PADUCAH, Ky. — West Kentucky Community & Technical College (WKCTC) and the Paducah Junior College (PJC) Foundation highlighted their strong partnership and focus on student success during a joint board meeting Nov. 20 on the WKCTC campus.

Leaders reviewed progress in student access, workforce partnerships, and regional education initiatives. WKCTC President Dr. Anton Reece also outlined ongoing efforts to expand affordability and support services.

The boards honored two long-time PJC trustees:

Lorraine Schramke — Recognized for more than 20 years of service, including leadership during the consolidation of technical and academic programs. A plaque was accepted on her behalf.

John D. Williams — Remembered for over two decades of service until his passing on Nov. 10. A former WPSD-TV general manager, Williams served multiple terms as board chair and was honored with a commemorative plaque.

The meeting also featured a luncheon prepared by WKCTC culinary students. After the joint session, the PJC board held a brief individual meeting before adjournment.

Nickel BOOM
coming to Paducah?
DOE launches inquiry into nickel recovery at Paducah site

KPI Staff Report

PADUCAH, Ky. — The U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) has initiated an Expression of Interest (EOI) process to explore commercial options for extracting approximately 9,700 tons of contaminated nickel stored at the former Paducah Gaseous Diffusion Plant.

The material, currently classified as hazardous, could be processed and converted into an estimated $140 million in valuable commercial-grade nickel. If pursued, the project would support ongoing cleanup activities at the DOE Paducah Site while generating significant economic opportunities for the region.

Local officials anticipate multiple benefits associated with the potential recovery effort.

The nickel is owned by the DOE, but existing agreements with the Paducah Area Community Reuse Organization (PACRO) may allow a portion of the economic benefit to remain within McCracken County and surrounding communities. PACRO's contract with DOE enables the transfer of certain surplus materials, potentially ensuring local reinvestment.

Nickel recovered from the site could be utilized in stainless steel production, car batteries, and high-heat or corrosive-environment alloys, making it a strategic resource for multiple industries.

The EOI process will evaluate commercial interest, technical capabilities, safety standards, and environmental considerations to determine the best path forward.

About the Paducah Site

The DOE Paducah Site is in transition toward new federal and commercial uses. The nickel recovery initiative complements ongoing efforts to expand energy-related projects, including proposed enrichment operations and a potential federal artificial intelligence data center.

For additional information, visit the Department of Energy's environmental management resources.

Key Potential Benefits

- ★ Accelerates environmental cleanup at the DOE Paducah Site
- ★ Reduces disposal needs for hazardous materials
- ★ Converts surplus radioactive material into a high-value commodity
- ★ Creates the potential for high-wage jobs in McCracken County
- ★ Generates millions of dollars in local and regional economic impact
- ★ Supports national energy priorities such as grid-scale batteries, nuclear power, and artificial intelligence infrastructure
- ★ Aligns with other major initiatives planned for the site, including proposed nuclear enrichment and federal AI projects

Maximize Cyber Monday

Cyber Monday is the final bookend to a series of shopping-centric days preceding Christmas. Along with Black Friday, Plaid Friday and Small Business Saturday, Cyber Monday presents an additional opportunity to realize great deals on items shoppers may need for gifting or entertaining.

Adobe Newsroom reported Cyber Monday hit a record $13.3 billion in online spending in 2024, marking an increase of more than 7 percent from 2023. Consumers also spent heavily on mobile devices, which accounted for 54.8 percent of online sales.

Each Cyber Monday offers a chance to save big and streamline shopping. Utilizing these tips for making the most of the day can enhance success.

- Make a list of intended purchases. Draft a list of items that you need or want and research their typical prices in advance of Cyber Monday. This enables you to quickly identify if a Cyber Monday discount is a good deal.
- Safely shop online. Scammers are in the business of taking your hard-earned money or personal data. They mimic the look of popular stores and promote deals that often are too good to be true. Before entering payment information, double-check web addresses, spelling and contact information, warns the Better Business Bureau. Check the website URL to ensure that the site is secure before purchase.
- Look for coupon codes. Check for available promo codes in advance, which can help you get deeper discounts. Utilizing browser extensions that automatically search for and apply coupon codes can streamline this process.
- Be mindful of shipping costs. Shop at online retailers that offer free shipping whenever possible. Double-check the costs of shipping when it isn't free to ensure that the discount is enough to offset shipping costs.
- Ship directly to recipients. In some instances, you can enter a recipient's address at checkout and have the items arrive directly to friends or family members who live far away. This can be a great way to avoid potentially costly shipping charges.
- Shop during off-peak times. The convenience of online shopping enables shopping for gifts when it fits into your schedule. Online retailers are open all hours and seven days a week. Save Cyber Monday bulk shopping for the early morning or late evening when you can think through gifts more readily. Although improvements to internet speeds have been made in recent years, online traffic may slow down transactions made during peak hours, so this is another reason to shop during off-peak times.

Great deals can be had on Cyber Monday, and customers can maximize opportunities to save.

Bombers look to play spoiler

By Tim Taylor

Ballard Memorial boys’ basketball team likes playing the underdog role. Last season, they were picked to finish in the bottom 1/3rd of teams in the 1st Region. They went out and won the 1st Region All A Tournament and had the 6th most wins in the region.

Now they come into the 2025-26 season without the 1st Regions all-time leading scorer Jace Birney who has moved to college playing for the Franklin Grizzlies.

Many think the Bombers without Birney and his 6 fellow seniors that graduated will be rebuilding and will have a down season. This team thinks they are being overlooked and feel they have something to prove. “We have changed a lot this season and I like the fight in our guys. It is going to be a fun year,” said 2nd year Bomber boys’ basketball Coach Kevin Estes.

