Calloway County Middle School Team #1 Advances to DOE National Science Bowl

PADUCAH, Ky.—Today, Calloway County Middle School Team #1 won this year's U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) West Kentucky Regional Science Bowl, an event touted as the region's most prominent science competition for high school and middle school students. The five-member team will compete in DOE's National Science Bowl finals in Washington, D.C., from April 30 – May 4, 2026. "Calloway County Middle School Team #1 will join McCracken County High School in this year's DOE National Science Bowl, representing our region in the preeminent STEM academic event in the country," Portsmouth Paducah Project Office (PPPO) Interim Acting Deputy Manager and Paducah Site Lead April Ladd said. "The DOE West Kentucky Regional Science Bowl continues to highlight the remarkable abilities of our region's students and the incredible commitment of volunteers and coaches who make this an amazing event year-in and year-out." The regional tournament is a quick-recall, fast-paced, question-and-answer contest. During the competition, students are quizzed on their knowledge of biology, chemistry, Earth and space, energy, mathematics and physics. Lone Oak Middle School Team #1 finished second and Henderson County North Middle School took third place in the regional competition. "I am so proud of our young women and men today on their accomplishment. They have worked so hard all year long," Calloway County Middle School Team #1 Coach Scott Pile said. "A special thank you to DOE for granting the students of west Kentucky an amazing opportunity to complete and learn every year." Also competing in this year's regional match were Ballard County, Hopkinsville, Christian County, Murray, Graves County, Paducah, Heath, Reidland and St. Mary middle schools from Kentucky and Cairo and Massac County middle schools from Illinois. The first-place middle school team in the regional tournament receives $1,200 for their schools. Sponsors of the 18th Annual DOE West Kentucky Regional Science Bowl include DOE, the University of Kentucky College of Engineering-Paducah Campus, the Paducah Area Chamber of Commerce, Four Rivers Nuclear Partnership, Mission Conversion Services Alliance, Swift & Staley, Inc., North Wind Dynamics, Petter Business Systems, Bacon Farmer Workman, Beltline Electric Company, Enterprise Technical Assistance Services, Geosyntec, HealthWorks, Fairfield Service Group, Paducah Water, Value Added Solutions, Primo Water, General Matter, Strata-G, Chase Environmental Group, GEO Consultants, and HDR Engineering. The regional event is sponsored and organized by DOE's PPPO employees and contractors. More than 100 volunteers from the Paducah Site

Hardin City Council Continues Financial Discussion

By Kelsey Edwards
KPI Editor

The Hardin City Council covered a wide range of topics during its February 9, 2026 meeting, including the sale of city property, ongoing financial challenges, staffing changes, nuisance property enforcement, and future leadership of the city. The meeting began with a presentation from Brian Cannon, who has filed to run for Marshall County jailer. Cannon shared that he has built his career in corrections at the Calloway County Jail and currently lives in Aurora. Speaking to council members, Cannon said that if elected, he would work to ensure that Hardin and other southern Marshall County communities receive equal attention and representation, noting that he believes those areas are often overlooked. Following the presentation, the council voted unanimously to move forward with the sale of the city's old firehouse and the surrounding property. Hank Rogalinski explained that while the council had previously agreed to sell the property during an executive session, the formal vote was required to take place during an open meeting. Rogalinski also provided an update on the anticipated Fourth Street bridge project, sharing that the state Transportation Cabinet has indicated construction could begin within four to six weeks. He added that he planned to transfer funds from the city's certificates of deposit into the general budget, as previously agreed by the council, which then prompted another extended discussion about the city's financial situation, echoing concerns raised at prior meetings. Vickie

Burkeen, a council member, raised several questions related to the city's finances, pointing to staff turnover in recent years and asking about the experience of City Clerk Missy Curry. Curry responded that she has a background in local government but acknowledged that she had to quickly learn the QuickBooks accounting system when she took the position. Burkeen emphasized that the city should take steps to ensure it does not face similar financial difficulties again. Curry reiterated that the issues originated before her hiring and said she uncovered the problems because she is capable and thorough in her role. Burkeen also suggested that large expenses should be brought before the council for approval, referencing recent aerator failures. Rogalinski countered that emergency equipment replacements cannot always wait for monthly meetings, while Burkeen suggested holding special meetings when necessary. Rogalinski maintained that current operations are being handled properly and that previous errors occurred before the current staff was in place. Randall Scott, the former Hardin mayor and resident auditor, Kim Ham, had retired. The new auditing firm significantly increased costs, totaling about $60,000 for three years of audits. Combined with a backlog of unpaid bills, the city was required to pay a large sum in a short period of time. Curry described the situation as a "snowball effect," noting that while past-due bills were brought current, roughly a year ago, the city's available funds are now limited. Rogalinski also noted that the city frequently has multi-page shutoff lists, meaning Hardin continues to pay for gas and water services while many customers fall behind on payments. During a special meeting on January 22, the council voted to cash out part of the city's certificates of deposit to stabilize the budget. Rogalinski said proceeds from the firehouse sale are also intended to serve as a financial buffer and, together with the CD funds, help keep the city operating. In another cost-saving measure, the council unanimously approved reducing a city maintenance position from full-time to part-time status, with expected hours around 30 per week. The decision followed earlier financial discussions, and Rogalinski noted the position could return to full-time in the future if circumstances allow. Rogalinski then updated the council on ongoing nuisance property enforcement efforts. Several property owners have received notices but failed to begin cleanup, resulting in liens being placed on some properties. Other owners have requested extensions after starting cleanup work. One property owner, who had previously been cited for ordinance violations, experienced a fire on the property. Council members discussed whether the damage might present an opportunity for cleanup, noting that community members had offered to help both with cleanup and supporting the affected family. Rogalinski said he had initially considered recommending a six-month cleanup extension but changed his view after learning of the community's willingness

Behind the Beans: University of Kentucky Coffee Lab introduces education certificate

By Grace Sowards
University of Kentucky

LEXINGTON, Ky.— Humans crave rituals. Whether one is a student, corporate employee, parent or caretaker, a cup of morning coffee can breathe life into an otherwise monotonous schedule.

David Gonthier, associate professor in the Department of Entomology at the Martin-Gatton College of Agriculture, Food and Environment and one of The Early-Career Bill Gatton Foundation Professors, understands the value in a daily cup of joe. Further, he is leading the University of Kentucky toward its first coffee education program.

Gonthier's interest in coffee started at home. His mother is from Honduras, one of the top coffee-producing countries in the world. He spent time there with his cousin, a coffee farmer, to learn the ins and outs of production and how the supply chain works.

"I'd heard so much about the challenges small coffee farmers face and wanted to go see it firsthand," Gonthier said.

Inspired from his trip, Gonthier pursued a master's and PhD, studying coffee in Southern Mexico. Throughout his learning, he was continuing a small operation in Honduras. He continued his education by becoming a coffee Q-grader, or professional taster trained to score coffee quality (somewhat similar to being a wine sommelier).

Over his years in academia, Gonthier realized there are few coffee education programs at higher education institutions in the United States. Combining his love for coffee, agriculture and history, Gonthier created the first Coffee, Science and Culture Certificate for UK undergraduate students.

"The certificate offers a set of courses that casts a wide net across the industry," Gonthier said. "I want to paint the picture of the global trade of a commodity that is very valuable but is dependent on millions of small producers that need to be supported by this trade. The goal is to balance these facts with the passion of the craft of coffee making, from roasting and brewing, to espresso based specialty drinks."

The UK Coffee Lab roastery resides on the UK Horticulture Research Farm (South Farm). Students in coffee courses come to the lab to see the roaster in action and learn about different bean varieties and how roasting impacts their complex flavors.

