Mayfield Cardinals Roll Past Caldwell County, Stay Unbeaten in District

By: Laurna Todd; KPI WRITER

The Mayfield Cardinals extended their unbeaten streak in district play Friday night with a dominant 52-0 victory over the Caldwell County Tigers during Fight Night. From the opening kickoff, the Cardinals controlled the game, steadily increasing their lead throughout the first half and continuing to widen the gap in the second. The offense was in sync, moving the ball efficiently and consistently finding the end zone. Ashton Flynt capped off the night with a standout performance, adding a highlight to the team's already impressive showing.

Defensively, Mayfield kept Caldwell County off balance all night, preventing any momentum and limiting scoring opportunities. With this decisive win, the Cardinals maintain their status as one of the top teams in the district and are looking to carry their momentum forward. With a two-week break before their next game, head coach expressed confidence the team will return focused and prepared for their October 17 matchup against Trigg County. Friday's performance reinforced Mayfield's skill, depth, and determination, signaling a tough chal-

Mother Goose Academy Employee Court Case in Mayfield Begins

By Kelsey Edwards KPI Editor

The first court appearance for Morgan Weaver, the Mother Goose Academy employee who was charged with a misdemeanor took place on October 1, 2025. A pre-trial conference has been set for three weeks and will take place on Wednesday, October 22, 2025 in Graves County District Court at 9:30 a.m. Amanda Jones, the facility owner confirmed an accidental fall involving an infant in the Mother Goose Mayfield preschool and child care center. The situation is currently under investigation by the Mayfield Police Department and the Cabinet for Health and Family Services (CHFS) and in the meantime Weaver has been suspended pending the outcome of the case.

Mother Goose Academy reported the incident in early September to the CHFS agency. Nathan Kent, the Mayfield Police Chief stated that his agency had also opened an investigation and according to Officer Workman with the Mayfield PD, Weaver was charged with second-degree wanton endangerment related to the incident. Weaver has had no prior criminal history, and was issued a summons instead of being arrested. Workman did confirm that the parents of the 6-month-old infant were the ones who notified MPD upon finding minor but visible injuries on their child. A Benton

Police Officer, Peyton Jackson, and the father of the infant, said he originally alerted CHFS and that the incident was not self-reported. Due to their daughter not yet mobile, Jackson said he and his wife had already suspected something had transpired at the daycare. The facility did not inform either parent of the incident until several

Graves & Mayfield School Districts Slightly Increase School Tax Rate

By Kelsey Edwards KPI Editor

The Graves County Schools (GCS) and the Mayfield Independent Schools (MIS) has recently announced a slight tax rate increase at roughly 1.3% and 5.3%. Both of the superintendents from the school districts stated that these are reasonable rates considering the market, the operation costs, and other external circumstances. Taxes that are set by school districts annually are primarily based on local property values, along with budget requirements, and how much revenue is needed from taxpayers. The rate is an annual rate which means it spans the academic year.

The Graves County Board of Education decided on a tax of 45.2 cents per $100 of assessed property value for the 2025-2026 school year, which raised six-tenths of one cent from last fiscal year's 46.2 cents. While the actual difference is the aforementioned 1.3%, Matthew Madding the GCS superintendent said that the rate would be commonly referred to as 4% for the revenue it's expected to generate. He continued saying, the district's tax rate naturally fluctuates throughout the years because it has to remain consistent with the overall county property assessments and a reliable revenue stream. Madding stated that the 4% revenue rate is estimated to generate approximately an additional $300,000 for the district, however, that doesn't mean the funds are for excessive means. The funds cover recurring expenses that continue to trend upward, such as utility bills and insurance. For new projects such as the multipurpose athletic facility or similar budget expenditures, Madding said current financial standing with zero consideration to the district's tax rate and stated that there are building funds that can be used for capital projects. Madding said. Madding went on to say that setting the tax rate is a complicated endeavor that entails balancing previous economics with anticipated trends. As an example, GCS must remain competitive with surrounding districts' salaries to recruit quality personnel. He said the board's priority is to invest back into the community, and it maintains an equitable set of opportunities for the full range of students. He continued saying, "We've tried to live within the smaller increases and be as fiscally responsible as possible, but when you want to have a high-quality school system where you're providing opportunities for every student, when you're retaining high-quality individuals to work with our students, there is a cost that's associated with that."