Ballard Memorial has their 2nd leading scorer Ike Miller returning for his senior season. A double-double machine last season, Miller averaged 10 points and nearly 10 rebounds a game last season.

Fine tuning his skills in AAU basketball, expect Miller to be one of the top players in the region. “We have to come together and with our height, we are going to be hard to beat. Our goal is to get back to Owensboro for All A State,” said Miller. In the backcourt at guard play, the defense and shooting of juniors Ayden Owens and Reed Duren will be crucial. The energy they bring will help set the tone for the Bombers.

Duren says of the team this season, “We work well together, and we have been building chemistry and have bonded well together. We just have to play more physical and dig in on the defensive end.” Junior Grayson Sparacio may have his coming out party this season. He will be a difference maker on both sides of the ball for the Bombers. Senior Jonathan McGlenon will see more minutes as his role expands this season.

Mayson Crowley is working through an injury from football season and will make an impact and add to that physicality once healthy. Two foreign exchange students will be plenty of playing time in Florian Gashi and Riccardo Uboldi and if they can adapt to American high school basketball, this could take the Bombers to another level.

Lady Bombers keep growing

By Tim Taylor

The 2025-26 Lady Bomber basketball team will have a mixture of youth and experience. With one senior and seven juniors on the squad they will bring experience. Those upper classmen will be relied upon to help nurture the combined nine freshman and middle school players on the roster. Helping the underclassmen develop and adapt to high school basketball’s faster and more physical play may be the determining factor on how far this team can advance through the season. For 3rd year Ballard Memorial Lady Bomber Coach Barry Phillips, he looks forward to seeing the team mature as they try making a run at the All A 1st Region this season. “We were young last season, and we figured out how to win. We are ready to embrace the challenge and excel this year.” The lone senior is Kate O’Neill. She has already committed to continuing her basketball career at Bryan College in Tennessee. “We have the team that can win All A Region One and make regionals and I have full faith we can do that,” said O’Neill adding, “We have to play good defense and play transition offense and run our sets.”

The floor general and leader on the floor is junior Charlee Birney. As a sophomore she was a team captain and will continue that role in her junior season. It is the intangibles she brings to the team, earning her a captain’s honor. Birney says, “I always try to give my best since everyone feeds off each other.” Having a strong start to the season will be important. Birney said, “We need to win early and motivate us for the rest of the season.” Junior Gracee Beere is the leading scorer returning connecting on 56 treys last season averaging 8.5 points per game and will be relied upon to hit the outside shots to open the inside game. O’Neill provides the versatility of scoring outside and inside and is one of the top shot blockers in the region. The Holman sisters Liyah and Tessa will be defensive enforcers, and their quickness will need to be utilized on both ends of the floor. Role players Ali Dorman, Mallie Owens, and Annlee Polivick are expected to get playing time. How the team utilizes the younger players and how they adapt to high school basketball may be the determining factor on the overall success of the season.

Adams named 2025-26 KHSAA Girls' Volleyball Official of the Year

Staff Report

LEXINGTON — Each year, the Kentucky High School Athletic Association (KHSAA) honors the top officials for the sports in which it licenses officials. Finalists in each sport are selected through a combination of not only on-field performance but also local association activity and leadership, training efforts and the mentoring of newer officials.

One official in each sport is named Outstanding Official of the Year in appreciation of their dedication and service to schools and student-athletes across the state. Winners are selected following consultation with local assigning secretaries, veteran officials' observers and coaches throughout the state, as well as additional staff review.

The Outstanding Official of the Year for the 2025-26 in the sport of girls' volleyball is Amye Adams of Cox's Creek.

Each finalist will receive a commemorative watch and certificate courtesy of the Officials Trust Fund, with the Official of the Year receiving an additional recognition award.

With officiating numbers declining at the national level, the KHSAA is always accepting applications from individuals interested in giving back to their community. Officiating remains an avenue to stay active, earn extra money and ensure that high school athletics are preserved for the current and future generations. To get involved as an official, visit khsaaofficials.org.

Do you believe in magic?

Khalifa does, and his trickery helps Cards roll 84-46

By RUSS BROWN,
Kentucky Today

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (KT) - The “Egyptian Magician” on Louisville’s basketball team lived up to his nickname Monday night in a big way against Eastern Michigan.

BYU transfer Aly Khalifa turned in a performance full of wizardry while playing a major role in the No. 6 Cardinals’ 84-46 rout of the Eagles in front of 13,832 in the KFC Yum! Center with stat-stuffer numbers of 11 points, six rebounds, five assists and three blocked shots in just 18 1/2 minutes - all season highs - making him the star not only of the game but the locker room.

During the locker room celebration coach Pat Kelsey first mentioned the contributions of Kobe

Rodgers and Khani Rooths for giving U of L (6-0) “a huge boost” off the bench and then. . .

“The guys were all excited when I got to Aly,” Kelsey said. “They cheered. And I said, ‘Okay, here’s Aly’s line. 11 points, and they all cheered. Six rebounds, and they all cheered. Five assists. They all cheered. And I said, drum roll. They did a drum roll. I said, three blocks, and they all went crazy.’”

Kind of like Khalifa did during a devastating two-minute stretch in the second half when he scored eight consecutive points - on a layup, a 3-pointer, a put back and another 3-pointer. And on the basket prior to his spree he recorded an assist to Adrian Wooley for a layup.