"I think the community is excited. There aren't many opportunities to take coffee training to the next level in Eastern North America," Gonthier said. "I think trying to develop university programs that can offer at least versions of some of the standard trainings and other unique opportunities fills a gap in Kentucky for sure."

Briana Bazile is a part-time instructor at UK and graduate fellow in the Gonthier Agroecology Lab. She and Viktor Halmos, research analyst at Martin-Gatton CAFE and an alumnus of the Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Science, worked with Gonthier to create the curriculum for the Coffee, Science and Culture

Certificate and get the UK Coffee Lab off the ground.

"I met Dave when deciding if I should go to grad school," Halmos said. "We shared a cup of coffee. I have always been around food and farming. I was a chef for a little while, so I started giving some very basic notes [flavor] and Dave got really excited."

Bazile grew up in the Bay Area and has always been a proponent of healthy eating, as the region is a large organic foods producer. Her grandparents are from the Black Belt of Alabama, a region known for its rich soil and fruitful farmland. During the COVID-19 pandemic, she spent time there and wrote her graduate thesis through the lens of her family. Her thesis won best thesis in a contest at New York University (NYU), and that is how Gonthier found her.

With this team, Gonthier has created two classes for undergraduates: Not Just Coffee, focusing on the rich history and cultural significance of coffee growing, and Coffee Sensory Science, which dives deeper into the sensory characteristics of the beverage.

"The certificate program will have something for everyone," Gonthier said. "Learning how to taste and appreciate foods and beverages totally improves the quality of life — you'll start to think more about not only coffee, but everything you're eating and drinking and where it comes from."

Pending final institutional approval, students will be able to pursue the certification starting in Fall 2026. For more information on the Coffee, Science and Culture Certificate and the UK Coffee Lab, contact David Gonthier at djgo227@g.uky.edu.

Kentucky Coffee: A Bold Southern Tradition

Kentucky coffee is a comforting Southern classic that blends rich coffee with the warm kick of Kentucky bourbon. Known for its smooth yet spirited flavor, this drink reflects the heritage of a state famous for both its hospitality and its world-class whiskey. Traditionally served hot, Kentucky coffee combines freshly brewed dark roast coffee, a measure of bourbon, a touch of brown sugar or simple syrup, and a generous topping of lightly whipped cream.

The magic of Kentucky coffee lies in its balance. The bold bitterness of the coffee complements the caramel and vanilla notes found in bourbon, while the cream adds a silky finish. It is especially popular during colder months, at holiday gatherings, or as an after-dinner treat.

More than just a beverage, Kentucky coffee represents comfort and craftsmanship. Whether enjoyed by a fireplace or at a festive celebration, it offers a taste of Southern warmth in every sip.

Beef Systems Analyzer helps producers improve management, funding access

By Jennifer Elwell
University of Kentucky

LEXINGTON, Ky.— The University of Kentucky Beef Extension Team has enhanced its Beef Systems Analyzer, an online management tool designed to help producers strengthen their operations through targeted, research-based recommendations.

Supported by funding from the Kentucky Agricultural Development Fund (KADF), the Beef Systems Analyzer evaluates key management areas — such as nutrition, forage, health, genetics, reproduction and general practices — and generates customized recommendations based on producer input.

“Using logic-based modeling, the analyzer asks farmers a series of questions about their management and marketing, then uses these inputs to provide the most critical management changes to improve their operation,” said Darrh Bullock, beef Extension specialist with the UK Martin-Gatton College of Agriculture, Food and Environment. “With every recommendation, producers receive videos and fact sheets to help them implement these practices. Our goal is to improve the efficiency, productivity, profitability and safety of beef operations across the state.”

Beginning in 2026, producers who complete the program can now earn one hour of educational credit toward the County Agricultural Investment Program (CAIP), making the tool more valuable than ever for farmers seeking cost-share opportunities. The platform also includes a registration system to support county agriculture and natural resources (ANR) Extension agents and improved database functionality to help manage compliance, storage and program reporting.

“Educational credits are required for recipients of CAIP funds to facilitate adoption of improved, science-based or sustainable practices that enhance farm management, production and marketing,” said Brandon Sears, ANR agent at the Madison County Extension office. “This mandatory, minimum one-hour of training — covering topics like best management practices or technical skills — must be approved by a county ANR Extension agent to validate the investment of public funds.”

To receive CAIP educational credit, producers must register on the website, complete the Best Management Practices Analyzer and one additional analyzer of their choice, and watch the instructional video provided in the program.

After completion, participants may print, download or email their certificate directly from the system. County ANR Extension agents will also have access to certificates through the registration platform and must approve them before credit is awarded.

“The system is designed so that producers will not be overwhelmed with a long list of tasks,” Bullock said. “Instead, it offers a manageable set of recommendations. Once farmers complete a set of tasks, they can resume the analyzer for additional insights. Like most software, the best way to learn is simply to use it, and we welcome feedback that can help us continually improve the program.”

The renewed push to promote the Beef Systems Analyzer comes as UK Beef Extension encourages more producers to adopt management practices that increase operational sustainability. Though the software has been available for several years, its official use as a CAIP educational tool represents a significant new opportunity for farmers looking to access funding for improvements on their operations.

“This free online tool helps producers identify practices to boost efficiency and profitability,” Bullock said. “By pairing personalized recommendations with supporting resources, the analyzer makes improvement more achievable for operations of all sizes.”

Interested producers can visit the Beef Systems Analyzer website for additional information. Assistance is also available through local ANR Extension agents. For technical support, users may contact Darrh Bullock at dbullock@uky.edu.

Closing in on a 20-plus win season, the Lady Bombers have to execute on both ends of the floor. In their 3rd meeting of the season against St. Mary, Ballard Memorial looked to claim the season win as the teams split their prior meetings. The Lady Bombers looked to deliver the knockout punch, but they could not put the Lady Vikings away. They took a 15-9 lead before St. Mary tied the game up at 15 all. Gracee Beere's trey late in the half allowed the Lady Bombers take a 22-17 led, but St Mary closed to within 22-21 at the half. The Lady Vikings rallied to take a 33-32 lead into the 4th quarter. Ballard Memorial scored the first 6 points of the final quarter and would not relinquish the lead the remainder of the game. St. Mary closed to within 39-38 but Ballard Memorial hit enough free throws down the stretch to win 44-41. Beere led the Lady Bombers with 14 and senior Kate O'Neill added 10 points. In another rematch, Ballard Memorial played host to Muhlenberg County. The Lady Mustangs won their earlier meeting by 17, but Lady Bombers had done much better in all their rematches throughout the season. Ballard Memorial led 20-15 before Muhlenberg went on an 11-0 run to gain control of the game. They led by as many as 10 points in the 4th quarter. Ballard Memorial closed to within 47-43 but the Lady Mustangs scored the next 5 to go back up by 9. With 17 seconds remaining, Beere hit her 5th trey of the game to pull back to within 54-50, but Muhlenberg put the game away with a pair of free throws to win 56-50. Beere led the team with 19 points. Beere duplicated that with another 19 point and 5 trey performance in the Lady Bombers 46-36 win over Trigg County. Ali Dorman came off the bench to score 10 points and hit a pair of treys in the Lady Bombers 18th win of the season. Ballard Memorial will play at Charleson, Mo on Friday the 20th before playing Mayfield in the 3rd District semifinal game on Tuesday the 24th at 6:00 at Mayfield High School.