For the Mayfield Independent Schools, the rate shifted to 72.1 cents per $100 of assessed property for this academic year from last year's 68.5 cents. That applies to the property within the district bounds of five square miles. Billy Edwards, the Mayfield Independent Schools Superintendent stated that the rate is based on an option from KY House Bill 940 and recommended by the Kentucky Department of Education to maximize tier one funding. Edwards continued to say that the Support Education Excellence in Kentucky (SEEK) formula determines the financial responsibility for the state and district. To ensure equitable education, the SEEK formula accounts for the number of students and those factors. He said, "The KDE recommendation is to get our funding back in line with the SEEK formula." Edwards also added that the 72.1 figure was also adopted by the MIS from 2016-2017 through 2022-2023. "There was a federal funding uncertainty at the beginning of the school year, and those federal funds did come through, but they were lighter than usual. It's hard to predict what that's going to look like next year," said Edwards. He also echoed Madding, stating that the insurance rates have spiked. It was stated that the district's property insurance was $87,000 in 2022 and inflated to $571,489 in 2025, meaning that in the past three years, there has been about a 557% increase. The liability and fleet insurance, which is separate from the property insurance, was $134,892 in 2023 and for this year, 2025, is $239,953. Edwards stated that MIS strives to fairly compensate and accommodate the district's faculty and staff. He stated, "We want to stay competitive with area school districts. The 1% raise we did cost the district around $125,000. We've also added the benefit of paid maternity leave for employees. Edwards elaborated on some of the new expenses, many being necessitated by state standards and mandates, that influenced the tax increase which include school resource officers, technology upgrades, facility maintenance, guidance counselors, special needs support, and academic programs like Leader in Me. Billy Edwards said the tax funds and resources they secure ultimately support the district's mission for the success of the students.

$7.75 million for bridge project grants announced

FRANKFORT, Ky. (KT) – Gov. Andy Beshear has announced the latest round of funding recipients from the County and City Bridge Improvement Program, awarding $7.75 million for 17 critical bridge projects in 13 Kentucky counties and three cities.

The funding will repair, replace or preserve bridges to improve safety, extend their lifespan, remove lengthy detours and maintain important community links for Kentuckians.

Kentucky's bridges don't just connect roads, they connect our families to their jobs, schools and communities." Beshear said. "While construction may seem like a hassle, these projects will mean safer travel, fewer traffic delays, and more potholes getting fixed. These are good things for Kentuckians."

Local Awards will be issued to the following recipients: --Calloway County Fiscal Court

- --Crittenden County Fiscal Court
- --Graves County Fiscal Court
- --Livingston County Fiscal Court --Marion County Fiscal
- --McCracken County

Fiscal Court --Trigg County Fiscal Court

-- Union County Fiscal Court

This fourth round of awards funds 12 bridge replacements and five bridges that will be repaired or preserved to extend the life of existing structures. All 17 bridges are currently closed or posted with weight restrictions. Kentucky Transportation Cabinet (KYTC) engineers reviewed and validated each project to ensure the most effective solution

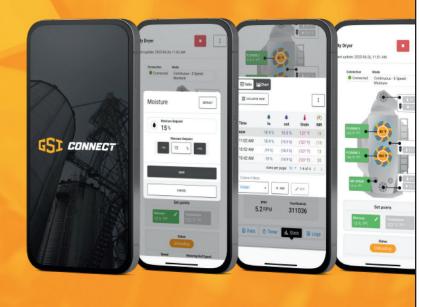

"With these awards, we're addressing the structures that most urgently need attention, so Kentuckians can travel safely and with confidence," said Transportation Secretary Jim Gray. "Replacing closed bridges and restoring access for school buses and large vehicles makes a big difference not only in time savings but in the quality of life for residents."

Since the first round of funding was announced in 2025, $32.6 million has been awarded to local governments to address bridges that are closed, have posted weight restrictions or are in need of repairs.

HELP STAMP OUT BREAST CANCER

KENTUCKY —
October is Breast
Cancer Awareness
Month, and the U.S.
Postal Service is reminding customers that they can help fund the cause by purchasing the Breast Cancer
Research stamp.

These 90-cent selfadhesive semipostal stamps are available year-round in sheets of 20 to help raise funds for breast cancer research. Each stamp is equal to the First-Class Mail 1-ounce postage rate. The stamps are available at Post Offices nationwide, online at usps.com, by mail order through the USA Philatelic catalog or by calling 800-STAMP-24 (800-782-6724).

The stamp has raised about $98 million since its release in 1998.

The amount the Postal Service contributes to breast cancer research is determined by the difference between the 90-cent purchase price and the First-Class Mail rate in effect at the time of purchase, minus any costs incurred by USPS. The distribution of the Postal Service contribution is specified by law, with 70 percent given to the National Institutes of Health and 30 percent given to the medical research program at the Department of a cure for breast cancer. Legislation was reauthorized by the Stamp Out Breast Cancer Reauthorization Act of 2019, which extended the stamp's sale authority through 2027.

In addition to the Breast Cancer Research stamp, the Postal Service offers three other fundraising stamps. The Save Vanishing Species semipostal stamp, first issued in 2011; the Alzheimer's semipostal stamp, issued in 2017; and the Healing PTSD semipostal stamp, issued in 2019.

All four stamps help raise money for causes in the national public interest and are available for purchase yearround.

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Vince Whaley stepped into the water to play a shot and a 6-foot spectator with a full set of teeth was watching closely. He still turned his back on the alligator and saved par.