And here’s the most magical part of the Alexandria, Egypt native’s act - despite going into the game zero of four from behind the arc, he drained 4-of-6, all in the second half, much to the delight of the fans who began calling for him to shoot every time he touched the ball in the high post for pick-and-roll action.

“I mean I just let them fly and they went in, after not having made one all season,” said Khalifa, who sat out last season due to recovering from knee surgery. “So really great. I get crazy. My teammates just finding me. I was hoping I could be a threat out there. I’d have to be more aggressive because we have a lot of great shooters, and it was my turn today to make shots.”

Guard Isaac McKneely, who fared fine from long distance too, making 5-of-9 en route to 17 points, called Khalifa “a very capable shooter.”

“I knew it was coming at some point,”

McKneely said. “He just needs to shoot with confidence, because I know he can knock it down, especially when we’ve got shooting all around. People have to guard us on the three-point line, and when he’s making shots like that, it makes it even tougher. So I’m going to encourage him to keep shooting.”

The Cards shot 48.4 percent overall (30-62) and 42.4% from distance (14-33) while limiting EMU, which is picked to finish ninth in the Mid-American Conference, to 28.1% (16-57). U of L also scored 20 points off turnovers. The Cards’ points came in bunches, including a trio of 12-0 runs.

“I really believe the MAC is a heckuva conference and a couple months from now, we’ll look back on this, and this will be a good win, because I think they’re going to be a contender in that league,” Kelsey said. “They have really good pieces, they’re a strong, physical team, and I was proud of our guys. I felt like we met that physical challenge tonight. We knew it was going to be that type of game. I feel like we played really hard on the defensive end.”

Exterior decorating safety tips

Decorating the exterior of a home for the holiday season is a beloved tradition in countless households. In the movie “National Lampoon’s Christmas Vacation,” Clark Griswold had “250 strands of imported Italian twinkie lights,” each with 100 bulbs per strand. His grand total of 25,000 lights caused a temporary blackout. While driving around to take in holiday lighting displays, many people may see some that emulate Clark Griswold’s vision and be inspired to create their own designs.

Lights are just one type of home decoration. Wreaths, inflatables, metal or wooden structures, and much more are part of holiday displays as well. While decorating can be fun and festive, it’s also important to ensure that it is done safely. The following tips, courtesy of Travelers Risk Consultants and Meyer Landscaping & Design, can keep family and friends safe during this wonderful time of year.

• Plan ahead. Determine how many electrical outlets you have and plan the display around the accessibility of those outlets. Be sure to calculate the maximum amount of wattage allowed so you do not overload the electrical system. Never exceed the maximum number of strings or devices that may be linked together. Lighting packaging should provide such information. Also, plug all outdoor lights and decorations into ground-fault circuit interrupters to reduce the risk of electric shock.

• Test the lights. Only purchase lights that have been tested for safety. Look for a certification mark from UL, ETL, CSA, or another nationally recognized laboratory.

• Go with LED. Light emitting diode string lights run cooler, last longer and use less energy than incandescent lights.

• Inspect decorations. Make sure all the lights, electrical cords, lighted holiday decor, and inflatables are in good condition before use. Dispose of anything that has frayed wiring or is broken.

• Use only outdoor-rated products. Be sure the extension cords and any other products are rated for the outdoors. Electrical connections should be kept clean and dry before plugging things in, and an extra step of wrapping plug connections with electrical tape can further reduce moisture.

• Practice ladder safety. Ladders are often utilized when adding lights or other decor to homes. Always be safe on and around ladders. It’s essential to maintain three points of contact while on the ladder. Don’t risk leaning too hard to one side while on the ladder, and always have a spotter. Use wooden or fiberglass ladders when stringing electrical decor and lights, as metal ladders conduct electricity.

• Identify where power lines are located. Be mindful of power lines when decorating outdoors. Keep oneself and decorations at least 10 feet away from power lines.

• Skip staples and nails. Nails and staples should not be used when decorating. Nails and staples can puncture the protective layers of a home, allowing moisture to get in and break down the structure of the home. A nail or staple also may accidentally puncture an electrical cord, increasing the risk of electrocution. Use hooks and other attachment devices specially designed for holiday decor.

• Avoid items that can contribute to roof damage. Heavy items on the roof can cause unnecessary stress to shingles and result in damage. Only use lightweight and appropriately anchored items on the roof.

• Dress appropriately. Before hanging holiday decorations and lights, assess the conditions and wear the proper clothing for the weather. If the weather is especially rough, skip decorating for a safer day. Decorating safety is of the utmost importance and should be a priority this holiday season.

Fireplace safety during the holiday season

Gatherings with family and friends are an integral component of the holiday season. Certain rooms in the house are on display more than others, with kitchens, dining rooms and living areas serving as popular places to congregate. Of course, fireplaces also serve as popular gathering spots in homes that feature them. Lighting a fire in the hearth can make any space more cozy, but doing so comes with some hazards. Consider these fireplace safety tips in advance of the holiday entertaining season.

• Have the fireplace inspected and swept professionally. Prior to lighting the first fire of the season, ensure that a professional inspects the fireplace, chimney and venting to ensure everything is in good condition. The chimney also should be swept to remove excess debris and buildup that could pose a fire hazard.

• Keep items away from the fireplace. Wrapping paper, rugs, clothing, magazines, and the like should be kept at least three feet away from the flames, suggests the American Red Cross. Also, make sure decorations are hung securely and a safe distance away from the fire.

• Check your smoke alarms. Be sure the home has working smoke alarms on every level of the house. And keep a fire extinguisher close to the fireplace.

