 Cor. 5:1-2). And the new shell will be unlike anything you have ever known before: "Behold! I tell you a mystery. We shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed, in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trumpet. For the trumpet will sound, and the dead will be raised imperishable, and we shall be changed. For this perishable body must put on the imperishable, and this mortal body must put on immortality" (1 Cor.

15:51-53).

A now-omitted stanza in the cherished hymn Sweet Hour of Prayer, written by William W. Walford (1772-1850), puts it splendidly:

"May I thy consolation share,

Till, from Mount Pisgah's lofty height,

I view my home and take my flight:

This robe of flesh I'll drop and rise

To seize the everlasting prize."

(Here's one from a few years ago that I just needed to share again)

Next week I'm going on my annual trip to Missouri. I've been hunting deer there for years and have some wonderful friends there.

My memories are many. I think about everything from the times of extreme weather (one time I hunted without a shirt) to trying to find my lost deer with a famous deer dog, that happened to be a dachshund.

I can remember seeing some monster bucks just out of range and missing some within range. But no matter what the past held; I still look forward to going back each year.

My present

memory, however, is one of only a couple of years ago. I was a few weeks away from knee surgery to repair a torn meniscus.

My memory is of constant pain, especially as I walked to and from my tree stand. Even though the walks were not long, the effort it took to make them seemed especially difficult and slow. As I made those trips each day, I was always reminded of a title to a book I saw one time. It was called "Leading With A Limp." And while I never read that book (I probably should) I imagined a plethora of subjects the author might be trying to convev.

Here's what leading with a limp means to

It means every

Leading with a Limp

leader is imperfect. We have difficulties, inabilities, failures, discouragements, disappointments, and insecurities. And while none of these stop us, they cripple us enough to cause us to lean on something we could not do without.

They also humble us, making us realize the possibility of any success comes from places beyond ourselves. Limping leadership also slows us done in order to make sure we never outpace those we are called to lead. After all, leaders are only leaders if they have followers. And Limping leaders love more because we become more patient and understanding with everyone else's disability. Our example of this kind of leadership in the New Testament is Paul. He had a limp and asked God to take it away. God didn't for some of the same reasons I mention above. Here's how Paul recalls his prayer.

Three times I pleaded with the Lord to take it away from me. But he said to me, "My grace is sufficient for you, for my power is made perfect in weakness." Therefore, I will boast all the more gladly about my weaknesses, so that Christ's power may rest on me. That is why, for Christ's sake, I delight in weaknesses, in insults, in hardships, in persecutions, in difficulties. For when I am weak, then I am strong. (2 Corinth 12:8-10 NIV)

It is believed Paul wrote most of the New Testament. He did it with a limp. That means your limp does not disqualify you. It is the most important part of your resume.

Irena was arrested in October 1943 and taken to Gestapo headquarters where she was interrogated to surrender information about the leaders of Zegota. She endured severe beatings which included her legs and feet being broken. With orders to be executed, (with what many consider to be a miracle from Heaven), a secret deal was made at the last minute between Zegota and her wouldbe executioner, and she was released. Irena was later found unconscious along the side of the road and had to use crutches for the rest of her life as a result of her injuries.

One of the 2500 names placed in the jars was Michal Glowinski, who became a professor of literature. He said, "I fondly think about her and owe my life to her." Elzbieta Ficowska was another name who came forward to say how eternally grateful she was for the heroic actions of the Zegota team. In her case, she had been smuggled out of the ghetto inside a large toolbox when she was just five months old.

Unlike the German industrialist Oskar Schindler, who saved more than 1,000 Jews by employing them at his Krakow factory and is widely recognized thanks to an award-winning book and film, Mrs. Sendler's story remained relatively unknown until a few years ago when it was discovered in America by a group of Kansas school children who wrote a play about it called "Life in a Jar." Word spread very quickly, and now the world is aware of her and her team saving many defenseless victims of the Nazi ideology. When interviewed, Irena sternly insisted she did nothing special and is quoted as saying, "I was brought up to believe that a person must be rescued when drowning, regardless of religion and nationality. The thought of being considered a hero irritates me greatly as I continue to have pangs within my conscience that I did so little. My emotions are overshadowed by the fact that my faithful co-workers, who also constantly risked their lives, did not live long enough to share their sorrow for those they could not save." She spent her last years in a Warsaw nursing home and passed away in 2008. "Do nothing from selfishness or empty conceit, but with humility of mind regard one another as more important than yourselves; do not merely look out for your own personal interests, but also for the interests of others" Philippians 2:3-4.

When an entire family commits to full time ministry, they must be committed, called, and unified

We see music as the medium... in which to tell others of God's unfailing love.

When every member of a family commits to full-time ministry on the road, they must be committed, called, and unified. That's the exact description someone would give The Mylon Hayes Family once they meet, whether at home or abroad. Based out of Hudson, North Carolina, the family's roots are all about the Lord, Gospel Music and edifying the church. Mylon, originally from Boone, North Carolina, spent most of his life singing with his parent's fulltime ministry, The Hayes Family. Wendy, a native of Morganton, North Carolina grew up singing solos at church and is no stranger to music ministry herself. In 1995, the couple married and God has blessed them with three children, who now minister with them full time – twin sons, Conner and Bailey, and their daughter, Kennedy.

This family's desire is to lift up the Lord with the music they sing, pointing people to the Cross. Jesus said in John 12:32 "And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me". He was lifted up on that cross and took our punishment because of His great love for us all. The Mylon Hayes Family hope you see Jesus and realize His great love for you in the songs they sing and the words they say.

****** Phillips & Banks is a progressive southern gospel quartet from the beautiful mountains of East Tennessee. Married couples, Jacob and Carmen Phillips and Caleb and Autumn Banks bring a collectively distinctive and smooth sound to their music that sets them apart. In October of 2017, the two couples forged the quartet with common backgrounds in worship leading and ministry performance arts. They strive to communicate the hope and forgiveness that can be found through a relationship with Jesus as well as encourage and spur on fellow believers to live for Him. The Lord has truly opened up many doors of opportunity over the almost five years of the group's existence to bring the hope of Christ to churches across their region.

Phillips & Banks strives to minister with authentic and transparent testimonies and music that speaks from each of their personal relationships with the Lord. The group wrote many of the songs that are on their first

Phillips & Banks

self-titled project and continue to write as the Lord inspires. Through their performance of an original song, "Stuck in the Wilderness", the Lord provided them a Daywind Studios recording package at the Bowling Fest Talent Competition in London, KY in May 2018. The album they won entitled, "A Few of our Favorites", was released at the end of October 2018. In May of 2019, the group participated in Gospel Music FanFair in Somerset, KY, and an anonymous person in attendance set up and paid for the group to record an album at Counterpoint Recording Studios in Atlanta, GA. Through that person's generosity, their album, "A Thrill of Hope: A Christmas Collection" was released in October of 2019. Phillips & Banks' last original project, "This Is Your Day", was released in mid 2020 and produced by Matthew Browder. The group feels this project written by Autumn. Their latest project, "Sing Them Again", is a collection of hymns and old songs along with a new song written by Jacob and Carmen's daughter, Olivia! The Lord has been more than faithful to them, and they know with such favor comes great responsibility! Wherever the Lord takes them, the one thing they hope contains songs that reflect both their heart

and their musical styles

and includes two songs will always ring true of their ministry is that, "in every endeavor, may we be found worthy to bear the name of Jesus, but by His righteousness alone. To God be the glory!"