Battling nearly 80 of the Regions 1-4 best female golfers, Glisson's 5 over par 77 was 4th best of the day. It was the first high school competition that the Lady Bomber golfer finished over par this season. Marshall County's Trinity Beth used the home course advantage and was the only player shooting under par finishing with a 5 under par 67. The Ballard Memorial senior Glisson struggled in the middle portions of the front 9. She had a pair of bogeys and a double bogey on holes 4, 5, and 6 to drop to 4 over par. She regained form and got her first birdie of the day on hole 10 to begin the back 9 to pull back to 3 over par. But bogeys on 12, 13, and 15 moved her back to 6 over par.

She rallied back with another birdie on the par 4 16th hole and finished 4th best of the day. Daviess County's Claire Reynolds finished even par to finish 2nd and 2025 All A State Champion and last year's KHSAA state runner up Kenzie Willen was 3rd with a 2 over par 74. Glisson and Bowling Green High School's Mary Douglas Childers tied for 4th place. She has back-to-back state tournament top 10 finishes with an 8th and 4th place results respectively and looks to improve last season's finish by 3 strokes to claim her first overall state championship.

Farmer Aid Reportedly Delayed by Gov't Shutdown

BY: Ryan Hanrahan www.farmpolicynews. illinois.edu

Politico's Grace Yarrow reported that "the Trump administration has pushed back its plans to roll out economic aid for farmers this week due to the government shutdown, according to four people familiar with the talks."

"The Office of Management and Budget has readied between $12 billion and $13 billion to be allocated from an internal USDA account, some of which could be used to fund the bailouts for farmers hurt by President Donald Trump's tariffs and other economic headwinds, according to the four people with knowledge of the decision, all granted anonymity to share private details," Yarrow reported. "No final decision has been made on just how much of the money will go toward farm aid, the people said, and the package won't be coming out any time soon. The timeline has been further delayed because some USDA political appointees have been furloughed during the shutdown."

"Officials have been weighing using tariff revenue, USDA's Commodity Credit Corporation fund and other alternative methods to alleviate farmers' financial stress," Yarrow reported. "There's precedent: Trump tapped USDA's internal fund to dole out $28 billion worth of bailouts during his first-term trade war with China."

"The administration was expected to announce some form of support for farmers Tuesday, as Treasury Secretary Scott Bessent previously teased, but that was put on pause due to ongoing shutdown negotiations," Yarrow reported. "Still, some of the people familiar expect that Trump could go rogue and announce next steps on bailouts this week."

Aid Could Involve Multiple Rounds

Agri-Pulse's Oliver
Ward, Philip Brasher, and Noah Wicks reported that "the Trump administration has quietly moved some $13 billion from a fund used to deliver tariff assistance to farmers in President Trump's first term
to the Agriculture Secretary's office."

"On Sept. 28, the Office of Management and Budget greenlit a $13 billion transfer from the Commodity Credit Corporation to the Office of Secretary Brooke Rollins," Ward, Brasher and Wicks reported. "Asked about the move, the top Senate Ag Committee

appropriator Sen.
John Hoeven, R-N.D., wouldn't say if the money was linked to a forthcoming announcement on tariff assistance. But he told Agri-Pulse,
'We've been working on this, so probably you're not too surprised.'"

"Take note: Hoeven said on Monday that the most likely path forward for tariff assistance would involve multiple steps. The administration, he said, would likely announce some unilateral measures while Congress worked on legislation," Ward, Brasher and Wicks reported. "It won't be just a one-shot deal,' Hoeven said. 'The CCC is already ready to go. That's done. That's squared away, so the administration doesn't need more help there."

"The CCC's borrowing authority has been severely depleted, with some sources saying there could be as little as $4 billion remaining," Ward, Brasher and Wicks reported.
"'That's why it's not going to be just one item,' Hoeven said.
'We'll probably be doing more before the end of the year, which will require, actually, some legislative assistance as well."

How Much Could the Aid Total?

Reuters' Leah
Douglas and Bo
Erickson reported before the delay that the initial round of farmer aid could potentially total "up to $15 billion, according to sources familiar with the matter."

"One of those sources said the bailout would total somewhere between $10 billion and $15 billion, and would be a necessary bridge to get farmers through the harvest months and could be followed by additional aid," Douglas and Erickson reported. "The funds would go to soybean farmers affected by the China trade spat, as well as other types of commodity farmers, though the exact details were not yet determined, that source said."

"A U.S. Department of Agriculture spokesperson said farmers are benefiting from lower taxes, trade deals and updates to farm programs included in Trump's July tax-cut and spending bill," Douglas and Erickson reported. "President Trump has made it clear he will not leave farmers behind, so USDA will continue to assess the farm economy and explore the need for further assistance, however, there is nothing new to share at this time,' the spokesperson said."