• Never burn wrapping paper. Wrapping paper contains additives, like dyes, that make it burn extremely hot. Do not think of discarding wrapping paper by burning it in the fireplace.

• Keep the tree a safe distance away. Although it makes for the perfect Christmas photo backdrop, Christmas trees and fireplaces should not be near each other. Also, the Christmas tree is not safe to burn in the fireplace after the season, as the wood has not been properly dried or seasoned.

• Use a screen on the fireplace. Make sure the fireplace is properly covered by a screen to stop embers from escaping when the wood pops and sparks. The screen also can help keep decorations and other objects from falling into the fire.

• Keep the fireplace clean. Promptly remove any ash and debris from the fireplace after it has cooled to improve indoor air quality and provide greater control over the next fire when it is burned, advises the American Society of Home Inspectors.

Fireplaces bring warmth and add ambiance to a home, particularly during the holidays. But safety must prevail when lighting fireplaces.

Owensboro Safe Haven Baby Box to close temporarily; other safe-surrender options remain available

By Kentucky Today
Ryan Richardson,
Owensboro Times

The local Safe Haven Baby Box has been temporarily taken out of service as it’s relocated to the new Owensboro Fire Department Station 3, and officials say it’s crucial for the public to know that several other safe, legal surrender options remain available during the closure.

OFD Chief James Howard said the move is necessary as Station 1, where the box was previously located, is slated to be rebuilt under Operation Firehouse, a multi-year effort to modernize the city’s fire stations.

Howard said the department wanted to avoid taking the box offline twice — once during demolition and again to reinstall it elsewhere — so they chose to move it directly to its “forever home” at Station 3 at 2633 Cravens Avenue.

“This is the optimal time to take the box and install it at that location, to make sure it’s installed properly and the communication aspects of it are set up right,” Howard said.

Station 3 remains under construction, with crews still needing approximately 3 months to complete interior finishes. Howard said the box will not be activated until firefighters are able to staff the new station.

“You can’t have a baby box in service without having 24/7 staffing. That just wouldn’t make any sense,” he said.

“Whenever we move into the station, that’s when we will put the box back online.”

Because the Owensboro box will be unavailable for several months, temporary signage will be installed at Station 1 directing anyone in need to the nearest Safe Haven Baby Box in Rockport, Indiana. The sign will also include the Safe Haven hotline and website, along with instructions to call 911 in an emergency.

“A big part of what we’re trying to do is to let people know that there are other resources,” Howard said. “If you’re in a situation where that’s an option you need, there are other baby boxes within a fairly short driving distance.”

Howard emphasized that Kentucky’s Safe Infants Act still allows parents to legally and anonymously surrender an infant under 30 days old, even without a baby box.

“Anytime someone’s in that situation, by law they can anonymously surrender that infant to a police station, a fire station, the hospital, or even EMS,” he said. “Those agencies would take care of that child and make sure the child is transported to be evaluated properly.”

If choosing a face-to-face surrender, Howard stressed that parents need to hand the child directly to personnel rather than leaving them outside.

“Don’t leave them at the doorstep like you might see in a movie,” he said. “We may not be there, and we want to make sure the child is delivered into a safe environment.”

Owensboro’s box has never been used since its installation in August 2023, though Howard said staff remain fully trained and that having the option available remains critical.

“At the time that someone needs it, we want to make sure that resource is available,” he said. “We want to make sure the best option is available for the person who’s in the situation where that is what is necessary to keep that child safe.”

LaRue County High School wins 2025 Junior Chef Championship

Highlands, Bath County earn runners-up honors in annual high school culinary competition

FRANKFORT, Ky. — The LaRue County High School Junior Chef team topped all competition to come out the winner in this year’s Farm to School Junior Chef program during the championship cookoff last week at Sullivan University’s Lexington campus.

“Congratulations to LaRue County and all the Junior Chef teams that competed this year,” Commissioner of Agriculture Jonathan Shell said. “The culinary skills these young chefs showcase is just a brief, early example of their ability to create some of the most delicious dishes with wonderful Kentucky products. This program, which would not be possible without the support of the parents, teachers, coaches, and Sullivan University, is an excellent way for students to pick up valuable life skills and possibly start a career in the culinary arts.”

This year the Junior Chef competition was moved from the Kentucky State Fair stage in August to November to allow students and staff more time to create and practice during the regular school year for

Next Generation Farmer Program (NextGen)

NextGen addresses the growing need for a specialized program that would benefit producers ages 18 to 40 that have been engaged in an agricultural operation for a minimum of three years.

One NextGen was approved by the board totaling $30,000 in Fleming County.

Shared-Use Equipment Program

The Shared-Use Equipment Program assists broad-based community organizations with the purchase of farm equipment. The equipment purchased is made available for producer use in a specific county on a leased basis.

The LaRue County team, consisting of Noah Selman and Austin Harp, prepared a breakfast burrito with house made avocado salsa and a fresh fruit and yogurt parfait for the winning recipe. The team was coached by Abe Miller. Each member of the team received a $10,000 scholarship offer from Sullivan University and a chef's knife kit donated by Stacey Landfield, owner/operator of Commonwealth Food Service Equipment of Lexington.

The Highlands High School team out of Campbell County, with team members Lillian Foley, Rei Bacis, and Lillie Anderson, finished

Bath County High School team, with members Aiden Perry, Emerie Cowell, Bella McGuire, and Landon Braham, finished third in the competition with its breakfast burrito and grape salad with house made granola. The team was coached by Vickie Wells, with advisors Angela Snedegr and Tina Marcum. Each member of the team received a $3,000 scholarship offer from Sullivan.