Ballard Memorial rallied to defeat out of state foe Vienna, IL 56-50 to pick up the teams' 7th win of the season. Vienna did a good job of driving into the lane and kicking out to open shooters to gain a 9 point first half lead. Mason Crowley scored 9 1st half points to help trim the deficit to 27-22 at the half. Vienna extended the lead back to 9 in the 3rd quarter before the Bombers gained momentum to grab the lead. A 22-7 rally gave the Bombers a 49-43 lead. Grayson Sparacio led the team with 16 points and Reed Duren added 11 in the Bombers win. The Bombers then faced a long time rival

St. Mary. The Vikings won their earlier meeting by 2 in overtime early in the season. Sparacio and Ike Miller led the Bombers with a combined 27 of the teams 29 1st half points to lead 29-27 at the halftime break. Things turned in favor toward the end of the 3rd quarter for the Vikings. St. Mary trailed 40-35 late in the 3rd quarter and then went on a 16-3 run to take command. The Vikings went on to pick up the 58-51 win. Sparacio had a team high of 21 points and 7 rebounds while Miller added 19 points and 6 rebounds. Miller also hauled in his 700th career rebound for the Bombers. Ballard Memorial begins the final week of the regular season at Trigg County. Both teams struggled offensively as the Wildcats carried a 19-17 lead into the locker room. Miller got things started in the 2nd half, hitting a trey to give the Bombers their first lead of the night. That led to a 21-6 Bomber 3rd quarter advantage to give Ballard Memorial a 38-25 lead. The Bombers hit 5 treys in the 2nd half to pull away for the 54-35 win. Sparacio had 15 points and Miller added 13 points and 17 rebounds for another double-double. The Bombers will play the Mayfield Cardinals at Mayfield on Tuesday, February 24th in the 3rd District Tournament around 7:30. The winner plays on Thursday in the 3rd District Championship against Graves County.

High school flag football revisions announced

Staff Report

LEXINGTON — In its first meeting to address rules changes in the sport, the NFHS Flag Football Rules Committee approved eight changes to the initial set of rules developed last year.

All revisions recommended by the NFHS Flag Football Rules Committee were reviewed by the NFHS Rules Review Committee and subsequently approved by the NFHS Board of Directors.

Headlining the revisions recommended by the committee at its January 26-27 meeting was an exception to Rule 8-3-9, which will allow the team trailing in score to keep possession of the ball following a try. If it so elects, the trailing team would take possession of the ball, fourth down at its own 20-yard line.

Normally, after a try by the scoring team, the opponent receives the ball at its own 14-yard line. This opportunity to retain the ball is an attempt to mirror tackle football, which provides the scoring team the option of an onside kick to retain possession of the ball.

"Following thorough experimentation in multiple states, the committee is excited to introduce flag football's version of an onside kick," said Tyler Cerimeli, chair of the NFHS Flag Football Rules Committee and director of athletics and officials for the Arizona Interscholastic Association. "This will allow a team that is trailing the opportunity to run a high-risk play in order to retain possession and facilitate a potential comeback."

Another change approved for high school flag football in 2026-27 involves restarting play following a safety. Next year, following a safety, the team whose goal line was involved shall put the ball in play by scrimmage kick from its own 20-yard line. In the first set of rules last year, the team whose goal line was not involved put the ball in play by snap from its own 30-yard line.

Bob Colgate, NFHS director of sports and sports medicine and editor of the NFHS Flag Football Rules Committee, said the committee made this change to create a more significant field position advantage while also becoming consistent with tackle football.

Other revisions included three changes in Rule 1 – The Game, Field, Players and Equipment, two of which are by state association adoption. Beginning in 2026-27, states will have a fourth option for the size of the playing field. In addition to the existing options of 300 x 120 feet, 360 x 120 feet and 360 by 160 feet, the committee approved the additional size of 300 x 160 feet.

The other rule revision by state adoption is a note to Rule 1-3-7, which will offer states the option of instant replay during state postseason games only.

to support the seven-player game for high school flag football, but a change was made to Rule 1-1-3 stating that each team shall begin the game with seven players, but if a team has no substitutes to replace injured or disqualified players, it may play with no fewer than five.

In Rule 2-18, the committee approved a new definition for hurdling as follows: Hurdling is an attempt by a player to jump (hurdle) with one or both feet or knees foremost over an opponent who is contacting the ground with no part of their body except one or both feet.

Colgate said the committee added this definition because it was not previously defined but was listed as an illegal personal contact foul in the initial rules book last year.

The final changes include one to Rule 3-5-1, which increases the total number of charged time-outs per half from two to three, as well as a revision to Rule 9-7-4, which clarifies what cannot be done to the ball that is in player possession. Article 4 now states that a ball in player possession shall not be batted, stripped or attempted to be stripped by punching, striking or grabbing the ball by a player of either team.

A complete listing of the flag football rules changes will be available on the NFHS website at www.nfhs.org. Click on "Sports" at the top of the home page and select "Flag Football" and then "Rules." The print version of the 2026-27 Flag Football Rules Book will be available for purchase in late May at www.NFHS.com, and the digital version will be available in May via NFHS Digital at www.NFHS.org.

Currently, 17 state associations have sanctioned girls flag football, with six additional states voting on sanctioning in 2026, and 15 states are involved in independent/pilot programs at some level. States that have sanctioned the sport for girls include NFHS member associations in Alabama, Alaska, Arizona, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Illinois, Mississippi, Nevada, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Tennessee and Washington. The Louisiana High School Athletic Association will begin sanctioning the sport in 2027.

The six state associations voting in 2026 include Oregon, Kansas, North Carolina, New Jersey, Rhode Island and Maryland.

State associations with independent/pilot programs include Delaware, District of Columbia, Indiana, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Texas, Virginia and Wisconsin.

According to the 2024-25 NFHS High School Athletics Participation Survey, a total of 68,847 girls participated in flag football in 2,736 schools nationwide.

Bale Grazing: A Winter Feeding Strategy That Works

Source: Greg Halich, Extension professor in agricultural economics

The winter feeding method known as bale grazing can reduce tractor use by more than 50%, keep cattle clean and out of mud and improve pasture fertility without buying fertilizer. This method will also allow livestock producers to take a worry-free winter vacation.

Many believe these benefits sound too good to be true, but they have been consistently observed on nearly 100 farms across five states over the past decade. With a small investment in portable fencing and a shift in winter management, bale grazing can transform how you feed cattle.

What is bale grazing?

Instead of delivering hay to livestock as needed, one to three months of winter hay is placed on pasture in large batches. This is typically done in late fall or early winter, when drier ground conditions allow for tractor traffic. Bales are sectioned off by temporary electric fencing, and cattle gain access to new bales as you move the fence every few days, much like rotational grazing. When hay rings are used, they're simply rolled to the next set of bales.

Pugging damage to the soil is minimized because the cattle spend most of their time near the current set of bales. The sod they were just moved to hasn't had any animal impact for months, and that pasture will only be bale-grazed once that winter.

The biggest mindset shift? Instead of moving hay to the cattle all winter, you will be moving your cattle to the hay. Instead of you doing the bulk of the winter feeding work, your cattle will do the bulk of the work for you.

What are the benefits of bale grazing?

Better fertility, less work. Bale grazing spreads nutrients across the pasture naturally. Many farms have seen dramatic improvements in pasture production within two to four winters. Reduced tractor use.

Hay is distributed in large batches during dry weather, eliminating the need to drive a tractor through wet winter fields. Most farms see immediate reductions in labor and fuel use, with 50% or more time savings by year two or three as confidence grows in setting out more hay at once.

Cleaner, healthier cattle. Cattle stay cleaner because they're moved onto fresh sod every few days rather than standing in accumulated mud near a single hay-feeding area. Cleaner coats mean better insulation and less energy spent navigating muddy ground.