Low Mississippi River Levels to Again Disrupt Harvest Shipping

BY: Ryan Hanrahan www.farmpolicynews. illinois.edu

Agri-Pulse's Noah Wicks reported that "water levels in parts of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers are likely to reach critically low stages soon, forcing shippers to light-load harvest-season grain barges for the fourth year in a row."

"Readings on the Ohio River at Cairo, Illinois, have already fallen below that gauge's 'low threshold.' while those on the Mississippi River at Memphis, are projected to do so by Tuesday," Wicks reported. "With harvest season already underway, agricultural shippers are being forced to load their barges lighter due to the threat of low water conditions developing in coming weeks. 'We've had low water levels for four years in a row now,' said Mike Seyfert, president and CEO of the National Grain and Feed Association. 'What I would say is, it certainly doesn't make things easier."

"Barge rates have risen, adding additional shipping costs for grain elevators that trickle back down to the farm level," Wicks reported. "Gary Williams, the director of the Upper Mississippi Waterway Association, said between current commodity prices and shipping costs, Midwestern corn and soybean farmers have been looking to store their grain in 'every single nook and cranny' they can."

Mississippi River level at Memphis, Tennessee, as of Oct. 6. Courtesy of NOAA.

'Barge freight rates from Cairo to Memphis were $19.53 per ton on Sept. 23, a 31% increase from a month prior, according to USDA's most recent Grain Transportation Report. However, they remain 14% lower than they were at the same time last year," Wicks reported. "Barged grain movements fell from 2.4 million short tons to 502,000 short tons between the week of Aug. 4 and the week of Sept. 12, a 79% drop, said Daniel Munch, an economist for the American Farm Bureau Federation. In a recent analysis, Munch found that soybean movements sank 89%, corn movements dropped 72% and wheat movements fell 55%."

"He attributes some of the drop to Coast Guard vessel loading restrictions, noting that 'when barges can't sink as far and pull as many tows or barges behind each boat, that means they are moving less volume for the same price. Farmers who sell to grain elevators are indirectly paying the additional shipping costs by receiving lower prices for their grain,' he said," according to Wicks' reporting. "This is kind of just adding on to the list of problems and market hurdles that crop producers, especially row crop producers, are facing this year,' Munch said."

AgWeb's Margy Eckelkamp reported that "looking at the forecast, the next seven to 10 days doesn't show much promise for precipitation along the Mississippi River Valley or the Ohio River Valley, which notably feeds the lower Mississippi. However, the end of October could turn wetter, which might slow the finish of harvest but could recharge the vital artery in our inland waterways."

Low Water Levels to Impact Prices for Producers

Forbes' Steve Banker reported that "this comes at the worst possible time for farmers. This is the peak period when Midwest corn and soybeans are transported to New Orleans for export
to the global market.
These crops support the U.S. export program."

"If the low water materializes, it could further depress prices that have already been hurt by China's reduced buying due to tariffs," Banker reported.

"(Mike) Steenhoek, (the executive director of the Soy Transportation Coalition) adds, 'when you already have a softening of demand, the last thing you want is for any additional profitability to be siphoned off because our transportation system is not operating at full capacity."

"China is the world's largest soybean buyer, importing more soybeans over the last five years than every other country combined, according to the American Soybean Association," Banker reported. "But as the United States and China remain locked in a trade war, farmers like Scott Thomsen are caught in the middle of the conflict. Thomsen, a fourth-generation Nebraskan farmer who farms corn, cattle, and soybeans, said 'China has not bought a single export cargo of beans so far this year, which is not very typical."

"Farmers receive lower bids from grain elevators when transportation delays are imminent," Banker reported. "Reduced shipment capacity and slower transport down the river could delay delivery of U.S. agricultural exports to Gulf terminals. This gives foreign competitors, such as Brazil and Argentina, an opportunity to fill the gap."

Pilots Earn First Win in Thrilling 42-40 Battle Over Caverna

By: Laurna Todd; KPI WRITER

The Fulton County Pilots earned their first win of the season Friday night in dramatic fashion, edging Caverna, TN, 42-40. After coming close in several games this year, the Pilots finally put together four complete quarters of determined, hard-nosed football. The offense found its rhythm early, keeping pace in a back-and-forth contest, while the defense made key stops when it mattered most. In the final seconds, Caverna was flagged for two costly false starts that pushed them back, and the Pilots' defense sealed the game with a sack as time expired. The sideline erupted in celebration as Fulton County players and fans cheered the long-awaited victory. The win serves as a major confidence boost for a young team that has shown steady improvement each week. The Pilots will look to build on their momentum when they travel to Ballard Memorial on October 17 to take on the Bombers in district play.