The second- and third-place teams received a chef's beginner's utensil set from Landfield.

LaRue County will go on to compete in the Southeast Region Junior Chef Competition in Alabama this spring. The Southeast Region Junior Chef Competition pits the champions of seven states in the southeastern U.S. in a cook off for scholarship offers from Sullivan University.

Judges for this year's competition were Sullivan University chefs Steve Atkins and William Hallman, Heather Vankleek with the Kentucky Department of Education, retired registered dietitian nutritionist Jackie Walters, and Luke Baker, a Sullivan University student and member of Montgomery County High School's 2024 Junior Chef winning team.

Junior Chef encourages participating students to learn how to cook by using local ingredients to prepare healthy meals while teaching students about agriculture, marketing, organization, teamwork, and community involvement.

The Junior Chef competition is part of the Kentucky Proud Farm to School Program, which helps Kentucky schools purchase local foods. Children get fresh, nutritious local foods to help them grow up healthy and strong. Local farmers get another market for their farm products. The Kentucky Department of Agriculture (KDA) administers the Farm to School Program and the Junior Chef competition.

Other sponsors of the Junior Chef competition besides the KDA and Sullivan University include the Kentucky Department of Education's School and Community Nutrition program; the University of Kentucky Extension Family and Consumer Science Nutrition Education Program; and the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Food and Nutrition Service.

Kentucky students encouraged to apply for 2026 Kentucky Ag Athletes of the Year

KDA-KHSAA partnership awards six scholarships to Kentucky student-athletes

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Kentucky student-athletes who are involved in agriculture are invited to apply for one of six scholarships and recognition as a 2026 Kentucky Ag Athlete of the Year.

The program is a partnership of the Kentucky High School Athletic Association (KHSAA) and the Kentucky Department of Agriculture (KDA).

“The hard work it takes to be a successful athlete is the same type of work that contributes to being a success in the agriculture field,” Commissioner of Agriculture Jonathan Shell said. “Discipline, teamwork, patience, and goal setting are just both in sports and agriculture. We are pleased to join our partners at the KHSAA to once again honor these attributes and reward the Commonwealth’s best young athletes and agriculturists.”

To qualify, student-athletes must be involved in Kentucky agriculture; must participate in one or more KHSAA sports or sport activities during the 2025-2026 school year; must be graduating seniors in high school; and must be accepted to a college, university, or trade school following graduation.

An agriculture major is not required, and preference will be given to Kentucky colleges; however, out-of-state schools will be considered if the applicant is seeking a specialized degree in an agricultural field.

Two student-athletes – one male and one female – will be named Outstanding Kentucky Ag Athletes of the Year and will be awarded $2,000 scholarships. Four student-athletes – two males and two females – will be awarded $1,000 scholarships as Kentucky Ag Athletes of the Year. Winners will be announced at the 2026 UK HealthCare Boys’ Sweet Sixteen in March at Rupp Arena in Lexington.

The scholarships are payable to an institution of higher learning. Funding for the scholarships comes from the KDA’s “Ag Tag” program, which is fueled by voluntary donations from Kentucky motorists when they buy or renew their farm vehicle license plates. No state taxpayer dollars are used to fund the scholarship awards.

Student-athletes must apply online by Dec. 31. To apply, go to form.jotform.com/253065526181051.

Stadium of Champions to see $2 million upgrade

By Daynnah Carmona, Christian County Now

HOPKINSVILLE, KY (CHRISTIAN COUNTY NOW) – The Christian County Public Schools Board of Education has moved forward with plans for extensive upgrades at the Stadium of Champions and separate resurfacing of the frequently used practice track. Costs for just the football stadium will be absorbed into the construction budget for the new Christian County High School. Plans for the stadium include improving the entrance, paving the gravel driveway, relocating fencing, installing new astroturf on the football field, and repaving the track around the field. It is estimated that the renovations at the Stadium of Champions will cost around $2 million.

This additional cost paired with adjusted expenses changes the scope of the CCHS construction budget to $141 million. To help counterbalance these costs, the construction budget also saw an incoming revenue increase of nearly $10 million in grant money and other sources. This budget is separate from the general fund.

Pushback on upgrades, future plans

Board member Lindsey Clark expressed concerns about the necessity of the stadium upgrades due to supposed low attendance at games and infrequent use saying, “We are going from two high schools to one, so we will spend $2 million dollars out there to use it six times a year.”

Other board members defended the use of the stadium since it is utilized by varsity and junior varsity sports along with the marching band. It was also pointed out that having an upgraded stadium would permit the district to host track meets, which is not possible with the current conditions.

While upgrading the old stadium lights to LED is not in the current plan, Assistant Superintendent Jason Wilson assured them it is on the list for the future.

“I see this as a process at the stadium,” said Wilson to the board. “We don’t have the ability to go out there right now and do an entire facelift.” After a long discussion, the board voted to open up bids for the Stadium of Champion upgrades.

Practice track resurfacing by Gateway Academy

Separate from the Stadium of Champions project and construction of the high school, the board was on the fence about how to address the other deteriorating track that is located behind Gateway Academy. Resurfacing this practice track would cost the district $203,000 from the general fund. The finishing on this track will not be “competition grade” like the Stadium of Champions, resulting in a lower cost.

Board member Erin Westerfield voiced during the meeting that they should hold off on the repairs and explore other options to provide a usable track for student athletes saying, “It’s lasted this long in its pitiful shape, it could last a little longer.”