Easier winter travel. Because you only need to move a portable fence every few days — and can even preset moves — it's far easier to leave the farm for short periods. Helpers don't need to operate equipment; they only need to move portable fencing.

What are the challenges of bale grazing?

The biggest hurdles are planning and cattle training. You'll need to estimate winter hay needs, choose suitable pastures and plan bale layout before winter begins. Cattle must also be comfortable with temporary electric fencing. Training is simple but essential — especially when numerous bales sit behind a single crossfence. Using two fences (current and next move) adds security. And as always, avoid letting cattle get hungry enough to test a fence.

Kentucky's Spring Forest Fire Hazard Season Underway

By Laurna Todd
KPI Writer

Emergency Management officials across Kentucky are reminding residents that the Spring Forest Fire Hazard Season runs from February 15 through April 30, bringing restrictions on outdoor burning to help prevent wildfires and protect lives, property, and first responders.

State law prohibits burning within 150 feet of woodland or brushland between 6 a.m. and 6 p.m. Where local regulations allow, natural vegetation such as leaves, brush, and tree limbs may be burned only between 6 p.m. and 6 a.m., when winds are typically calmer and humidity is higher. Residents should burn only when conditions are safe, with calm air and adequate moisture to prevent flames from spreading.

Burning garbage, plastics, tires, treated wood, or other household waste is illegal at any time. Any permitted fire must be kept small, constantly attended, and fully extinguished before leaving the area. Officials also warn that recent snow and ice brought down limbs and debris that can become dry fuel for wildfires as temperatures rise. Residents are encouraged to review local ordinances and consult air quality or waste management agencies before conducting outdoor burning.

Emergency officials stress a simple but critical reminder: never leave a fire unattended. Careful adherence to seasonal burn restrictions helps protect communities across the Commonwealth.

Western Kentucky Distillery Earns Global Honors

By Laurna Todd
KPI Writer

In a remarkable season of achievement, Jackson Purchase Distillery and its leadership have earned prestigious recognition at both the state and international levels, bringing pride not only to Fulton County but to all of Western Kentucky.

Head Distiller Terry Ballard was recently named 2026 Distillery Manager of the Year at the renowned World Whiskies Awards—one of the spirits industry's most respected global competitions. In his role, Ballard oversees the day-to-day operations at the Hickman distillery, manages staff and leads efforts to connect the distillery with the Fulton County community. The honor reflects his leadership, operational excellence and dedication to the team, recognizing the people and craftsmanship behind the barrels as much as the bourbon itself.

Adding to the historic recognition,

Master Distiller Craig Beam was inducted into the Kentucky Bourbon Hall of Fame in 2025. A seventh-generation distiller, Beam's career represents decades of influence and craftsmanship within Kentucky's signature industry, making his induction a milestone for both the distillery and the broader bourbon tradition.

The honors extend beyond individual achievement. Jackson Purchase Distillery also received the 2025 Environmental Sustainability Award, highlighting a commitment to responsible production practices and long-term stewardship of the region's natural resources.

Since opening in 2021, the distillery has rapidly grown into a major contract producer and recently celebrated filling its 100,000th barrel—an achievement signaling strong momentum and confidence in Western Kentucky's expanding role in the future of bourbon.

Together, these recognitions tell a powerful story of heritage, leadership and forward progress. They affirm that world-class excellence is thriving in Hickman and stand as a shared honor for communities across Western Kentucky, whose tradition of hard work and pride continues to shape Kentucky's global bourbon legacy.

First Baptist Barlow honors the life and legacy of Patty Rich

By: Laurna Todd
KPI Writer

Recently, the congregation of First Baptist Church in Barlow paused to honor and remember the life of Ms. Patty L. Rich, a faithful and beloved member who passed away on Monday, February 9, 2026. Church members wore special hats during the morning service as a simple but heartfelt tribute to a woman whose kindness and warmth touched countless lives. Patty retired as Deputy Clerk from the Ballard County Court Clerk's Office, where she greeted nearly everyone with a welcoming smile and friendly conversation. Her genuine care for others extended far beyond her workplace and into the heart of the community she loved. In retirement, Patty enjoyed peaceful moments on her front porch, always ready to welcome friends and family for fellowship. The Ballard County community's steady love, support, and everyday kindness serve as a true breath of fresh air—something Patty both experienced and shared with others. Her life left a lasting impact not only within her church, but across the entire county, where she will be deeply missed and fondly remembered.

Ballard Fiscal Court reviews bridge project, staffing and grants

By Laurna Todd
KPI Writer

The Ballard County Fiscal Court met Feb. 3, 2026, at 5 p.m. with Judge-Executive Todd Cooper and magistrates Ryan Hedrick, Jody Brown, Stonnie Dennis, Nathan Whipple and Chip Bisson in attendance. The court approved the Jan. 20 meeting minutes without a public reading.

Much of the discussion focused on road department business. Magistrates unanimously accepted a $348,998.14 bid from Jim Smith Construction for the Morning Meadows Bridge replacement. The court also approved use of a private roadway owned by JK Reeves for public travel during construction, allowing the county to haul gravel, spread it and maintain the road as needed. In a separate vote, magistrates approved extended warranty coverage through June 30, 2026, for Diamond Mowers equipment after earlier mechanical issues. Court members also thanked road crews and local farmers who helped clear county roads during the recent winter weather.

Several personnel actions were approved, including hiring for the ambulance service, re-hiring a jail employee and promoting another to full-time status. Later in the meeting, the court voted to suspend a jail employee without pay or benefits pending the outcome of an Illinois criminal case.

Sheriff Ronnie Giles met with the court in executive session. After returning to open session, magistrates approved a $37,000 loan agreement with the Sheriff's Department for an employee contract buyout, to be repaid by Jan. 31, 2027.

911 Dispatch Director Larry Fraser reported progress toward Next Generation 911, with a projected start date of March 26, 2026, and noted the closing of a Homeland Security grant tied to dispatch consolidation.

The court also approved budget amendments, routine payments and resolutions connected to grant funding for a proposed 30-acre riverfront development site near Wickliffe before adjourning.

MinistrySafe offering free webinars

MinistrySafe, which equips churches and ministry programs to better protect children from sexual abuse, is offering a free once-a-month webinar series starting Feb. 26.

The webinar series will equip ministry leaders with practical, actionable guidance for strengthening child protection efforts.

MinistrySafe was founded by legal professionals and sexual abuse experts, Gregory Love and Kimberlee Norris. Through their litigation practice representing victims of child sexual abuse, they recognized the vital need to equip churches and ministry programs to better protect children from sexual abuse. The risk is real, and it's preventable. Prevention starts with awareness.

The Journey to a Safer Ministry Webinar Series is a monthly, one-hour series led by the husband-wife team of Love and Norris. Drawing from their sexual abuse legal work and advising organizations on prevention, each session is designed to help ministry leaders take steady, practical steps toward stronger child protection. Topics range from their most frequently requested areas, such as guidance on reporting, to more nuanced risks that are often overlooked, including peer-to-peer abuse and how to prevent it.

Each session equips participants to:

Understand how sexual abuse risk presents in ministry settings

Implement practical steps that can be applied immediately

Strengthen a team's ability to protect children in their care

The series is free to attend and open to both current MinistrySafe members and non-members. Special thanks to Tithely for sponsoring this Journey in 2026.

OCTC Workforce Solutions to host TechX information sessions

By Hailey Pickle

OWENSBORO, KY —Owensboro Community & Technical College (OCTC) will host two upcoming TechX (Technician Express) information sessions for individuals interested in fast-track training for high-demand manufacturing and industrial careers.