GCXC Eagles Sweep at the Marshall Mad Dash

By: Laurna Todd; KPI WRITER

The Graves County cross country program turned in a dominant performance Thursday night at the Marshall Mad Dash, hosted by Marshall County High School. This event featured a unique scoring format that combined results from the top three varsity runners and top three middle school runners to determine overall team standings. When the final results were tallied, both the Eagles and Lady Eagles came away with first-place team honors. Girls Highlights The Lady Eagles continued their strong season with balanced performances across both divisions. Ozlen Kemp led the charge, capturing the overall middle school girls' title with an impressive run that showcased her consistency and drive. On the varsity side, Emilie Williams paced Graves County with a strong finish to lead the team to victory. Supported by steady performances from Maya Queen, Brooklyn Roper, Khailyn Sullivan, and Kelsey Wilson, the Lady Eagles clinched the top team award. Boys Highlights The Eagles also dominated the course as Steeven Binfield-Smith raced to the overall individual title, clocking 11:19.26 after taking an early lead and never relinquishing it. His effort was followed by strong runs from Jack Fowler, Avery Hayden, Levi

Stamper, and Jonathen Wilson, sealing the varsity team win. In the middle school division, Eli Lockwood led Graves County with a time of 12:49. earning crucial points and setting the tone for his teammates Jaxon Veatch, McKenzie Sullivan, Luke Rollins, and Conner Campbell, who rounded out the team's top five. The sweep highlighted the program's depth, teamwork, and bright future across all levels of competition.

The Graves County Fishing Team competed at Pickwick Lake, where finding scorable fish proved to be a challenge. A big thank-you goes to boat captains Jaren Frick and Jacob Moore for getting the team on the water and to the scales. Congratulations to team captains Maddox Stamper and Coleman Winstead, along with team members Hunter Legens and Kyson Moore, who have qualified for the High School Fishing World Finals at Lake Cumberland in June 2026!

Free Clinical Exams Available at the 'Boo! Scare Away Breast Cancer!

By Kelsey Edwards KPI Editor

Four organizations have banned together and announced their upcoming event, "Boo! Scare Away Breast Cancer!" The four organizations involved include Mercy Health—Lourdes Hospital, Graves County Health Department, KentuckyCare, and Kentucky Cancer Program. The event will be held on Monday, October 20, 2025 from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. in Rulers Parking Lot on 1107 Paris Road in Mayfield. It will feature free clinical breast exams conducted by advanced practice clinician Karen Smith, APRN, from Mercy Health. Appointments are not necessary, due to walk-ins being welcomed between 2 and 4 p.m. Those who attend will also benefit from various activities and resources at the event, including a Spanish translator, exciting giveaways, breast health education, and

The clinical breast exams will be performed inside a mobile unit for the convenience and for the privacy of those who attend. If any further screening is recommended, attendees will then be connected to multiple resources on site for their follow-up care. It was stated that events such as this one, break down barriers by bringing services directly to people where they live and work. The event will also feature the Kentucky Cancer Program's pink "Horses for Hope" mustang, which will be available for photo opportunities. The main goal of this event is to provide access to breast cancer screenings to those in Graves County. The event also aims to promote early detection as it is key for cancer and to ensure access to healthcare for all.The media and the public are invited to join in on October 20, 2025 to show support for the fight against breast cancer and to take proactive steps toward the health of Western Kentucky. This event is part of Haunted Graves festivities that is sponsored by the Mayfield-Graves County Tourism Commission. Haunted Graves is a monthlong celebration of all things Halloween in the Mayfield and Graves County area.

'Get your kids off Roblox; AG says as he files suit against gaming platform

By Tessa Redmond Kentucky Today

FRANKFORT, Ky. (KT) – Kentucky is taking Roblox to court for permitting an exploitative online environment. Attorney General Russell Coleman announced the lawsuit on Tuesday and warned parents of the dangers posed by the popular gaming platform.

"Roblox is the website of choice for child predators," Coleman said, calling it "playground" for people seeking to harm minors.

Roblox draws 380 million monthly users, including nearly two thirds of children between 9 and 12 years old in the U.S.

The Attorney General's complaint alleges

Roblox:

Created an environment for predators and international organizations with links to terrorist organizations to distribute child sexual abuse material;

Became a facilitator for predators to target and groom young victims online before escalating to real-world sexual violence;

Deliberately failed to implement effective safety measures to protect children from well-documented predatory threats; and Knowingly and intentionally failed to inform parents of the dangers lurking on the platform.

Coleman said the lawsuit is a step toward holding Roblox accountable.

He also had a message for Kentucky parents:

"Get your kids off Roblox. Do it today."

Jeremy Murrell, deputy commissioner for counter exploitation at the Department of Criminal Investigations, said predators gravitate toward online platforms that are popular with children.

"They use these platforms to establish rapport with young users, often posing as children themselves. Initially, their goal is to exploit this, exploit these children. They may do that on the platform they start on; they may move them to multiple other platforms to chat with and groom these children. The potential outcomes of this type of victimization include sextortion, suicide, selfharm, abduction and sexual assault," Murrell said.

