MCHS students selected for prestigious ACDA Honor Choirs

PADUCAH, Ky. (WSIL) -- Seven students from McCracken County High School have been selected to perform with the American Choral Directors Association Southern Division National Honor Choirs in Memphis. The students earned their spots through a highly competitive audition process, joining some of the top high school vocalists from across the southern United States. During the honor choir event, participants took part in intensive rehearsals and performed a diverse selection of advanced choral works under the direction of nationally recognized conductors.

Among the honorees, students Abby Scheer and Ben Trevino were also selected as soloists with their respective honor choirs—an exceptional distinction highlighting their vocal talent and musical artistry.

“This is an incredible accomplishment for these students and a testament to their dedication, talent, and hard work,” said MCHS Principal Jonathan Smith. “Being selected to perform at this level—and to be recognized as soloists—is a remarkable honor.”

McCracken County Schools officials congratulated the seven students for representing their school and community with excellence on both a regional and national stage.

Testing underway for upgraded 911 communications system

The City of Paducah and McCracken County want residents to know that authorized testing is underway for the upgraded 911 communications system. Crews from Communications International may be seen around the area conducting signal and coverage testing. They are driving a white, GMC Terrain with a Texas plate and roof antennas. The vehicle does not have company branding – the testing team has company clothing and badges.

This work is part of final steps before the new system goes live. No law enforcement or surveillance activity is involved. This is a project to improve emergency communications to better serve the community.

MCSO Briefs

Drug arrest

On March 12th, 2026, Todd Dooley, 39, of Louisville KY was located and arrested on the 400 block of Oaks Road in McCracken County. The arrest was made in a joint effort by the McCracken County Sheriff’s Office, the US Marshalls Service, the Graves County Sheriff’s Office, and the Marshall County Sheriff’s Office. Dooley was wanted for numerous drug related offences by the ATF and Marshall County Sheriff’s Office. Dooley was later transported to the Warren County Regional Jail.

Motorist assist leads to arrest

McCracken County Deputies responded to what was believed to be a motorist assist on the I24 bridge on March 12, 2026 around 7:00 PM. By the time deputies arrived at the bridge, traffic had already backed up past Exit 3 on the westbound side of the interstate. The MCSO had to request assistance from Metropolis (IL) Police Department since the MCSO was having trouble reaching the bridge.

Once emergency personnel arrived at the tractor trailer that was stopped on the bridge,

Brookport man arrested on drug offenses

On March 9, 2026, at approximately 2:52 PM, a McCracken County Sheriff’s Office deputy conducted a traffic stop near Estelle and Maple in Paducah after observing a seatbelt violation.

The driver was identified as Michael Smith of Brookport, Illinois. During the stop, the driver displayed nervous behavior which led deputies to further investigate.

Beyond the scarecrow: Smart approaches to controlling wildlife on the farm

Source: Matt Springer, Associate Extension Professor of Wildlife Management

Wildlife is integral to Kentucky's landscape, and farms inevitably share space with a diverse range of animals. Rather than attempting to eliminate wildlife — an unrealistic and counterproductive goal — effective on-farm wildlife management can work to reduce conflicts and encourage natural behaviors that keep wildlife and people safely separated. Consider these strategies:

Define the problem — and the likely culprit.

Is the interaction causing harm or simply inconvenience? Economic loss, crop damage or threats to safety clearly require intervention, while other encounters — like a harmless snake sighting — may only require tolerance.

Identifying the species responsible for damage is not always simple. Clues such as habitat type, height of tree damage, bite patterns, tracks and scat can narrow the possibilities. Trail cameras, field guides and expert assistance can also provide confirmation.

Modify the habitat.

Small changes can make the environment less inviting and discourage wildlife from lingering near crops, buildings and livestock areas. Modifications can include:

- Reducing cover by mowing or clearing vegetation
- Removing attractants such as fallen fruit, unsecured feed or debris
- Eliminating denning or nesting sites such as hollow trees or woodpiles

Use deterrents strategically.

Deterrents can provide short-term protection. Visual tools like decoys or scare devices often work best when rotated frequently so animals do not become accustomed to them. Try to introduce them right before wildlife pressure increases, such as just before fruit ripens or during calving season.

Deterrents like lasers or noise-making devices can help in certain scenarios but rarely offer permanent relief. For any deterrent, timing and variety matter more than the device itself.

Invest in fencing and enclosures.

Fencing is one of the most reliable long-term options for reducing wildlife damage, especially around high-value crops and livestock. Though they require higher upfront costs, well-designed enclosure reduce the need for repeated deterrents.

Deer generally require structures at least eight feet tall, but an offset fence disrupts their depth perception. Electrified fences are more appropriate for wildlife that climb or dig.

Enclosures also work best when installed proactively, before animals get accustomed to feeding or traveling in the protected area.

Trap and hunt to reduce populations.

Trapping and hunting can be effective, especially for species like raccoons and deer. Kentucky law (KRS 150.170) allows landowners to protect their property from most wildlife, except those protected under federal law (bats and migratory birds). When animals are taken, landowners must notify a conservation officer to obtain a confirmation number and may only keep consumable meat.

Hunting also supports long-term deer management and can provide supplemental income through leased access. Effective population control requires harvesting does, and landowners should monitor harvest outcomes.

Plan for long-term management.

There is no one-time, permanent fix. Effective management requires persistence and the combination of multiple strategies.

Every farm is different, and species-specific recommendations vary widely.

Lady Bombers Start Season With Victories

By Tim Taylor
KPI Sports Writer

The Ballard Memorial Lady Bombers opened the season with a pair of wins. A 12-2 win over Murray and 15-0 win against Carlisle County. Trinity Williams hit a home run in each game for the Lady Bombers. The two wins came in sub 40 degree weather with Monday's opener against Murray being the only game not canceled in the state of Kentucky on opening night. It was played in sub 30 degree wind chill factors. The following night, Mady Bohde pitched a 3 inning perfect game against Carlisle County striking out 8 of the 9 batters faced. She also added a pair of triples and had 3 RBI. Gracie Glisson had 4 RBI combined in the two games while Adalyn Hargrove leads the team with 2 doubles. After a weekend triangle with Hickman County and Anna Jonesboro Saturday, the Lady Bombers will have a pair of away district games facing Mayfield and Graves County on March 23rd and 26th respectively. Coach Scott Alexander was impressed with how the Lady Bombers handled the bitterly cold weather and came away with a pair of victories to start the season.