The sessions will be held on March 3 at 5:30 p.m. and April 28 at 5:30 p.m. in the Industry Innovation Center (IIC) Lobby on OCTC's main campus, located at 4800 New Hartford Rd.

TechX is an accelerated training program designed to help students earn industry-recognized credentials in as little as two semesters through hands-on, industry-driven instruction. Participants train with experienced instructors while building practical technical skills aligned with workforce needs.

The program offers an employer-driven evening track that allows many students to continue working while completing their training. Credentials earned through TechX may also be stacked toward an Associate in Applied Science degree.

During the information sessions, attendees will learn about program structure, scheduling, credential opportunities, degree pathways, and available support services.

The TechX Info Sessions are open to current and prospective students, as well as community members interested in exploring career advancement opportunities in advanced manufacturing.

For more information about TechX, visit: <https://owensboro.kctcs.edu/education-training/program-finder/tech-x.aspx>.

RSVP for the information sessions by emailing alicyn.rodgers@kctcs.edu or calling 270-686-4641.

to assist. Burkeen, who lives near the property, offered to speak with the owner directly. Council member Lyn Henderson said she did not want the owner to feel targeted but noted the council has received numerous complaints about the property. Henderson also revisited a discussion from January regarding a water bill totaling roughly $3,800, even after a standard leak adjustment. She explained that the city previously had an ordinance waiving sewer charges in cases of leaks, but that provision no longer exists. Curry said sewer costs had increased during that billing period and estimated the city would need to collect about $2,000 to break even. She also shared that a new water line had been installed and a new meter placed in the landlord's name. Burkeen suggested pursuing legal action to recover the unpaid amount. No action was taken on the matter. Near the end of the meeting, Rogalinski announced that he will not seek reelection. He said the role has taken a toll on him and his family and expressed frustration with claims that he does not care about the city. Rogalinski listed accomplishments from his tenure, including helping establish a farmers market, securing grants, and improving local roads. The Hardin City Council meets regularly at 6 p.m. on the second Monday of each month.

2026 Purchase Area Coffee & Chocolate Festival Set for March

By Kelsey Edwards
KPI Editor

The Purchase Area Coffee and Chocolate Festival continued its upward momentum in 2025 with a shift in leadership that organizers say positions the event for long-term growth. The festival will return March 7-8, 2026, once again hosted in Calvert City, where it has now been held for four consecutive years. The 2026 Purchase Area Coffee and Chocolate Festival will run from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. on both March 7 and March 8. On Sunday, March 8, the first hour from 9 to 10 a.m. will be designated as a low-sensory shopping period for attendees with sensory sensitivities. It was stated that the City's goal has been to preserve the original vision while building upon it. Vendor selection, which Lihon carefully curated in previous years, remains a priority. Vendors from the 2025 festival were invited back, reflecting the strong response to last year's mix of chocolates, coffees, baked goods, cookies, fudge and specialty items, including gluten-free options. While some vendors operate storefronts, it was noted that many are cottage bakers who rely on festivals to showcase their work and grow their customer base. New elements are being added for 2026, that include educational workshops and hands-on classes. Planned sessions include a chocolate history course, lessons on different types of tea and preparation methods, cake pop demonstrations and additional culinary topics. While the main festival will take place at the Calvert City Civic Center, the workshops will be hosted next door at the Calvert City branch of the Marshall County Public Library.

MARSHALL COUNTY WEEK IN REVIEW

A Marshall County pair face 20 counts of second degree cruelty to animals after 20 dogs were seized from their property. A grand jury indicted Joseph and Carla Dunn last Thursday, Marshall County Sheriff Matt Hilbrecht confirmed in a statement. According to Hilbrecht, the indictments stem from "an extensive investigation dating back several months."

Mississippi State University congratulated students named to the fall 2025 dean's list. Students named to the dean's list at Mississippi State must have achieved a GPA between 3.5 and 3.79, based on a 4.0 scale, while completing at least 12 semester hours of coursework with no incomplete grades or grades lower than a C. Marshall County students Laney Jones of Benton and Ryelei Bennett of Calvert City attained the dean's list designation.

The Marshall County Fiscal Court was awarded an $850,000 CDBG grant by Governor Andy Beshear today.

This will allow us to totally renovate the Senior Citizens facility that has been sitting empty for four years. We would like to thank Governor Beshear, the Department of Local Government, our Legislators and the PADD office for making this possible. I was honored to be able to accept this today in Frankfort. It's been far too long since our seniors have had a place to call home. A huge thanks also to the City of Benton for allowing them to meet at the Joe Creason Center the past couple of years.

MURRAY / CALLOWAY COUNTY WEEK IN REVIEW

Murray State University's Criminal Justice program has launched a unique partnership with Kentucky Court Designated Workers (CDWs) to support youth participating in juvenile diversion through structured, supervised mentoring. The collaboration is grounded in CRJ 405: Mentoring Essential Skills, a course designed to prepare students to work ethically and effectively with justice-involved youth before formal court involvement occurs.

Murray State University Fort Campbell Campus received approval for its Emergency Medical Technician Basic (EMT-B) program to serve as a U.S. Dept. of War SkillBridge pathway, expanding career training opportunities for transitioning service members.

The Calloway County Middle School (CCMS) speech team are officially the Regional Champs for 23 years in a row! They placed first in the Lakes Region of the Kentucky High School Speech League junior regional tournament. Six CCMS students were named regional champions in their events including Noelle Raspberry in declamation,

Andrew Dunnaway in humorous interpretation, Payton Hixson in oratory, Madelyn Tudor in prose as well as the duo acting team of Maya Hughes and Eden Howland along with the improvisational duo team of Lilah Hill and Zoree Whitley. The team also had eight students named regional runners-up in their individual events which include Joel Arrieta in declamation, Zoree Whitley in dramatic interpretation, Emma Hixson in extemporaneous speaking, Preston Crawford in humorous interpretation, Lilah Hill in impromptu, Beau Keene in oratory, Payton Hixson in poetry, Madison Purdy in prose and Willow Howland in storytelling. The team now moves on to state competition in Lexington late this month (February).

McConnell secures $2.6 billion to Kentucky for fiscal year

By TOM LATEK
Kentucky Today

WASHINGTON (KT) – U.S. Sen. Mitch McConnell, R-Louisville, announced Tuesday he brought home nearly $2.6 billion to Kentucky in the Fiscal Year 2026 appropriations process.

This is a single-year record for the state and for McConnell, through the regular appropriations process. The total number of federal dollars the senior senator from Kentucky has been able to secure for his home state throughout his 40-plus year career in the Senate is more than $65 billion.

“This year’s federal funding for Kentucky will help stimulate economic growth in many different sectors including defense, law enforcement, medical research, science, national parks and recreation,” he said in a press release.

The projects include:

More than $230 million will go to post-secondary educational institutions including the University of Louisville, the University of Kentucky, Morehead State University, Campbellsville University and Madisonville Community College. These schools will see an increase in funding for research spanning sectors of agriculture, defense, medicine, and science and the enhancement of degree programs in mental health and aviation.

He secured over $1.7 billion for Kentucky’s defense and military construction priorities. Over $994 million will go to Blue Grass Army Depot (BGAD), helping ensure the site’s future as a center for the manufacture of critical energetic materials for our military.

$634 million will go toward strengthening the defense industrial base in Kentucky. $73 million will go to Ft. Knox to help build, replace, and modernize facilities and $56 million will go to Ft. Campbell for a new air traffic control tower and new hangars.

Another $36 million will update airport facilities, including Louisville International Airport (SDF), Cincinnati-Northern Kentucky International Airport (CVG), Elizabethtown Regional Airport (EKX), Blue Grass Airport (LEX), and Barkley Regional Airport (PAH).