So far in 2025, the Kentucky Internet Crimes Against Children Task Force has received 13,030 cyber tips and 50% of those deal with online enticement—the same enticement the AG's office alleges Roblox facilitates.

Courtney Norris, a concerned mother from Jefferson County, addressed the media during Tuesday's press conference and called Roblox "a wild west for bad actors."

"Like many parents, I thought Roblox is a 'safe' choice, like a fenced-in backyard for kids gaming. That is the genius, and danger, I found of Roblox – the illusion of safety it gives parents like me," said Jefferson County mom of three Courtney Norris. "The only advice I have today is delete it. The reality is, Roblox makes it nearly impossible to police as a parent."

While individuals have raised concerns about Roblox's safety issues, such as lax age verification requirements—for both young users accessing the platform without parental involvement and predators posing as children—and violent, sexually explicit content, the platform has responded inadequately for Kentucky's highest law enforcement official.

"Instead of fixing these clear and present problems, Roblox has chosen to do nothing and continue profiting off of harm to our kids," Coleman said. "So using the authority of the Attorney General's Office and the Kentucky Consumer Protection Act, we're going to compel them to change their ways. We'll push ahead with all possible speed."

The Attorney General's complaint alleges violations of Kentucky's Consumer Protection Act, unjust enrichment, negligence, and a failure to warn parents and kids of the platform's dangers. General Coleman asked the court to permanently block Roblox from continuing its unlawful conduct in Kentucky and to be penalized up to $2,000 for each willful violation, in addition to other applicable fines and penalties.

While Coleman's office is open to dialogue with Roblox in seeking a settlement, "at this stage we're speaking through litigation," the AG said.

Operation SafeDRIVE ongoing through Thursday

By Tom Latek Kentucky Today

FRANKFORT. Kv. (KT) – The Kentucky State Police (KSP) Commercial Vehicle Enforcement (CVE) division is participating in Operation SafeD-RIVE (Distracted, Reckless, Impaired, Visibility Enforcement) this week.

This nationwide traffic safety effort coordinated by the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Administration (FMCSA) will take place now through Thursday, with CVE officers and inspectors concentrating on high-visibility enforcement and education to promote safe driving behaviors around commercial vehicles.

The goal of Operation SafeDRIVE is to reduce crashes, injuries and fatalities by addressing dangerous driving behaviors that often occur near large trucks and buses. Throughout the threeday operation, KSP officers will patrol major highways, conduct commercial driver safety inspections at scale facilities and ensure compliance with federal safety standards.

"Commercial trucks are essential to our way of life, moving goods that communities depend on every day," said CVE Public Affairs Officer Steven Douglas. "But because of their size and weight, crashes involving large trucks can have serious consequences. That's why both commercial drivers and passenger vehicle operators must do their part to keep our roads safe."

KSP encourages all drivers to practice these safe-driving habits when sharing the road with commercial vehicles:

--Stay visible: If you cannot see the truck driver's mirrors, the driver likely can't see

--Signal early: Give large vehicles plenty of notice before changing lanes or turning.

--Avoid sudden stops: Trucks need significantly more distance to slow down, so brake gradually when possible.

--Be patient: Do not weave through traffic or cut closely in front of large vehicles.

-- Merge carefully: Allow trucks enough space to maintain speed when they are entering or exiting the roadway.

This initiative aligns with the FMCSA's national "Our Roads, Our Safety" campaign, which educates all drivers on safe practices for sharing the road with large vehicles.

WKU announces AI, educational technology certificate for educators

By Tom Latek Kentucky Today

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (KT) – Western Kentucky University (WKU) has announced they are now offering a new online certificate for Artificial Intelligence (AI) and Educational Technology.

As Artificial Intelligence becomes more commonplace in school settings, the WKU College of Education and Behavioral Sciences has developed a new graduate certificate for educators of all grade levels to learn the skills to provide effective implementation and use of AI, educational technology, best practices in online learning and cybersecurity in education.

The Graduate Certificate in Artificial Intelligence and Educational Technology Leader is a fully online program that can be completed in one year. Five classes totaling 15 credit hours are required. The program has rolling admissions, so students can apply at any time. This certificate can be rolled into other graduate programs in the School of Teacher Education for those who want to earn a master's degree.

This program is designed to prepare you for leadership roles in K–12 education, higher education, educational technology, training and development and beyond. By the end of the certificate, you'll be able to:

--Use artificial intelligence tools and emerging technologies to make teaching more engaging and effective in different learning environments.

--Apply advanced teaching models using best practices in online and blended learning to improve collaboration and accessibility.

--Evaluate new innovations in AI and educational technology and put them into practice in ways that meet the diverse needs of learners.

--Understand the key cybersecurity challenges in education and create strategies to keep digital learning spaces safe and ethical.

--Design curriculum updates that integrate AI and educational technology in meaningful ways.

--Create learning experiences that personalize education, boost student outcomes and solve real-world instructional challenges.