Bomber Tennis Vs Calloway County

By Tim Taylor
KPI Sports Writer

The Bomber tennis team made the trip to Calloway County. In Lady Bomber competition, Lalee Graves won a dominating 6-0 match for her win. The ladies had a few competitive matches but were not able to pick up any additional victories. In the Bombers event, senior Luke Fickes won his match 8-4. He now has a singles win and doubles victory in the early season. The next scheduled varsity match is at home on March 24th against Lyon County and then hosting Graves County on the 26th. The match against St. Mary on March 16th was postponed until April 14th.

Carlisle County Baseball Preview

Staff Report

Carlisle County enters the 2026 season with a veteran roster and high expectations under head coach Hunter Burge. The Comets will rely on a core group of juniors and seniors, giving the lineup valuable experience while also allowing underclassmen to contribute in key roles. Burge expects the team's strengths to be its athleticism, versatility, and overall speed, which should create opportunities on both sides of the ball. On the mound, Carlisle County will focus on throwing strikes and consistently attacking hitters. Offensively, the team features players capable of driving the ball for extra-base hits and adding power to the lineup. Strong team chemistry is another advantage, as this group enjoys competing together and supporting one another. A highlight of the season will be a June 7 game at Busch Stadium. The Comets look to compete daily and work toward their goals this spring.

Murray State Athletics partners with Country Boy Brewing to create branded beer

Staff Report

MURRAY — Murray State Athletics has partnered with Country Boy Brewing out of Lexington, for a new brew named Murray State of Mind. This craft-brewed American Wheat Ale has been designed for tailgates and cheering on Racers across the state of Kentucky.

Brewed with malted wheat and a touch of Bravo hops, this brew finishes crisp and clean, inviting you back for another sip. Light and refreshing, Murray State of Mind will fit perfectly into the cooler of every fan that bleeds navy and gold.

"The launch of the Murray State of Mind is another great brand initiative for our department and University and will allow us to further expand into more regional markets thanks to this incredible partnership with Country Boy Brewing," Murray State Director of Athletics Nico Yantko said. "We are excited to give our fans the opportunity to celebrate Racer Nation with this new offering."

"We are so lucky to find a partner in Murray State that appreciates a great crafted beer," says

Daniel "DH" Harrison, Co-Owner and Founder of Country Boy Brewing. "We have a couple Murray alums on our team and cannot wait to cheer on the Racers with the first batch of Murray State of Mind."

Murray State of Mind cans and draft will launch market-wide beginning Monday, March 23 just in time for the Racers Baseball to take on the University of Kentucky in Lexington. Racer Nation is invited to the official launch event at Tap 216 on Tuesday, March 24, starting at 5 p.m. to try the new brew.

Fulton County Baseball Looks to Rebuild and Compete

Staff Report

FULTON COUNTY, Ky. — Fulton County baseball coach Derrick Jackson is aiming for growth and improvement as the Pilots enter the new season.

The team's goal is to compete for a district championship, with a strong focus on defense and fundamentals. Fulton County returns just four experienced players, making it a young roster, but team chemistry has developed well during spring training.

Senior leadership has helped guide the group, while players like Preston Smith and Drake Thorpe are expected to make key contributions.

After a 4-9-1 record last season, the Pilots are eager to prove they are a different team this year.

Lady Eagles golf eyes continued growth, regional contention

Staff Report
KPI Writer

GRAVES COUNTY, Ky. — The Graves County girls golf team enters the new season with a blend of youth, talent, and rising expectations under the leadership of head coach Jade Miller.

After back-to-back top-five regional finishes—including a near runner-up performance last season—the Lady Eagles are focused on taking the next step. Miller says the team's mindset centers on steady improvement, strong course management, and building confidence in competitive situations. With a commitment to accountability and team support, Graves County is aiming to be firmly in the mix for a regional championship this fall.

Despite being a relatively young group, the Lady Eagles bring a promising combination of experience and emerging talent. Returning players provide leadership, while younger athletes are eager to contribute and grow throughout the season.

Leading the way is Emilie Miller, who finished third in the region last year as an eighth grader with an impressive 76 scoring average. Sophomore Karley Jones is also expected to be a key contributor, with expectations of consistently shooting in the upper 70s. Incoming seventh grader Kylie Miller could make an immediate impact, bringing strong junior golf experience to the lineup.

Miller says she is most excited to watch her players develop and compete with confidence, while continuing to build a program capable of setting new school records.

Last season, Graves County placed third in the region, finished second at the Marshall County Invitational, and recorded a top-five finish in the Eagle Invitational.

Sudoku Puzzle

How it Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle! Good Luck! ANSWERS ON THE CLASSIFIED PAGE

Kentucky Agricultural Finance Corp. approves more than $2.9 million in loans

Financing bolsters beef, horticulture, poultry, and grain farmers across the state

FRANKFORT – The Kentucky Agricultural Finance Corp. (KAFC) approved 16 agricultural loans totaling $2,977,295.25 for projects across the Commonwealth today at its monthly board meeting.

Agricultural Infrastructure Loan Program (AILP)

Four Agricultural Infrastructure loans totaling up to $712,000 were approved. Loan recipients were in Caldwell ($250,000), Grayson ($250,000), McLean ($62,000), and Shelby ($150,000) counties.

KAFC participates with lenders to provide financing to producers making capital expenditures for agricultural projects through the AILP. Eligible projects include permanent farm structures with attached equipment that improves the profitability of farming operations. Producers may be eligible for up to $250,000 not to exceed 50 percent of the project.