$30 million in transportation funding will go to Kentucky’s interstates and highways including the I-69 Ohio River Crossing project in Henderson and the Hal Rogers Parkway, to widen the thoroughfare.

McConnell also secured more than $402 million in the appropriations bill for energy and water related projects. This funding will go to the Department of Energy’s Paducah Gaseous Diffusion Plant (PGDP) and Rough River Dam. The bill also includes investments for a continued erosion study at Columbus-Belmont State Park.

McConnell will retire from the Senate at the end of the year.

Fast Turnaround. Proven Success.

FIRST-PERSON: An open letter to Governor Andy Beshear

By SETH CARTER
Pastor FBC Paintsville

Dear Governor Beshear,
I write to you as a Baptist pastor here in the commonwealth, as one who prays regularly for you in obedience to 1 Timothy 2:1-2, and as a fellow citizen concerned not merely for public policy, but for the integrity of Christian witness in our state.

Recently, you stated:

“Especially in a world with social media where everyone’s looking for the next authentic thing, for me, that’s my faith... Most of the decisions I make are based on that golden rule that says we love our neighbor as ourself, and that parable, the good Samaritan, that says everyone is our neighbor. And so, when I’ve taken actions like vetoing the nastiest piece of anti-LGBTQ legislation that ever came through my state, I described it in those terms. I said, ‘my faith teaches me that all children are children of God,’ and I didn’t want people picking on those kids.”

Governor, I want to respond carefully and truthfully—because when Christ’s name is invoked publicly, clarity matters.

First, I commend your instinct to root moral reasoning in Scripture rather than mere political calculation. It is good to speak of loving one’s neighbor. It is good to reference the parable of the Good Samaritan (Luke 10:25-37). It is good to reject cruelty or mockery toward any child made in the image of God.

But there is a profound difference between appealing to “my faith” and appealing to “the faith once for all delivered to the saints” (Jude 3).

Christianity is not an individualized moral framework shaped by personal conscience or cultural moment. It is a revealed faith—grounded in the authoritative Word of God, historically confessed by the church, and objectively defined by the teaching of Christ and His apostles. When public leaders say “my faith teaches me,” the question must be asked: Is this “faith” anchored in the plain meaning of Scripture, or is it a private reinterpretation shaped by contemporary social pressures?

The danger of emphasizing “my faith” is that it subtly shifts authority from Scripture to self. It moves from “Thus says the Lord” to “This is how I understand love.” Yet, biblical love is not self-defined. The Golden Rule—“whatever you wish that others would do to you, do also to them” (Matt 7:12)—appears in a sermon where Jesus simultaneously affirms God’s moral law and calls for repentance and obedience (Matt 5-7). The command to love one’s neighbor is never severed from the prior command to love the Lord your God with all your heart (Matt 22:37-40). Love in Scripture does not mean affirming every self-conception; it means seeking a person’s ultimate good in submission to God’s design.

The parable of the Good Samaritan teaches that compassion crosses ethnic and social boundaries. It rebukes prejudice and indifference. But it does not redefine God’s created order, nor does it nullify biblical teaching on sexuality. To apply that parable as justification for affirming moral frameworks Scripture calls sin (Rom 1:26-27; 1 Cor 6:9-11) is to stretch it beyond its God-given intent.

You also stated that “all children are children of God.” Here we must be especially precise. In one sense, all people are God’s creatures and bear His image (Gen 1:27). In that sense, every child possesses inherent dignity and must never be mistreated. But in the New Testament, to be a “child of God” in the redemptive sense is not universal; it is the result of new birth through exclusive faith in Jesus Christ (John 1:12-13). When theological language is used loosely in public discourse, it can unintentionally blur the gospel itself. I fear that is what you have done.

Governor, no faithful

Christian wants children “picked on.” As a father, I have experienced firsthand the difficulty of parenting a bullied child. Bullying, cruelty, or hatred are sins against God and neighbor. However, disagreement-grounded in biblical conviction is not hatred. Laws or policies shaped by a belief in the created order are not automatically acts of malice. A Christian may sincerely believe that affirming certain identity claims is spiritually harmful while still treating every individual with kindness and respect.

The deeper issue is authority. Does our understanding of love reshape Scripture? Or does Scripture reshape our understanding of love?

The historic Christian faith—confessed across centuries and traditions—has consistently affirmed that God created humanity male and female (Gen 1:27), that marriage is a covenant between one man and one woman (Gen 2:24; Matt 19:4-6), and that sexual expression is reserved for that covenant. These are not isolated proof-texts; they are woven into the fabric of redemptive history and humanity itself. When a public official claims that support for LGBTQ ideology flows from Christian faith, that claim stands in tension with the church’s historic and biblical teaching.

the name of Christ while promoting policies contrary to Scripture places you in spiritual danger. That is why I write to you, not as a partisan adversary, but as a pastor who believes that leaders, like all men, will give an account to God (Heb 4:13).

Governor, authenticity is admirable. But authenticity is not the same as orthodoxy. Sincerity is not the same as submission. “My faith” must be continually corrected and conformed by “the faith”—the objective revelation God has given in His Word.

I urge you, respectfully and earnestly, to reexamine whether the positions you attribute to Christian conviction truly align with the teaching of Christ. Seek counsel not from those who will baptize cultural trends with biblical language, but from those who tremble at God’s Word (Isa 66:2).

I assure you of my prayers—for your leadership, for your family, and for your soul. May the Lord grant you humility before His Word, courage before men, wisdom in leadership, and clarity about the difference between personal conviction and the once-delivered faith of the saints.

In Christ,

Seth Carter

Billy Joe Joiner, age 88, passed away on Wednesday, February 11, 2026, at his residence. He was born July 8, 1937, in Smithland to William and Gertrude Barnes Joiner. Billy Joe was a man of few words, but you knew that when he spoke, you listened. He either had strong, sound advice, a funny joke, or a story from his life that you almost couldn't believe to be true. No one ever had to wonder where they stood with him, as he was quick to tell you, and you can bet it was with his crooked pointer finger out in front of him. There are no services scheduled at this time.

Stevie Kimbro, 56 of Grand Rivers, Kentucky passed away Thursday February 12, 2026 at Baptist Health in Paducah. # VICTORIOUS Living ...in a troubled world

What can an ant possibly teach a human?

By Teresa LeNeave
leneave2@comcast.net

What can an ant (that no one wants around) possibly teach a human being? Solomon thought they had something to teach us because in Proverbs 6:6 he said, "Go to the ant, you sluggard (slacker) ... consider its ways and be wise". From what I can tell, they love, they accept, they work, they prepare for the future and they serve.

We have this instruction: love one another: "This is my commandment, that you love one another". How can we posture ourselves to do that? For one, we can DO things that build up others just like the ant does. Remember the story of the Samaritan that helped the injured man who was beaten up and left to die on the roadside? Jesus said, "A Samaritan, as he traveled, came where the (injured) man was; and when he saw him, he took pity on him. He went to him and bandaged his wounds, pouring on oil and wine. Then he put the man on his own donkey, took him to an inn and took care of him" (Luke 10:33 NIV).

What other action postures us to take a bit of wisdom from the ant? Why not try accepting one another without trying to make them like ourselves? When we accept one another, as Christ accepts us, we bring praise to God. Show respect to everyone you come in contact with. A good example is the story of a Samaritan woman and Jesus at the well. This is a very good example of Jesus living out the principal of accepting others. She wasn't worthy. Her reputation was questionable ... but Jesus accepted her and offered to change her life. She accepted the invitation and won an entire city to Christ. Accepting is NOT approving of wrong, but it's being willing to reach out, without condemnation and with understanding. It's sharing Jesus and offering an opportunity to others to share in the blessings of redemption.