The track was slated to receive maintenance back in 2016, but it was put on the back burner. Since then, the condition of the practice track has continued to decline due to daily use by Christian County middle and high school students, Special Olympics, other private schools, and the general public.

“We could wait, but it will eventually have to be closed off for safety reasons,” said Superintendent Chris Bentzel. Despite the pushback, the board approved the cost for the project.

Drink safely this holiday season

The holiday season is an enjoyable time of year for a variety of reasons. Individuals get to spend time with friends or family members they may not see very often; gifts are purchased and exchanged; and plenty of delicious foods and beverages are consumed. The holiday season can be an indulgent time of year, but most people cast aside the excess in January as they make and heed annual resolutions. Alcohol tends to be part of holiday indulgence. From mulled ciders to creamy eggnogs to cranberry-infused cocktails to champagne toasts, there are plenty of spirited ways to raise a glass in good cheer. Alcohol, when enjoyed in moderation, can be part of holiday celebrations. However, people must be mindful to consume alcohol safely and responsibly. Here are some tips to avoid getting tipsy this holiday season.

Alcoholism says a 12-ounce bottle of beer at 5 percent alcohol by volume is one standard drink, as is a five-ounce glass of wine at 12 percent alcohol by volume. Those who enjoy distilled spirits should recognize that a 1.5-ounce shot glass at 40 percent alcohol by volume is a standard drink. The higher the alcohol volume, the smaller the portion size one should have.

Understand standard drink sizes
Drinks like beer, wine and distilled spirits contain varying amounts of alcohol. Therefore, the “size” of a drink varies depending on one’s beverage of choice. The National Association on Alcohol Abuse and

Follow the “1-2-3” rule
The 1-2-3 rule is a guideline for more responsible drinking. Typically it means having no more than one standard drink per hour, no more than two standard drinks per occasion, and no more than three standard drinks per day. This will help the body to process alcohol safely and prevent binge drinking.

Consider the “20-minute” rule
Another guideline for reducing alcohol consumption is to Eat food prior to drinking

Johns Hopkins University notes eating before drinking slows the rate at which alcohol reaches the small intestine. This helps to taper absorption to a pace that the body can handle more effectively. Eating food while drinking alcohol also increases the rate of alcohol elimination from the bloodstream by 25 to 45 percent. Foods that blend a mix of protein, fat and carbohydrates work best for this purpose.

Skip driving
Alcohol affects one’s ability to make sound decisions and also impairs reaction times and motor skills. That is why it is essential to have a plan for getting home before consuming alcohol. Taxis, rideshare services and designated drivers are each better means of getting home than driving oneself after consuming alcohol. Alcohol may play a role in holiday celebrations. Through responsible and safe behavior, the holidays can remain merry.

Why do the Detroit Lions always play on Thanksgiving?

Households have their own unique Thanksgiving traditions, but one custom common in many homes come Turkey Day involves watching football. Each year on Thanksgiving, the National Football League hosts a handful of games, and it's customary in many households to gather around the television with friends and family and take in some of the action on the gridiron, excitement that always features the Detroit Lions. This unique tradition has endured for decades, but when did it start? According to the Pro Football Hall of Fame, the tradition of the Lions playing on Thanksgiving can be traced to George A. Richards, who purchased the franchise in 1933 when they were the Portsmouth (Ohio) Spartans. Richards felt competing in a game on Thanksgiving Day would attract Motor City fans who were more devoted to the Detroit Tigers, the city's baseball team. Fans who attended the Lions' first Thanksgiving Day game in 1934 were treated to a nail-biter, with the hometown Lions falling 19-16 to the Chicago Bears at the University of Detroit Stadium. The Bears had won the league championship the previous year. In a quirk unique to the game in 1934, the two teams locked horns again just three days later, with the Bears once more emerging victorious in another close contest that ended with a 10-7 score. In the modern era of the NFL, the teams that play on Thanksgiving Day do not play on the following Sunday.

Living...in a troubled world

The Mind’s Junk Drawer

By Brandon Bramlett
Pastor - Bandana Baptist Church

It taunted me with its rumbling voice. When I walked past it, it assaulted my self-esteem. The clutter-filled junk drawer in our house plagued me every time I opened it—until one day, I couldn’t take it anymore. I kicked into high gear and got it looking spick and span. The battle against the unsightly mess was won, but the war was far from over. Only a week later, its oppression returned with a vengeance. The drawer overflowed again with loose change, screws, pens, and other I-don’t-know-where-these-go things. And that’s when it hit me—I discovered a cleaning hack that revolutionized my life. Namely, the difference between cleanliness and chaos boils down to what you allow to stay. The drawer must either be completely empty or filled with what belongs, so that what doesn’t can be thrown away. A lightbulb went off in my head, and this reminded me of what happens inside my head and yours. Our minds can quickly become junk drawers—filled with cluttering thoughts that do not belong, which breeds spiritual chaos in our lives. The problem is, you can empty a drawer but you cannot empty your mind. You are always thinking about something. The remedy, therefore, is not to flush the mind, but to fill the mind with what belongs so that what doesn’t has nowhere to stay. This is the mental master program Paul gave us in Philippians 4:8: “Finally, brothers, whatever is true, whatever is honorable, whatever is just, whatever is pure, whatever is lovely, whatever is commendable, if there is any excellence, if there is anything worthy of praise, think about these things.” When you fill the drawer of your mind with godly thoughts, then ungodly thoughts have a harder time sticking around. But often, we must clear out the junk before we can fill our minds with sanctifying thoughts. Thus, Paul also taught that the way to eradicate “deceitful desires” is “to be renewed in the spirit of your minds” (Eph. 4:32). We must “take every thought captive” to Christ, grabbing hold of wicked thoughts, and throwing them out (2 Cor. 10:5; cf. Jer. 4:14; Isa. 55:7). The Puritan Thomas Brooks compared evil thoughts to unwelcome hotel guests, and counseled, “And like unruly philanderers and rakish revelers, they lodge and party day and night, defiling the rooms they lodge in with their loathsome filth and vomit. These vain, unruly guests must be kicked out the door without any warning or delay.” Certainly, a messy junk drawer doesn’t ruin the whole house, but a spiritually cluttered mind will ruin your whole life. Few things are more exigent than getting control of our thought lives, for “as he thinketh in his heart, so is he” (Prov. 23:7). And just as there is peaceful pleasure when opening a clean drawer, the Scripture promises peace to those whose minds are clean: “You keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on you” (Isaiah 26:3a).