Beginning Farmer Loan Program (BFLP)

Ten Beginning Farmer loans totaling up to $1,765,295.25 were approved. Loan recipients were in Anderson ($250,000), Caldwell ($250,000 and $250,000), Hardin ($152,500), Harrison ($161,045.25), Laurel ($158,000), Metcalfe ($62,500), Monroe ($250,000), Rockcastle ($23,750), and Wayne ($207,500) counties.

The BFLP is designed to assist individuals with some farming experience who desire to develop, expand, or buy into a farming operation. Beginning farmers may qualify for financing to purchase livestock, equipment, or agriculture facilities; to secure permanent working capital; for the purchase of farm real estate; or to invest in a partnership or LLC.

Diversification through Entrepreneurship in Agribusiness Program (DEALP)

One Diversification through Entrepreneurship in Agribusiness loan totaling $250,000 was approved for a recipient in Estill County.

DEALP is designed to assist agri-entrepreneurs with the purchase, establishment, or expansion of a business that sells agricultural products or services to farmers or consumers.

Large/Food Animal Veterinary Loan Program (LFAVLP)

One LFAVLP loan totaling $250,000 was approved for a recipient in Rockcastle County.

LFAVLP is designed to assist individuals licensed to practice veterinary medicine in Kentucky who desire to construct, expand, equip, or buy into a practice serving large animal producers, including goat, sheep, swine, and other smaller food animals.

For more information on KAFC participation loans, contact your lender or Bill McCloskey at Kentucky Office of Agricultural Policy at (502)382-6093 or email kafc@ky.gov.

###

The Kentucky Office of Agricultural Policy (KOAP), a division within the Kentucky Department of Agriculture, provides staff support to the Kentucky Agricultural Finance Corporation (KAFC) and the Kentucky Agricultural Development Fund (KADF). The KADF is administered by the Kentucky Agricultural Development Board. KOAP ensures Kentucky is being good stewards of dollars from the 1998 Tobacco Settlement Agreement by overseeing the boards' investments into diversifying and supporting Kentucky agriculture.

Commemorating the spring equinox

The beginning of spring is cause for celebration. In many areas of the world, the start of spring marks the end of cold temperatures and hours spent indoors, a shift in conditions that is welcomed by millions each year. Spring is a time of rebirth when flowers and trees bloom anew and animals bear new young. Spring is an exciting and busy time, and one that people can commemorate in many unique ways. Here are seven ideas to usher in spring this March.

1. Fill a home or business with flowers. Collect some early tulip or daffodil blooms and place them around the house. Offer bouquets of dandelions to children or weave them into flower crowns. 2. Spend time in nature. It's time to get outside, and there is no better time to do so than the beginning of spring. Soak up the sun and temperate climate, which can be good for your physical and mental well-being. 3. Visit a loved one. Bring some sunshine to an elderly relative by visiting with him or her. Take a stroll outside or sit on a bench and enjoy a picnic. 4. Prepare the garden by cleaning out weeds and tilling the soil. Some early spring preparation ensures everything will be ready when planting time arrives. 5. Prepare an outdoor feast. Whether it's a picnic or a barbecue, serve up a warm-weather feast with salads, sandwiches and other dishes that are normally served outdoors. 6. Sow some seeds. Encourage each member of your household to pick a favorite plant or flower and sow it in celebration of the first day of spring. It's possible to make a special spring garden with perennials that will bloom each year. 7. Make spring-related crafts. Colorful wreaths, centerpieces and garlands can bring some of the natural wonders of spring indoors. The first day of spring is an opportunity to enjoy what makes the season so special. Celebrate the new season with plenty of creative ideas.

Paducah Chiefs Baseball Club Needs Host Families for 11th Season

Press Release

PADUCAH – Opening day for the Paducah Chiefs Baseball Club’s 2026 season is at the end of May, but preparations already are underway to provide housing for the players. The college wood-bat team plays at Brooks Stadium in Paducah during the summer, and the players rely on the generosity of local families to host them for the season.

“Host families play such an important role in the experience of our players who come to Paducah for the summer,” said General Manager Greg McKeel. “They provide a sense of stability and support while these young athletes are away from home. Even though it’s only for about two months, many of these relationships last for years and truly become like extended family. Hosting one of these talented players was a rewarding experience for me. I invite others to be part of this special tradition and our hometown story.”

Families who would like to learn more about being a host family for a Paducah Chiefs player can contact McKeel at 270-210-9766 or by email. Those interested also may contact Assistant General Managers Tab Brockman at 270-293-3030 or Greg Cannon at 270-331-2813.

The first home game of the 2026 season will be Friday, May 29 at Brooks Stadium.

Season Tickets and General Admission Season tickets for the Paducah Chiefs are available for $200 by contacting McKeel. A season ticket includes all home games and home playoff games. General admission seating is available at the gate on game days for $6 per game or $10 per game for a chairback seat.

Sponsorships Those interested in being a corporate sponsor for the Chiefs should contact McKeel. Sponsorship opportunities are available through signage at Doc Hideg Field and through advertisements in the game day program which is provided at no charge to every fan in attendance.

About the Chiefs The Chiefs have a long history dating back to 1903 but were revived in 2016 as part of the Ohio Valley League. The team is overseen by the Brooks Stadium Commission.

Prediabetes Often Goes Unnoticed

By Laurna Todd
KPI Writer

March marks Diabetes Alert Month, a time dedicated to raising awareness about prediabetes and encouraging individuals to take steps toward better health. According to the Kentucky Diabetes Report, approximately 14% of Kentuckians have prediabetes, placing them at increased risk of developing type 2 diabetes.

Prediabetes often has no noticeable symptoms, making early detection especially important. Healthcare providers diagnose predia-betes when fasting blood sugar levels fall between 100 and 125. Without lifestyle changes, many individuals with prediabetes may go on to develop type 2 diabetes.

New to this year's risk assessment is the inclusion of screening questions for type 1 diabetes. While type 1 differs from type 2 in cause, early screening can help identify those at risk and prevent serious complications such as diabetic ketoacidosis.