What about serving like the ants serve? The Bible says, "By love serve one another". Do unto others AS you want them to do to you. Just as Jesus humbled Himself to wash the disciples' feet, we must keep in perspective that we are all of the same God and no one is loved, by God, above another.

Have you ever wondered why Jesus said, "The one who is greatest among you, will be the servant?" Though there are many reasons, I believe, when you are helpful (without complaining), people enjoy being around you and they are more willing to hear the Gospel. People have many motives for being helpful, but when helpfulness comes from the heart, people know it. It shows. Ants help each other and it shows.

Ants are creatures of little strength, yet they store up their food in the summer (Prov. 30:25). They plan ahead and leave nothing to chance. They can carry up to 20 times their weight. Some can carry up to 50 times their weight. How is that for "little strength?"

Ants know all about caring for each other. They are social insects. They are almost always with other ants. They always live in a community. They always look after the community. Ants always share what they have. When an ant finds food, he doesn't keep it to himself. He leaves a scent trail that directs other ants to the food.

They cover, and take up the slack, for other ants. If a catastrophe occurs, ants respond by quickly adapting their duties to overcome the problem. If a food item is too heavy, other ants come to their rescue to help them carry the load. They are not lazy. They are workers.

They love, they accept, they work and they serve. I guess that's a good reason to learn from ants as Solomon instructed.

THE STING OF CONVICTION

Bro. Brandon G. Bramlett
Bandana Baptist Church

The truck accelerated down the road toward our little beagle, who was sniffing garbage someone hurled out their window, and her life was saved by a teensy zap of electricity administered by her shock collar. An agitated bobcat hissed at our English shepherd during an evening hike, and a quick jolt from his electric collar yanked him away from the furious feline and back toward me. And, until the day when our Jack Russell first wore her shock collar, she would race beside the tires of passing vehicles in an attempt to outrun them.

Using shock collars may be considered cruel by some, but they have saved our dogs from danger and even death on numerous occasions. Of course, neither we nor the dogs enjoy using them as a means of discipline, but there are times when a sudden sting is the only method to warn them of imminent danger and correct their course.

There are times when the Spirit of God "shocks" us with a zap of conviction to warn us that we are headed for spiritual danger. The Holy Spirit stings our conscience when we drift too close to sin's deadly road. It certainly burns when He jabs our heart with a prick of reproof, but it is required for us to flee spiritual peril and return to God. Each time He arrests our heart through the sting of admonition, He is saying, "Come, let us return to the LORD" (Hosea 6:1).

He executes conviction for the first time at your conversion, when you realize that you have offended a holy God by your sin. Jesus said, "And when he comes, he [the Holy Spirit] will convict the world concerning sin and righteousness and judgment" (John 16:8). But He continues to alert you of your need to repent, and He will alarm you of potential spiritual danger when it is present. He will poke at your conscience all-day long if you have unconfessed sin in your life (Psalm 32:3-5). And because He guides you into all truth, He will send a spark of correction to your mind when you drift into theological error (John 16:13). Embrace the Spirit's occasional sting of conviction—God is using it to save your life.

OUTDOOR Truths

By Gary Miller
Outdoortruths.org

Over the years of traveling, I have stayed in so many homes and hotels. So many, I can't remember them all. I do remember one stint in Texas where I stayed in five different places, over a 16-day period. Sometimes you wake up in the morning, and before you get out of bed, you have to think about where you are. There are also those times when you get up in the middle of the night, head to the bathroom, only to find out the door you opened didn't lead to the bathroom, but to the hallway of the hotel. And now you know why I try to get fully awake in the morning, before I bust any moves that might expose my Hanes. Yes, it's all different, except my storm. My storm is what I take with me everywhere I go. It puts me to sleep at night and wakes me up in the morning with its surety. My storm is the nature sound on my phone app. Some listen to brown or white noise, but mine is this soft thunderstorm. And why me of all people would be calmed by a thunderstorm, I have no idea. But I am. My wife started this habit years ago. Back then, it was a CD that she let play through the night. I also remember deer hunting with my friend Jason. At night he slept with a hair dryer running. True story. I know it was his wife's because Jason was nearly bald. (love you, Jason) Some of you like a fan running. I like that too. There are a lot of sounds that people find comforting. But my go-to nighttime sound is my thunderstorm. And here's what I've noticed. No matter where I am, most of the time, I sleep pretty well. And I believe it's because no matter where I go, and no matter where I stay, I have something that is consistent, ever-present, and never changing. I'm sure you can see where I'm going with this

While my storm is a soothing sound that helps me sleep, what my storm cannot do is calm the internal storms I may lay down with each night. The ones that race through my mind. The ones that can cause anxiety, worry, and dread. These storms crash louder than the ones on my app. Their realness drowns out the manufactured versions. And they can be just as frightening at home. The truth is our ability to sleep doesn't come from what we hear from some created sound. It does, however, come from what we hear. When those internal storms have threatened my sleep at night, here is what I have listened to. "You will keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on You, because he trusts in

You." (Isaiah 26:3) My thunderstorm helps me fall asleep. God's promised peace is what keeps me there.

Do this in remembrance of me

By William F Holland Jr.

Last week, we touched on the subject of baptism, and this week I thought we could follow up with a chat about communion. For those who are Christians, the church ordinance of communion is a sacred and spiritually personal event. In some circles, the Lord's Supper is referred to as a sacrament, while others call it an ordinance, depending on the theological tradition. However, regardless of the term, within Christian churches, it is seen as a means of grace and an integral part of obedience and worship, established by Christ Himself. A time of sacred reflection on Christ's death and resurrection. Where does it come from? It's a recorded true event that is told in each of the four Gospels, along with the Apostle Paul, who also discusses it in 1 Corinthians 11:23-29. Verse 26 declares, "For whenever you eat this bread and drink this cup, you proclaim the Lord's death until He comes."

Most have seen the images of what is called the "Last Supper," where Jesus and His disciples are sitting around a large table eating and drinking at what was called the Passover celebration. We read in all four gospels about this true account, and how Jesus wanted His followers to remember Him as the promised Lamb of God. In Luke 22:19-21, we read, "Jesus took a loaf of bread and gave thanks to God. As He broke it and gave it to His disciples, He said, this is my body given for you; do this in remembrance of me. In the same way, after the supper he took the cup, saying, this cup is the new covenant in my blood, which is shed for you." Matthew 26:30 reveals that He concluded the meal by singing a hymn, then they walked out into the night to the Mount of Olives. As they entered the garden of Gethsemane, Jesus told them to rest while he took some time to pray. It was there that, as predicted, Jesus was betrayed by Judas. The following day, He was crucified.

Jesus declared that the bread spoke of His body that would be broken, as Psalm 22 and Isaiah 53 describe that He would be so brutally and violently tortured that it was hardly recognizable. The wine spoke of His blood, with Him indicating the terrible death He would soon experience. It is agreed that most likely He literally bled to death. Christ, the perfect Lamb, the Son of God, became the fulfillment of the countless Old Testament prophecies concerning a Redeemer. Genesis 3:15, often called the protoevangelium or first gospel, is an amazing biblical prophecy where God reveals that at the crucifixion, the serpent will bruise the heel of Jesus the seed of the woman, but in the resurrection, Christ the Son of God will crush the serpent's head, establishing the Lord as the ultimate power and authority in the cosmic struggle between good and evil. In my view, the communion does not literally transform into the blood and flesh of Jesus, which is called transubstantiation. Since it is symbolic, I do see the point. It's simply about keeping the sacrifice of His great love fresh within our hearts and minds.