VICTORIOUS wing ... in a troubled world

As much as possible, bullet proof your life

By Teresa LeNeave Leneave2@comcast.net

In every game there is always a winner and always a loser. No one always wins and no one always loses. In the game of life, you just want to have more wins than loses. How do we do that? Whether we win or lose, our next level of achievement depends on how we accept it. Will we get mad? Or, will we weigh the problem knowing God has sent the Holy Spirit to comfort and help

My thoughts are turned to, how in our own personal lives, we have tough times when we have no answers. How can we bullet proof our life from the storm in the house? There are many ways but I believe, they all start with surrender to Jesus Christ. Having Jesus in our lives is the only guarantee of a better outcome.

What does trusting Jesus look like when we have really tough decisions to make? Although it's hard, staving focused means a lot when we're under attack. To bullet proof our lives we also need to pay attention to "what" we focus on because trouble has a way of pulling our mind down every rabbit trail. In my life when I've had very disturbing decisions, or hurts, staying focused on Jesus' promises has help me tremendously. Sometimes I just listen to a Bible reading app and that helps calm my fear and I believe it helps increase my faith.

Our spiritual life is paramount to trusting in God's goodness. We MUST stay focused on living our lives for Jesus. Satan has one purpose: he wants to derail us. He wants to make us the loser. There are many names for Satan in the Bible and they are all descriptions that tell us to be on the lookout for his destructive presence around us. He is called a serpent, a lion ready to destroy and devour his prey, a dragon, a tempter, the accuser of the brethren, a murderer, a liar and a homeless one constantly roaming the earth seeking whom he may devour.

Satan will do everything possible to distract us, but we must stay focused on Jesus IN US if we want to bullet proof our lives. Learning to detect his distractions early on before the fire starts can help. When you already have Jesus in your life, you already have a head start.

Distractions are things that divert our attention from God and have the potential to pull us away from God rather than toward him.

One distraction initiated by Satan can cost you your family and maybe your life so stay focused and bullet proof your life. I say all this, knowing, in life, there is no way to completely bullet proof our life. Troubles will come. Satan is going to hit. He is going to try taking us out, but Jesus is the only help we have when storms are bigger than we are.

The Bible says to "put on the breastplate of righteousness" and I am convinced this is the only defense we have. Bullet proof your life with Jesus by your side so you'll have more wins than loses. Ephesians 6:14 says, "Stand therefore having fastened on the belt of truth, and having put on the breastplate of righteousness, as shoes for your feet, having put on the readiness given by the gospel of peace. In all circumstances take up the shield of faith, with which you can extinguish all the flaming darts of the evil one; take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God..." KEEP DUCKING

Bro. Brandon G. BramlettBandana Baptist Church

I always duck my head when I put away the dishes. But not because my wife stealthily wields a frying pan, eager to cash in on some life insurance. No, I instinctively lower my head because of our poorly placed cabinet door—and my poor memory of its existence. It sits right above the dishwasher, and I have a bad habit of leaving it open while I put away plates, mugs, and cutlery. And having hit my head on it many times, I have learned to automatically duck—even while it is closed.

And the other day, the old adversary vanquished me again. Vibing to some good music with my headphones on, I forgot to duck, and a thud echoed across the kitchen. And a pulsing abrasion on my balding head served as a reminder that no matter how many times you've learned your lesson, old problems can still get you. Many dangers remain in place, waiting for you to forget they are there.

Paul the apostle understood this problem profoundly. After twentysomething years of continual Christian maturity, he admitted in Romans that he still "hit his head" from time to time: "For I do not understand my own actions. For I do not do what I want, but I do the very thing I hate . . . For I know that nothing good dwells in me, that is, in my flesh. For I have the desire to do what is right, but not the ability to carry it out. For I do not do the good I want, but the evil I do not want is what I keep on doing . . . So I find it to be a law that when I want to do right, evil lies close at hand" (Rom. 7:15, 18-19, 21).

Struggling with the same old sins and suffering from setbacks is a part of every saint's sanctification. Sin isn't going away until we are away from our bodies and present with the Lord (2 Cor. 5:8). Until then, we must remain diligently watchful and continue ducking our heads to avoid sin and the headaches it induces. The real danger is thinking there is no danger—that is precisely when sin inflicts another bruise on our heads. As Paul also said, "Therefore let anyone who thinks that he stands take heed lest he fall" (1 Cor. 10:12).

And when sin hits us on the head due to our carelessness, the good news is that God will lift us up by His grace. The writer of Proverbs 24:16 promised, "For the righteous falls seven times and rises again, but the wicked stumble in times of calamity." The psalmist likewise assured, "Though he fall, he shall not be cast headlong, for the LORD upholds his hand" (Psalm 37:24). Keep ducking your head, Christian. And when you forget to do so, remember that God raises the humble heads of those who have been wounded by their besetting sins.