Residents are encouraged to take a free diabetes risk test and learn where they stand when it comes to prediabetes. Early awareness can make a life-changing difference, and taking just a few minutes to assess your risk is a simple first step toward better health. Getting checked can help detect diabetes early, potentially saving your life or helping you better understand and manage your health before complications develop.

The Purchase District Health Department Diabetes Education Program offers a variety of helpful resources, including educational presentations and support classes available in person, virtually, or on demand—making it easy for anyone to get involved and stay informed.

For more information, to schedule a presentation, or to enroll in a class, call 270-444-9625 ext. 107.

Know your risk. Get tested. Learn how to lower your risk—and take control of your health.

Community Foundation of West Kentucky Receives National Recognition

Paducah, KY, — The Community Foundation of West Kentucky recently received word of their renewed accreditation with the nation's highest standard for philanthropic excellence from the Community Foundations National Standards® Board. The Board establishes legal, ethical, effective practices for community foundations everywhere.

"Meeting the National Standards benchmarks is a rigorous, comprehensive process," said Susie Nelson, board chair of National Standards. "This accreditation is a significant accomplishment that indicates the Community Foundation of West Kentucky demonstrates a commitment to transparency, quality, integrity and accountability as it carries out its mission."

The Community Foundations National Standards® program requires community foundations to document their policies for donor services, investments, grantmaking and administration. With over 500 community foundations already accredited nationwide, the program is designed to provide quality assurance to donors, as well as to their legal and financial advisors.

"This accreditation renewal makes a very important statement to our donors," said Lee Emmons, CFWK Chief Executive Officer. "People put their trust in us when making a charitable bequest or establishing a fund. They count on us to manage the investment wisely and honor their charitable wishes. The National Standards accreditation affirms our commitment to honor that trust."

"The Community Foundation of West Kentucky works to meet critical community needs and support local causes, such as nonprofits supporting the arts, food insecurity, affordable housing, healthcare initiatives and expanding educational opportunities through literacy programs and scholarships," said Emmons.

CFWK offers a range of charitable funds, allowing donors to advance a cause, support an individual organization, provide flexible support for community needs or recommend individual grants.

"Through philanthropic services, strategic investments and community leadership, the Community Foundation of West Kentucky helps people support the causes they care about, now and for generations to come," said Angie Jackson, CFWK board president. "With this renewed National Standards accreditation, you can be assured we are following best practices in all our efforts."

Community Foundations National Standards® is the first program of its kind for charitable foundations in the United States.

The Community Foundations National Standards Board is a supporting organization of the Council on Foundations and is responsible for the quality, value and integrity of compliance with National Standards. For more information on the National Standards Board, visit its website at www.cfstandards.org.

'Safety comes from experience': UK Forest Fire Field Day provides students with essential firefighting skills

By Christopher Carney
University of Kentucky

BEREA, Ky.—
 At the University of Kentucky Martin-Gatton College of Agriculture, Food and Environment in the Department of Forestry and Natural Resources (FNR), a program provides students the unique opportunity to experience wildland firefighting. The UK Fire Cats, classified as emergency firefighters with the Kentucky Division of Forestry (KDF), are on call to fight real wildland fires in their communities.

At the recent Forest Fire Field Day, students traveled to the Berea College Forestry Outreach Center to participate in a series of trainings — a required step for students that want to apply to be a future UK Fire Cat or obtain additional wildland fire certifications. Among the activities, student teams, led by forestry professionals, constructed a fireline, properly handled important tools, got into a practice fire shelter and learned general safety protection protocols.

The most important takeaway from the event, which was facilitated by the KDF and UK, was The fire triangle consists of fuel, oxygen and heat, which are "all required for a fire to exist," according to Reinstette. Understanding the fire triangle was critical while students worked together on clearing a fireline, which creates a barrier to slow the spread of fires by removing combustible materials.

"There's a lot of responsibility and you have to make sure that you and your team are safe," Collins said. "People's lives hang in the balance, so you have to talk to each other and take it seriously."

Participating in Forest Fire Field Day is required for students enrolled in the FOR 255 Forest Fire undergraduate class, which is open to all majors at UK.

Tyler Rumble, a mechanical engineering student in the UK Stanley and Karen Pigman College of Engineering, also participated in the Forest Fire Field Day. Rumble, a volunteer firefighter in his hometown in Indiana, said he's interested in "just about everything firefighting related."

"This is fun and skills that will stick with us for the rest of our lives," Rumble said. "When you work as a team, you get more done. When you don't work as a team, someone might get hurt. We look out for each other and help each other. As an engineering student, I hope one day to design better tools that firefighters need."

Rumble and Collins are both hopeful to apply to become a Fire Cat.

For Laura Robinson, FNR academic coordinator at Martin-Gatton CAFE and course instructor, student participants have a great opportunity to take what they are learning in class, apply it and get the training to obtain their wildland firefighter type 2 certification — a required step in applying to become a UK Fire Cats.

In addition, Robinson believes that partnerships are what make events like Forest Field Day possible and valuable for the students.

"This is a great partnership working with the Kentucky Division of Forestry; they provide the experience, resources, equipment and gear," Robinson said. "All of this allows our students to have the hands-on training, interact with forestry professionals and learn about potential career opportunities from people that do this every day."

With woodlands in each of the 120 counties and forest industries in 110 counties, Kentucky's forests contribute approximately $20 billion to the Commonwealth's economy annually.

Robinson hopes FOR 255 Forest Fire helps students appreciate the importance of Kentucky's woodlands and the role that forestry and natural resources professionals have in managing these resources to keep our forests healthy and productive for future generations.

The UK Fire Cats program is in partnership with the FNR, KDF and U.S. Forest Service. To be eligible for UK Fire Cats, undergraduate students must enroll in FOR 255 Forest Fire for the spring semester.

For questions or additional information, contact Laura Robinson, FNR academic coordinator at L.Robinson@uky.edu.