In a fog

By Gary Miller

One of the conditions that hunters must face this time of year is the fog. Sometimes it lingers seemingly all day making it difficult to see, especially when hunting with firearms. And then there’s the drive to the hunt. Just seeing each turn can sometimes be almost impossible without some type of marker. This is the case at one of my hunting locations. Over the years I have marked a particular turn by a light. While driving down the road this light creates an illusion that it is in the middle of the road. If there’s no fog, I can see it for at least a mile away. I simply drive to it and then make the turn. It makes everything easy. When there’s a thick fog, this makes it more difficult because now I have to be close to it before I see it. And I have passed it up a few times. The key is slowing down, locating the light, and heading in the right direction. Sometimes my life seems like I’m living in a fog. Rarely do my directions seem clear and knowing which way to go is difficult to discern. The problem is just like my attempt at hunting; I sometimes forget to slow down and locate the markers that give me the help I need. I instead complain about uncertainty or God’s lack of communication and continue to barrel down the road without adjusting for this fog I’m now in. The truth is, when these conditions show up in my life, I cannot continue to travel as I have been. I must make the necessary adjustments in order that I don’t miss the turn I need to take. The light that marks my way is still there. He is as sure and stable as any marker we might have in our life. But sometimes we must approach slowly, linger longer, and move toward our change of direction with a greater focus on the turn. Are you living in a fog right now? Have you uttered complaints about the seeming lack of God’s guidance? Are you getting ready to make a move even though you are unsure about the direction? Maybe you need to slow down. The light is still there, but in the fog you’ll have to draw a little closer before you see it. But when you do, you’ll discover this was precisely the reason for the fog – not to hide His will, but to bring you nearer to the One who gives it. Gary Miller

Taking a moment to appreciate our blessings

By:Dr. Holland; billyhollandministries.com

The year has flown by and now Thanksgiving is here. I hope you have a meaningful Thanksgiving with family and friends. The election is over, basketball is starting, and the sentimental feelings of fall have turned into the blah of winter. Many already have their Christmas trees up, and this week delicious turkeys will be the centerpiece of our tables. Actually, our celebration to give thanks was created in the United States in 1863, as President Abraham Lincoln wanted to promote unity and for all Americans to show their gratitude to God. Thanksgiving eventually became a national holiday in 1941, but what about counting our blessings every day? Last week, we had another successful holiday food drive at the County Fire District where I’ve been chaplain since 2012. Through generous contributions, volunteers help organize and coordinate boxes of food and a turkey to hundreds of families in our community every Thanksgiving. It’s a large operation and a great ministry for families who could use a blessing. Amid the distribution activities, a man who’s been having a hard time lately started sharing with me. I guess you could say he’s given up on life and has become bitter. It breaks my heart to see people struggling with depression and who believe their problems are hopeless. As a minister and counselor, I’ve learned that we cannot get into another person’s head and replace their contaminated thinking with optimism and hope. We can speak words of life and faith, we can show them Bible promises, we can pray for them, and even refer them to a psychologist, but everyone must realize some very crucial realities. When someone becomes serious about changing their situation, they must develop a passion to allow God to renew their mind. If they are not willing to see how God has already blessed them, while refusing to help themselves, they will continue in a dark and destructive cycle. Since the mind is everyone’s battlefield for control, understanding who we are in Christ and our responsibility to obey Him should be a constant priority. Yes, we all go through a difficult seasons from time to time, but instead of agreeing with the voices of gloom and doom, the best option is to listen, absorb, and comprehend God’s viewpoint within our thoughts. I’m not referring to a wishy-washy happiness or a cranberry holiday, I’m talking about a lifestyle of spiritual contentment and peace that passes all understanding. Even science proves that being thankful improves our physical and mental health, increases empathy, reduces aggression, improves sleep, helps with self-esteem and bolsters our fortitude. We can all use more of that. Could we venture to say those who express sincere gratitude have less stress and sadness than those who do not? I say yes. According to a 2014 Pew Research study about how often participants felt an attitude of gratitude, there was a 22 percent difference between Christians and non-Christians. What does this reveal?

It gives us a hint that a personal relationship with God plays a vital role in how sincerely thankful we are. Even beyond our awareness of His blessings, Christians invest time communicating with the one who created everything and everyone. How much more confidence and security could we possibly have? You see, the Bible is not just another book, as God’s word has divine authority to transform our miserable thinking into a positive and faith-filled powerhouse! When we choose to interpret life according to His will, we are excited to praise and worship Him for who He is. 1 Thessalonians 5:18 is not a suggestion, “In everything give thanks, for this is the will of God in Jesus Christ concerning you.” It’s easy to fall into a pity party because we do not have what we want, without considering what we already have. Some are proud of their intelligence, creativity, and accomplishments, but instead of being grateful and giving God all the glory, they are always ready to take a bow and receive the honor and adoration for themselves. The man who was angry and sad that I mentioned earlier, never once mentioned being thankful for God’s grace, having a nice home, a good wife, being healthy, a successful business and talents, accomplished children and beautiful grandchildren, and so on. Unfortunately, he is clearly being distracted by the enemy who tries to convince all of us we are defeated. We are not likely to appreciate the wonders of God’s love if we do not acknowledge His constant mercy.