So, as we partake of the unleavened bread and wine or grape juice, the elements serve as a covenant symbol of Christ's body and blood, and how we grieve as He willingly suffered. He gave the supreme sacrifice of love that can redeem us. Now we can have spiritual hope and faith, as we celebrate this sign of unity and truth among believers, anticipating His return. I've served communion in churches, prisons, and correctional facilities throughout the years, and I currently work with a jail ministry preaching the gospel, baptizing, and serving communion, where I remind everyone how serious this is. First Corinthians chapter 11 says that whoever receives these elements unworthily will be guilty of sinning against the body and blood of the Lord. They absorbed damnation to themselves, and some have literally died. Never allow the ceremony to become a dead and formal ritual, or come to the Lord's table with unconfessed sin. Personally, when I take communion, I embrace this as entering into the holy presence of God. A sacred time and place of repentance, asking forgiveness, being cleansed, and made presentable to become one with Him. I imagine Jesus hanging on the cross, and what great love that caused Him to willingly die to save me. It's a deeply meaningful moment of remembering and appreciating.

Georgia takes bite out of UK rally, escapes with rare win at Rupp

By KEITH TAYLOR
Kentucky Today

LEXINGTON, Ky. (KT) — Kentucky lost one it needed on Tuesday night.

For the second time this season, the Wildcats lost two straight Southeastern Conference games after falling 86-78 loss to Georgia.

After returning to the Associated Press Top 25 more than a week ago, Kentucky has suffered back-to-back SEC losses for the second time this year. The recent trend began in a 92-83 loss at No. 12 Florida last Saturday in Gainesville.

Much like the loss to the Gators, Kentucky struggled in the backcourt and committed 22 turnovers, compared to just nine for the guests. The Bulldogs (18-8, 6-7) scored 22 points off those miscues. Florida scored 22 points off 14 Kentucky turnovers that resulted in a nine-point setback for the Wildcats.

“We did a really poor job managing the press,” Kentucky

coach Mark Pope said. “We weren’t in attack (mode). We weren’t chasing it for nugget plays. Sometimes when you throw out a press, you just give it too much respect. We just needed a couple of ballhandlers to have enough in order to be on the attack and we just couldn’t do it.”

Otega Oweh tied his career-high with 28 points and has scored in double digits in all 26 games this season. However, it wasn’t enough to overcome the struggles on offense. Oweh, Andrija Jelavic, Chandler and Malachi Moreno combined for 11 turnovers, including four by Oweh.

“The press was distracting for us, for sure,” Pope said. “We ended up playing on our heels and it was actually hard for us to kind of establish anything other than early in the halfcourt. Our lead guards did a poor job going back and demanding the ball so we could get into a familiar space. We just did a poor job, we really did. Georgia did a nice job of not allowing us to do that (and) we ended up not functioning as well as we do.”

Kentucky trailed by 12 at 69-57 with 9:20 remaining but rallied and narrowed the margin to 81-78 with 2:13 remaining. However, they made just one field goal on seven attempts in the final two minutes, coupled with a critical turnover by Oweh with 1:11 remaining.

Georgia made 14 3-pointers and got 29 points from its bench. The Bulldogs connected on eight treys in the second half that thwarted any hopes for a Kentucky comeback down the stretch.

“We weren’t good defensively tonight,” Pope said. “In the second half, they shoot 57 percent from the 3-point line. They’re the lowest assist-per-field-goal-made team in our league, and they were 20 and seven tonight. That’s just a poor commentary on our defensive effort.”

“Inexplicably, to start the second half, we just abandoned defensive assignments, and also Georgia made some good plays. That was a disappointing effort from us, and it’s gonna be hard to win when you let people shoot like that.”

Sparked by a career-high six 3-pointers by Collin Chandler, Kentucky made 12 treys of its own. Chandler finished with 18 points and said the Wildcats weren’t attentive enough in the second half.

“It kind of felt like we lost focus for a second and it really slipped away from us in the second half, I feel like we were pretty focused for a good amount of the first half,” he said.

Kentucky led by seven with seven minutes remaining in the first half, but Georgia scored 17 of the last 22 points of the half and led 39-34 at the break. The Wildcats (17-9, 8-5) went scoreless in the last 2:25 of the half, despite hitting nine of their first 18 shots of the contest.

It marked Georgia’s first win in Lexington since the 2008-09 season and only the fourth all-time in Rupp Arena.

Student-created book highlight of Spring All in for Ag Education Week

FRANKFORT, Ky. – A book written and illustrated by two Kentucky students is at the center of this Spring's All in for Agriculture Education Week.

"Millie's Farm Day," written by eighth-grader Ayla Tolentino and illustrated by 11th-grader Blakely Beth Callahan, follows the day in a life of farmer, Kenzie, as seen through the eyes of a dairy cow named Millie.

"It's amazing how creative our young people can be," Kentucky Agriculture Commissioner Jonathan Shell said. "All in for Agriculture Education Week is designed to get agriculture in the classroom. This book does that in a fun, colorful way for our youngest future farmers."

The book contest, sponsored by the Kentucky Department of Agriculture (KDA), the Dairy Alliance, and Farm Credit Mid-America, asked Kentucky students to craft a story centered around dairy farmers caring for their cows.

"As fewer families have direct ties to farming, agricultural literacy has never been more critical," said Farrah Newberry, Chief Executive Officer at The Dairy Alliance. "By partnering with the Kentucky Department of Agriculture to create and distribute 'Millie's Farm Day' to students across Kentucky, we are accurately highlighting modern dairy farming and helping bridge that gap. All In for Ag Education Week is about inspiring curiosity, building understanding, and ensuring the next generation sees the innovation and sustainability driving today's dairy farms."

"We know the future of our industry is in the hands of this next generation and proudly partner with KDA to enhance ag education in our elementary schools statewide," said Mark Barker, senior vice president of agricultural lending at Farm Credit Mid-America. "Supporting programs like All in for Ag that allow students to learn about agriculture in our community helps us achieve our mission of securing the future of rural communities and agriculture."

The book author, a self-proclaimed "ag nerd" and vice president of her middle school's FFA chapter, was excited to bring a little bit of agriculture into the classroom.

"I was inspired by my friend Kenzie, who cares for her own cattle," said Tolentino, who attends Bondurant Middle School in Franklin County. "I've learned a lot from occasionally helping her over the last few years."

Written with younger elementary students in mind, the student-drawn illustrations complete the story through pictures.

"Being the illustrator for 'Millie's Farm Day' is an honor I hold so close to my heart," said Callahan, who attends South

Laurel High School. "I'm incredibly grateful for the chance to bring this story to life through art and to help share the joy and wonder of farm life with young readers. Every page is a reminder of how thankful I am for this opportunity."

The book will be a highlight during the All in For Agriculture Education Week March 16-20.

All in for Agriculture Education Week began in 2025 when Commissioner Shell joined forces with Lt. Gov. Jacqueline Coleman and Commissioner of Education Robbie Fletcher to bring agriculture into classrooms across the Commonwealth. Agriculture Education Week delivers an all-encompassing learning experience for students, equips educators with ready-to-use lessons, and fosters community involvement to create hands-on learning opportunities on the diverse world of agriculture for students.

The book contest was developed to get students even more involved. It will be distributed to elementary schools across the state along with other ag education material. Once distributed, the book will become a permanent resident in the school library.

The student author and student illustrator will tour during the ag education week making stops at schools to read the book and conduct mini art lessons with students.

In addition to the book tour, students can participate in a virtual tour on Tuesday, March 17 led by a dairy farmer. Using the format of the book the farm will take students on a virtual tour of the farm and then end with a question and answer session.