VICTORIOUS Living ...in a troubled world

The elephant in the room

By Teresa LeNeave
leneave2@comcast.net

It's easy to do things absentmindedly. There can be some bad consequences from not thinking before we make decisions. I was 62-years-old before I had a broken bone. Freezing rain was falling and compacting as soon as it hit the ground. Without thinking, I decided to go outside, down four-ice covered steps just to shut a storage building door that had blown open. There were no items of significance in the building so why did I absentmindedly, step out the door not taking the consequences of my actions into consideration? I don't know, but what I do know is that the second my foot stepped out the door and touched the first step, I immediately slid down the other three shattering my wrist requiring surgery with two pins and six screws to hold it together.

I remember when my sister was diagnosed with stage 4 lung cancer. Even though I knew God could heal her, I thought my world had nearly ended. Bad news can be a very frightening thing. It shakes our world and shatters our peace. Doubt and fear come flooding into our soul and mind. For a little while we may forget our position in Christ. A phone call at 3:00 a.m. sends chills down our spine. A knock at the door after mid-night momentarily engulfs us in fear. News of a bad accident is blood chilling.

That's when we pray scared prayers. We pray visualizing the worse scenarios: everything our mind tells us is possible. We pray in fear of what may happen. As you know, most of what we fear never happens. Although there are those times when our worst fears do come true, faith is still our best go-to. Where do we run? What is our first reaction to bad news? What about when the weather man is counting down the time when a tornado could potentially hit your house? There are some scary times we have to deal with, but in all these God is still God and he has the power to bring peace to every situation. Faith is still the best antidote for fear. Any fear.

The elephant in the room is, "How much do we trust Him?" Is fear or faith our first reaction? For me, that depends on the situation, I guess. There were times

I've had no fear in the face of bad news, but there were other times (like when I heard the news of my sister's possible death), that I stayed up all night sick with fear. Praying for God to intervene. And, He has. She's not cured yet, but she's on the way. God is good and the more we realize that, the stronger we'll be when bad times come.

We don't want bad news. But, as you've often heard, God allows bad to come once in a while so we will learn to trust Him and be thankful to Him for the good He brings in our lives. If everyday was stress and anxiety free, we'd never appreciate the good God does in our lives.

I'm so thankful for the Word of God that says "peace be still, take courage, be strong, trust in Me, I'll never leave or fail you." Faith is a product of hope and hope is the anchor of our soul.

OUTDOOR Truths

By Gary Miller
Outdoortruths.org

As I look back on this last deer season, it seems that bad news could be the theme. I hunted hard but my effort only produced minimal results. If I had to compare the hours in the stand to my harvest ledger, I would definitely be in the red. What makes it even worse is I knew I was in a place where some big bucks lived. In fact, I missed my opportunity at one of those bucks because I couldn't get my crossbow up before said buck left. Another bummer was when I arrowed a ten-pointer but was never able to find him. I think he's still alive. At least I hope he is. When I think about it however, I can't remember a year that was marked by more successes than failures. The truth is bad news is a lot more normal than good news, and it's easier to find. It's certainly that way in most areas of life.

One of my favorite evangelists of times past was a black man by the name of E.V. Hill. The way he preached could make me confess sins I'd never committed. He tells a story about a woman in his church who always sat on the front row. Her nickname was Eighteen Hundred. It was given to her because she was so old that everyone thought she must have been born in the 1800's. Everyone loved Eighteen Hundred. Author, Shane Claiborne, tells how E.V. Hill shared the story with him. Every Sunday old Eighteen Hundred would sit in her usual spot in the front row. As Pastor Hill started preaching, she would start muttering, "Get to the good news, Pastor: get to the good news". And her commentary would get louder and louder as the sermon progressed. The longer he talked, the louder she got. He would be talking about how Jesus died on Friday, and she'd yell back, "Don't leave him there. Get to the empty tomb on Sunday." He'd be talking about how hatred, sin, and racism are still alive today. And she'd shout back, "Move on Pastor. Get to the good news!" Eventually he would get to the good news, and she would shout "Amen!" at the top of her lungs.

I think about all that Eighteen Hundred went through in her life. Racism, slavery, poverty, and the likes. If anyone ought to wallow in the bad news it ought to be her. But Eighteen Hundred had not only found a story of bad news that ended in good news, but she also wanted to make sure it always ended the right way. It was this good news that overcame all the bad news she had endured in her life. Friend, I know the world is full of bad news. But it always has been. The gospel, however, is good news, and it is good news for everyone who hears it. So, don't forget, it's alright to recognize all the bad things that may be going on, but don't end the story on Friday. Sunday is coming.

Age is not an excuse for being unhealthy

By William F Holland Jr.
billyhollandministries.com

This might be one of the most unpopular articles of all time, but as I sit here wanting to express from my heart, my private burdens are being exposed. I care about you (and me), it's the only reason I would write about such a challenging subject. I believe it's better to step forward and deal with personal issues that are causing great harm to our bodies and our self-esteem. Excess body fat is a serious problem. Many people, including myself, tend to gain size and bulk around the waist. I do not like it, but within my mind, trying to do something about it is like climbing a vertical cliff. Most of the time, I talk myself out of trying even before

I can gather the ropes and climbing gear.

Let's face it, being overweight makes a person sluggish, and to be blunt, we do not like how we look. Our obesity can be a psychological dark cloud that hangs over us, along with being self-conscious of how we look when we get dressed or undressed, and anywhere that has a mirror. Not only are we seen by everyone, but we also feel bad for our spouse and how we have let ourselves go, as if our appearance were not important. I know those who love us say they do not care about our outward appearance, but what are they supposed to say?

I've heard people joke around about their appearance by saying things like, "I don't care what people think, I just want to enjoy my life" or, "I'm too old to care anymore, I just want to be happy." I get it, but are we really content and proud with what we have created? These types of comments evolve from the combination of secret frustrations and anger. Frustrating because of how difficult it is to break free from this powerful bondage, and anger for allowing ourselves to get into this mess in the first place. My intention is not to heap more condemnation or guilt on us, but to come out in the open and ask why we are stuck in this merry-go-round of being overweight and out of shape, and how we can stop yielding to the temptations to please and serve our flesh. I guess the big question is, do we believe this is a serious problem, or will we continue being controlled and living in denial? It is said that when we don't deal with what's going on, it keeps going on.