Betty Lou Jerrell

Betty Lou Jerrell, 90, of Kevil, Kentucky, left her earthly home of 71 years for her heavenly home on Friday, November 14, 2025.

Betty was born March 26, 1935, in the Kevil area of Ballard County to the late Terry and Eileen Shelby. She was a long-time employee of the Kevil Bank and began her career there when she was in high school. She continued to work there part-time through the years until returning to full-time in 1977 in the loan department. She became Vice President in the early 1990s and continued in that capacity until she retired in June 2013, when the Kevil Bank was sold. She and her husband, Hugh, were involved in the harness horse industry for many years, where Hugh owned, trained, and drove harness horses. They and their children would spend each summer living in the Louisville and Lexington area, racing, and return home each fall to train on their farm in Kevil.

Betty was an accomplished pianist and organist and began playing at the Kevil Methodist Church when she was in her early teens. She has continued to play the organ there until early October of this year. Through the years, she played for many weddings, funerals, and occasions in the area. She was a life-long, devoted member of the Kevil United Methodist Church and also a 40-year member of the Ballard County Homemakers and Kevil Junior Homemakers Club. She was also a volunteer for Ballard County 4H over the past years. Most of all, she was a devoted and loving Mother and Grandmother; “Maw Betty” to her children, grandchildren, and many others. She is survived by her daughter, Joni Jordan of Kevil; son, Randal (Paula) Jerrell of Kevil; a sister, Ruth Bowles, of Kevil; Grandsons, Jeremy (Ashlee) Jordan of Kevil, and Clayton (Carli) Jerrell of Newburgh, Indiana; great-grandsons, Nash Jordan and Wyatt Jerrell; and great-granddaughters, Savannah and Emma Henderson.

10 Interesting Facts About College Basketball

Basketball is not an easy sport — it takes endurance, team spirit and great skills to outscore opponents and win the game. There's more to basketball than just a court, a ball and a referee. Here are some interesting facts you probably don't know about the sport of basketball.

1. James Naismith invented basketball

Asked in 1891 to invent an indoor winter activity by his boss at a YMCA in Springfield, Massachusetts, James Naismith is credited as the founder of basketball. Naismith, a physical education teacher, also wrote the original basketball rule book and founded the University of Kansas basketball program.

2. Basketball was played with a different ball

As bizarre as it sounds, basketball was originally played with a soccer ball and peach baskets, with referees having to retrieve the ball each time a player made a basket. In 1900, the string baskets we know today were introduced to the game and, later, backboards were attached to prevent spectators from blocking a shot.

3. Dribbling wasn't allowed

Players never could advance the ball. Instead, each player had to throw it from wherever he caught it. The first team credited with advancing the ball by dribbling it played at Yale in 1897, and the official allowance for the dribble, just one per possession at first, were adopted four years later.

Another important basketball move, the slam dunk, was banned just before the 1967-1968 season until the 1976-1977 season.

4. More players per side

The number of players per side was never specified. Naismith invented an indoor winter activity and wanted a game flexible enough to include whoever wanted to play. For a while, the total number of players was a default 18, nine per side, the same number that showed up for the very first game.

5. Fouls played

Shouldering, holding, pushing, tripping or otherwise striking an opponent was never allowed. However, such offenses were never considered fouls until 1910, with the advent of a rule disqualifying a player for committing four of them. That total was raised to five in 1946, in the inaugural rules of the Basketball Association of America (the original name of the National Basketball Association), and to six the next year.

6. Referees used watches

That is because one of the official duties of early refs was timekeeping. Then again, there wasn't that much time to keep: the 24-second shot clock wasn't instituted until 1954, to combat stalling tactics NBA teams had begun to employ.

7. The game was much shorter

Naismith proposed two 15-minute halves, with five minutes of rest in between.

8. The 1979 NCAA tournament was the start of basketball greats College basketball remains one of the most popular sports, but spectators remember the Michigan State versus Indiana State college basketball game of 1979 during the NCAA tournament, which is one of the best-rated games in the sport's history. As a matchup between Magic Johnson and Larry Bird, who had never played each other prior to this tournament, this game marked the beginning of having basketball greats and NBA stars.

9. Possession rules changed in 1913

The game as we know it gives possession of an out-of-bounds ball to the player who last had contact with it, but that wasn't always the case. Prior to 1913, a referee would pick up and throw an out-of-bounds ball down the court, and the first player to touch it retained possession. The rules eventually changed because of the increase in the number of player injuries.

10. Michael Jordan paid fines for wearing his shoes

You probably connect Michael Jordan with his legendary Air Jordans, a now-iconic shoe because of its record sales numbers. What you may not know is that these shoes used to be against NBA dress code. Michael Jordan paid an NBA fine each time he wore them rather than play the game without them. Eventually, the NBA allowed the shoes on the court.

It's all about the TEAM!

School sports can be helpful activities for students to participate in. They learn the importance of cohesive teamwork and great leadership skills. All of which can be applied to skills within the workplace later in life. Best of Luck to All Teams this season!