Washing the stains and ironing the wrinkles

By William F Holland Jr. billyhollandministries.com

Humans do not enjoy being told that God will judge every person, and one day we will meet Him face-to-face and give an account of our lives. This is not an idea created by Bible teachers to scare people; it's a truth relayed from what God has promised in His Word. There are many strange opinions about who God is, what He wants, and our responsibilities as His followers, but the bottom line to lenient interpretations can be explained. Humans are crafty creatures who are always looking to receive something for nothing. Our ability and desire to live in denial intentionally prevent us from listening and obeying God's will. It's difficult enough to live in this world without being deceived, but what about when we adopt deception as an excuse to avoid conviction? Changing and transforming are not exciting words to our flesh.

The Bible describes two roads to eternity - one is massive and is the way of disobedience, sin, and destruction, while the other is extremely narrow and associated with sacrifice, holiness, and a relationship with God. It's true the Lord is compassionate, but He also knows the minds and hearts of every person. He cannot and will not compromise, make special deals, or concessions. He is merciful, but He is also the only perfect, righteous judge who will always stay true to His word. Deuteronomy 10:17 states, "For the Lord your God is the God of gods and Lord of lords, the great, mighty, and awesome God, who shows no partiality and accepts no bribes."

It's not a secret that it's easier to teach what is comfortable than to talk about secret sin. Christians will clap and shout when someone is talking about blessings and heaven, but will become fidgety when the subject turns to the dangers of willful sin. I'm sure that many of you are sensing the end is near, and there are things that we need to do before Jesus returns or we pass away. Instead of wondering about signs and prophecies that must be fulfilled, what about focusing on what we need to do within our minds and conscience? This is the hour to look in the mirror and examine the deepest part of our being. We can no longer just brush our dirt under the carpet and expect to get away with hidden rotten attitudes such as unforgiveness, prejudice, perversion, resentment, carnal character traits, a lack of interest in prayer, Bible study, and worship, along with the absence of love and concern for the lost. The bride of Christ will "not" have these stains on their wedding gowns. Read Ephesians 5:27.

A while back, I had an interesting conversation with an older gentleman who had attended church since he was a child. He explained that his parents were cold, self-centered, and uncaring, and this had made him bitter and self-centered. He boldly declared he was what he was, and no one could change him. The conversation was somewhat pleasant as long as I kept feeling sorry for him, as he kept repeating that if anyone did not like it, he did not care. I asked if this also included God, because

He is listening? He responded that God understands. I came back with yes, I'm afraid He does. His life had been filled with a quiet rebellion and resentment, carefully disguised as someone trapped in a generational curse. I knew that mindlessly agreeing with him would encourage him to justify his deception, so I prayed and shared God's truth about how being born again transforms us into a new creation so that we can break free from sin's bondage. We choose how much of God we want and how much we desire to be like Him. Of course, this made him upset and angry. When God confronts us, are we defensive like this?

To change is very hard, but it's my hope and prayer that all of us, including myself, would not reject sanctification, but would receive God's gracious conviction and make sure our hearts are pure. It's with humility and reverential fear that I write these words. God is saying to repent of all hidden wickedness, carnality, dark attitudes, and rebellion, as denial is intentional disobedience. "Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a person sows, that shall he also reap. For he that sows to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that sows to God's Spirit shall of His Spirit reap life everlasting" Galatians 6:7-8.

As of this weekend, deer season is officially open in every state. I already feel like I'm behind because I have yet to go. I hope to change that tomorrow. I'll hunt but not because I have located a good buck, but because I just need to sit with my thoughts in a tree stand – surrounded by those things that are trustworthy and bring a sense of certainty to me. Don't get me wrong, my head will be on a swivel, looking for a rack of antlers moving through the woods. But I am more so looking forward to what's in the background than I am the subject matter. And the smell. For some reason I have been looking forward to the smell. My mind wonders at the smell. I have shared many times that while we have a description and some characteristics of what heaven might look like; there is no indication in the scriptures of what heaven might smell like. I know, however, it will not come from constructed walls and concrete walkways, but most likely from something as simple as dirt. Yes, maybe dirt. After all that is the smell of home.

We know that animals locate their own by smell. Whether it's deer or cows, they know their own by the unique smell. You love how your mother smelled. Even now, you love the smell of the one you love. You even love the blanket that you had as a child, and even the one you have now. Because it smelled/smells like home. Isn't that strange? And neat? In fact, when that blanket smells funny, you wash it because it needs to smell like home. Why? There is comfort and certainty at home. There is rest at home. There is trust at home.

As people made in the image of God, we have two homes. We have earthly parents and our man-made home, and then we have the place where God took dirt and made our earliest grandparents and our earliest home. I think that's why I look forward to the smell of the woods. Right now, in all that is going in my life, I need home. I need a bed of dirt and a blanket of dew and God whispering through the trees, that everything is going to be alright.