Within the context of being a marshmallow, the more bad foods we eat, the more we help diabetes take control of our destiny. Even when we realize that what we consume is the problem, some still refuse to change their lifestyles. They are discouraged and depressed, yet the desire to eat unhealthy is stronger than the desire to cast down these food addictions. Max Dupree is quoted, "We cannot become what we want by remaining what we are." We are told that highs and lows from glucose and insulin can make us feel weird, which is why so many of us are on meds to keep us balanced. I realize

I'm older, but I believe my cravings for afternoon naps are a consequence of my sugary diet and lack of exercise.

Exercise is a popular subject to talk about, but it's very difficult to actually do. Personally, I've had visions of working out, but have never been serious about it. I have every opportunity to do push-ups and sit-ups, but I don't want to. I would much rather sit down and watch something meaningless. Just how important is this to me? Yes, I'm old and tired, and I do not have the energy I once had, which proves even more how I must accept that I'm responsible for my health. What about embracing our bad habits, eating too much, eating the wrong types of food, not getting enough cardio exercise (which causes us to not only be out of shape, and the reason for our muscle atrophy), retaining fluid, heart-artery, lung, kidney, liver, and pancreas problems, and this is just naming a few. I can make a lot of excuses about my negative addictions, but the pain has not yet caused me to raise my game. We can continue to ignore our old attitudes, or we can become motivated to be transformed into the best version of ourselves. Isn't it better to be honest, even if it's uncomfortable?

Kentucky Agricultural Finance Corp. approves more than $2.9 million in loans

Press Release

FRANKFORT – The Kentucky Agricultural Finance Corp. (KAFC) approved 16 agricultural loans totaling $2,977,295.25 for projects across the Commonwealth today at its monthly board meeting.

Agricultural Infrastructure Loan Program (AILP)

Four Agricultural Infrastructure loans totaling up to $712,000 were approved. Loan recipients were in Caldwell ($250,000), Grayson ($250,000), McLean ($62,000), and Shelby ($150,000) counties.

KAFC participates with lenders to provide financing to producers making capital expenditures for agricultural projects through the AILP. Eligible projects include permanent farm structures with attached equipment that improves the profitability of farming operations. Producers may be eligible for up to $250,000 not to exceed 50 percent of the project.

Beginning Farmer Loan Program (BFLP)

Ten Beginning Farmer loans totaling up to $1,765,295.25 were approved. Loan recipients were in Anderson ($250,000), Caldwell ($250,000 and $250,000), Hardin ($152,500), Harrison ($161,045.25), Laurel ($158,000), Metcalfe ($62,500), Monroe ($250,000), Rockcastle ($23,750), and Wayne ($207,500) counties.

The BFLP is designed to assist individuals with some farming experience who desire to develop, expand, or buy into a farming operation. Beginning farmers may qualify for financing to purchase livestock, equipment, or agriculture facilities; to secure permanent working capital; for the purchase of farm real estate; or to invest in a partnership or LLC.

Diversification through Entrepreneurship in Agribusiness Program (DEALP)

One Diversification through Entrepreneurship in Agribusiness loan totaling $250,000 was approved for a recipient in Estill County.

DEALP is designed to assist agri-entrepreneurs with the purchase, establishment, or expansion of a business that sells agricultural products or services to farmers or consumers.

Large/Food Animal Veterinary Loan Program (LFAVLP)

One LFAVLP loan totaling $250,000 was approved for a recipient in Rockcastle County.

LFVALP is designed to assist individuals licensed to practice veterinary medicine in Kentucky who desire to construct, expand, equip, or buy into a practice serving large animal producers, including goat, sheep, swine, and other smaller food animals.

For more information on KAFC participation loans, contact your lender or Bill McCloskey at Kentucky Office of Agricultural Policy at (502)382-6093 or email kafc@ky.gov.

Wickliffe Processing Facility Expands Global Reach with Shipment to Ukraine

By Laurna Todd
KPI Writer

WICKLIFFE, Ky. — A seafood processing facility in Ballard County continued to make an international impact while helping improve waterways across the Midwest.

Two Rivers Fisheries, headquartered in Wickliffe, recently shipped its first load of Silver Carp to customers in Ukraine, expanding the company's growing list of international markets. The shipment marked another milestone for the company's export operations and highlighted the role its Wickliffe facility plays in processing invasive fish species for global distribution.

Founded in 2012, Two Rivers Fisheries partnered with commercial fishermen throughout Western Kentucky, Western Tennessee, Illinois and Mississippi to harvest invasive Asian carp from rivers and lakes. The fish were then brought to the Wickliffe facility where they were processed and prepared for export.

Since the company began operations, more than 32 million pounds of Asian carp have been removed from freshwater ecosystems through the company's network of fishermen and processing operations.

From its Ballard County facility, Two Rivers Fisheries exported products to 11 countries worldwide, with Ukraine becoming the 12th international market to receive shipments.

The company's export success and economic impact have earned national recognition. Two Rivers Fisheries was named Exporter of the Year by the Export-Import Bank of the United States in 2021, and in 2024 it was recognized as a CO-100 Top Small Business by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Operations at the Wickliffe facility were built around a "zero-waste" approach that seeks to use every part of the fish. Beyond food products for human consumption, carp by-products were used in a variety of industries. Partnerships with other companies have led to the production of pet food ingredients, jewelry crafted from fish bones, leather made from fish skin, and fishmeal and fish oil derived from processing remnants.

"Our goal is to fully utilize the Asian carp resource," said Angie Yu, president and CEO of Two Rivers Fisheries. "By building an Asian carp industry, we can help clean our waterways, create jobs for local fishermen and workers, and support economic growth in rural communities."

With its Wickliffe facility serving as the center of operations, Two Rivers Fisheries continued expanding its international presence while turning an invasive species into an economic opportunity for the region.

From farm shows to front lines: UK College of Nursing delivers life-saving care to rural Kentuckians

By Jennifer Elwell
University of Kentucky

LEXINGTON, Ky.— Twenty-five people have credited the people and partners behind Raising Hope for saving or significantly improving their lives.

Cheryl Witt, associate professor and assistant dean for undergraduate programs at the University of Kentucky College of Nursing and agricultural health Extension specialist in the Martin-Gatton College of Agriculture, Food, and Environment, beamed as she recalled those who returned and thanked the Raising Hope team for providing preventive care. Witt remembered one farmer who took advantage of a carotid artery screening, and it was found to be 98% blocked.

“We referred him immediately to a vascular surgeon,” Witt said while standing just outside the health screening pavilion at the National Farm Machinery Show in Louisville. “We’ve made impacts on people’s health, and we’ve caught something maybe they didn’t know they had.”

What began as a vision shared by Witt and other rural health and safety advocates has grown into one of Kentucky’s most impactful public health collaborations — one that is providing UK College of Nursing students with meaningful, hands-on clinical experiences.

A partnership rooted in need

Raising Hope, an initiative administered by the Kentucky Department of Agriculture (KDA), was created in 2020 to promote the physical and mental health of Kentucky’s farmers and farm families through research, prevention strategies and community-based outreach. The initiative was a complementary companion to KDA’s award-winning Farm Safety and Health program, led by safety director Dale Dobson for more than 25 years.

Witt, who is often called the “Ag Nurse,” said the need was clear. More than 95% of Kentucky farms are small, family-run operations, and farmers often face significant barriers to health care access — long distances, limited time, cultural expectations and a deep-rooted self-reliance that can prevent them from seeking preventive care.

“We did an informal survey about rural health care, and there was a statistical difference between men who saw a health care provider on an annual basis versus women,” Witt said. “Most women are encouraged to get their annual checkups, but men typically don’t seek preventive screenings. Even with things like colon cancer, if you catch it early, you have a 91% chance of living a perfectly normal life. So, why not bring those screenings to the farmers and provide education and postpone the inevitable?”

Raising Hope travels the state and nation, training farmers and first responders in rural safety, health and rescue. The boots-on-the-ground approach — meeting farmers where they are, rather than waiting for them to seek care — became a cornerstone of Raising Hope’s model.

Thanks to strong support from state leadership — including Agriculture Commissioner Jonathan Shell — the Raising Hope Safety, Health and Rescue team has expanded. The Kentucky General Assembly recently doubled the program’s budget to $1 million annually for two consecutive fiscal years, enabling even more outreach and services.

Training the next generation of rural health nurses

For UK nursing students, Raising Hope provides an experience unlike any traditional clinical rotation. Instead of hospital floors, they find themselves at farm shows, county events and community gatherings, embedded directly in Kentucky’s agricultural culture.

Witt explained that this exposure builds cultural humility and prepares students to care for rural populations like those they will most likely serve, no matter where they practice in the Commonwealth.

“In any nursing practice, you want to make sure you are respectful of all cultures, and farm life is a culture,” said Witt. “Not only do they get the hands-on experience, but they are also exposed to that culture, and it enhances that part of their practice. We also use this as a recruitment tool for rural nurses. There’s a nursing shortage everywhere, but especially in our rural areas.”

Senior nursing students Amelia Vogel and Candace Townsend described the work as part education and part advocacy — helping farmers understand their health risks, receive screenings and connect with doctors to prevent future hospitalizations.

“I talked to a farmer the other day who said the closest hospital is an hour away, and they don’t have a primary care physician,” said Townsend. “Or they haven’t seen them in 10-plus years. That happens a lot, so we’re here with Raising Hope and their partners to do blood pressure checks, EKGs and other screenings. We are trying to get the ball moving on farmers’ health.”

Both students agreed that working through Raising Hope is a great opportunity to learn what public health advocacy is really like.

“A lot of our clinical experiences are in the hospital with people who are already sick,” said Vogel. “Here, we are advocating for them to get screenings and get with doctors for checkups so they don’t end up in the hospital. Public health clinicals are working to make health care accessible.”

Wildcask Bourbon is back and better

By Grace Sowards
University of Kentucky

LEXINGTON, Ky.— The sophomore release of Wildcask Bourbon, a bourbon brand created by University of Kentucky students at the James B. Beam Institute for Kentucky Spirits (JBBI), is hitting select shelves this spring.

Students in the Commercialization of Distilled Spirits course have been working since August to perfect Wildcask’s blend and branding. With this edition, the group wanted to continue what was successful from the first release while also creating distinctions between the two.

“The students continue to impress with this 2026 edition,” said Seth DeBolt, Director of JBBI. “The level of energy, enthusiasm and learning is wonderful. They used the mash bills to blend one of the smoothest whiskies you will meet and I’m truly blown away.”

The class is made up of 10 students from several UK colleges, including non-traditional students. Its goal is to prepare students for the entrepreneurial endeavor of creating a brand.

It is not as simple as knowing the recipe of the spirit — one must understand compliance, distribution, supplies procurement, financial obligations like taxes, and more, said DeBolt.

“The course offers an unprecedented opportunity to learn from the best in the industry while working towards releasing a bourbon onto the market,” said Maksymilian Podraza, a student who travels from Illinois to take the class. “The course didn’t just provide information, it also introduced us to influential people in the industry that helped shape the end product. As someone who’s passionate about spirits and the industry, taking this class was a no-brainer.”

The second blend consists of four sources: 24% James B. Beam Distilling Co. eight-year (mash bill 78/13/0/9), 24% Four Roses eight-year (mash bill 60/35/0/5), 39% Bardstown Bourbon Co. six-year (mash bill 53/0/39/8) and 13% Bardstown Bourbon Co. five-year (68/0/20/12).

The Wildcask Bourbon 2026 release will be bottled at 100 proof and the 750 mL bottle will be sold for $69.99. For the first time, Wildcask is releasing a 375 mL option, for $34.99. The goal here is to allow consumers to try the spirit while keeping their full-size bottle sealed. There will be a presale at the JBBI 2026 Industry Conference March 16-18, and attendees will be able to reserve a bottle.

Bottles will also be available at a launch event on campus to celebrate the 2026 blend’s release—time and date to be announced. Wildcask Bourbon will also be available at a limited number of Kentucky-based retailers starting in April.

UK alum Ray Allan Mackey: Continuing a legacy of service for Kentucky agriculture

By Jennifer Elwell

LEXINGTON, Ky.— Hardin County farmer Ray Allan Mackey questioned the phone call he received earlier this year from Laura Stephenson, University of Kentucky vice president for Land-grant Engagement and dean at Martin-Gatton College of Agriculture, Food and Environment.

“Are you sure you have the right person?” he asked Stephenson when she told him he was chosen for the UK Martin-Gatton CAFE

Hall of Distinguished Alumni and would be honored at the 2026 Night of Excellence.

However, the Kentucky agricultural community was likely not surprised by this honor, which had also been bestowed on his late father, Ray Mackey, 45 years earlier.

“Ray Allan Mackey is a farmer, leader and advocate whose lifetime of dedication extends far beyond his own family’s operation to strengthen agriculture across Kentucky,” Stephenson said.

“His story reflects the very heart of our land-grant mission — where education, research and Cooperative Extension come together to serve communities and support the people who grow our food and steward our land.”

“I saw it enough to say, ‘I want to be there someday,’” Mackey said. “I want to follow in those footsteps, and I want to learn and grow as much as I can. UK was the natural spot.”

Field days, research trials and agricultural events at UK only deepened his interest. Seeing firsthand how research could shape practical farming sparked his drive to understand the “why” behind agricultural practices.

“At UK, you saw what could be possible if you applied science and knowledge to the working land,” Mackey said.

Mackey majored in agronomy, a natural fit for a young man already committed to returning to his family’s Hardin County farm. He also gravitated toward agricultural economics, a discipline he remembers as a “new buzzword” on campus that helped shape his understanding of the broader industry. By the time he graduated in 1979, he had built a foundation that blended science with business, skills that would prove essential in the decades to come.

Building a life and legacy on the farm

Even before receiving his diploma, Mackey knew he would return to the family operation. His father was heavily involved with the Kentucky Farm Bureau, and soon after graduation, Mackey became not only the farm’s foreman but its day-to-day manager.

In 1986, he and his wife, Jan, purchased their first farm, raising grain, tobacco and alfalfa. As their family grew, so did the operation. They acquired additional land and added beef cattle and a small farrow-to-finish swine enterprise. Today, Mackey produces corn, soybeans, beef

An education at UK was inevitable

Mackey’s connection to the University of Kentucky began long before he set foot in a classroom.

His grandmother, Myrtle, lost her husband in 1940. Wanting to ensure her six children had access to the best education, she moved her family from Clinton County to Lexington in the mid-1940s. She operated a boarding house on the edge of campus while her sons attended UK.

After earning a degree in agronomy in 1949, Mackey’s father, Ray, began his career and long history of advocating for agriculture in Sonora, Kentucky, where he raised his family.

Mackey remembers many visits to his grandmother’s house on Gazette Avenue and the agriculture college. Each trip brought him close to the campus that, in his eyes, was “the place that all knowledge and learning and experience and growth was happening.”

cattle, and finishes pigs when it makes economic sense.

Mackey has never shied away from innovation. He embraced alternative tillage methods, variable-rate soil testing, precision fertilizer applications and other practices aimed at improving efficiency, sustainability and profitability. His approach reflects a lifelong curiosity that ties directly back to his experiences with research and Extension at UK.

A champion for Cooperative Extension

For Mackey, the Cooperative Extension Service is not simply a resource;

it is a lifeline. What began with taking soil samples to the Hardin County Extension office quickly grew into a decades-long relationship built on collaboration, trust and shared purpose.

“When you walk in the Extension office enough, then you’re on the list for mailings, meetings and committees,” he said.

That involvement shaped his leadership journey, pushing him toward roles within county groups, commodity organizations, and statewide and national agricultural entities.

Mackey describes Extension as a “stable, solid base of information and knowledge” that has guided him throughout his career. Whether choosing hybrids, responding to emerging pests, making fertility decisions or exploring new technologies, he has relied on Extension specialists and researchers for science-based solutions.

He also speaks warmly of the relationships he’s built with faculty members, connections strengthened through his service with several farm organizations.

“You just don’t get that kind of relationship any other way that I know of,” he said. “It’s beautiful. It really is.”

Service rooted in purpose

Mackey’s leadership in agriculture spans more than 40 years and an impressive list of organizations. His service with the Kentucky Corn Growers Association — including as vice president and president — has been especially impactful.

Today, he chairs the Kentucky Corn Promotion Council and sits on the Kentucky Farm Bureau Board of Directors. He previously held roles with the Kentucky Beef Cattle Association, Kentucky Pork Producers Association and Kentucky Soybean Association.

His contributions have earned him numerous honors, including Kentucky Farm Bureau Farmer of the Year, the Southeastern Farmer of the Year Award, the UK Presidential Medallion and the Kentucky Farm Bureau Distinguished Service to Agriculture Award.

Yet accolades aren’t what drive him. Mackey’s focus has always been on learning, sharing and strengthening the agricultural community. He remains deeply committed to youth programs such as 4-H and FFA, often speaking at events and mentoring young agriculturalists. His passion now includes preparing the next generation, including his own sons Grant and Stewart, who are both UK graduates, for the challenges and opportunities ahead.

A lasting impact

As Kentucky celebrates its agriculture week, Ray Allan Mackey stands as a testament to what it means to be a farmer.

“Leaders like Ray Allan demonstrate how the land-grant mission comes to life — when research, education and Extension work together to serve Kentucky agriculture and the communities that depend on it,” said Stephenson.

For Mackey, agriculture has always been about learning, giving back and preparing the next generation.
