Running with endurance

Life to the Full
Jaynie Halterman in a Taylor uniform standing on a grassy field with trees in the background.
Running is no easy feat, and Taylor cross-country runner and NAIA Women's Cross Country National Champion Jaynie Halterman '27 confirmed this. There are times when her mind tells her she cannot finish a race, that the task before her is too difficult. "But then in those moments, I have to flip my mindset," Halterman said. "I have to tell myself, 'No, I can do hard things. Christ is with me and will help me do these hard things.'"

Running Towards Balance
Since her freshman year of high school, Halterman had known she wanted to run as a collegiate athlete. However, that's not all she wanted. In looking at colleges to attend, Halterman chose Taylor because she did not want to make her life revolve around athletics. "That's something I struggled with all through high school," she said. "It led to a lot of struggles because running became an idol. So I knew I wanted a place where I could have that balance, where my faith and my community and my sport and my schooling were all going to be important, where I wouldn't be seen as just an athlete." As a student at Taylor, intentional time with the Lord, her floor, and communities outside of her team has helped her remain rooted in her identity in Christ rather than in her sport. Additionally, Halterman makes it a goal to leave an impression on her competitors. She recalled a recent race when somebody approached her and told her they remembered her from a past meet because she radiated joy and humility. "Being able to inspire people in that way is so encouraging," she said. Women's cross country team and coaches pose on a stage holding awards behind a large banner reading "2025 NAIA Women's Cross Country National Champion."

they call "One Word." Its purpose is to focus on a word and apply it to the season. Recently, that word was love. "So everything is literally centered around love," White said. "Even in loving our competitors. For us, running is a talent that God's given us. We want to use that talent to glorify Him, so He must be the center of it."

The team leans into running because they love it—even the hard parts. "We're going to have good meets, and we're going to have bad meets," White said. "We're going to have things that test us and make us sad, and other things that make us really happy. We've got to keep calm and continue just to endure to the finish line." Hebrews 12:1

urges us to run with endurance the race set before us, reminding us to persevere through the race of life. Our endurance comes from Jesus Christ, who faced the cross and endured it for the joy that was set before Him. It is that mindset that Halterman and her team carry with them as they run for his glory.

In the tapestry of life, stories captivate us—tales of triumph, tragedy, and the human journey, marked by disappointments and discoveries, regrets and redemption. This is our story, a collective narrative.

But in the soul-stirring melodies of Steve Ladd and his latest masterpiece, “Come Up Clean,” it transcends the realm of mere storytelling; it’s a testimony—a testament of grace and resilience that he ardently wishes to share with you.

From the tender age of five, growing up in Dayton, Ohio, Steve felt the divine call to minister through song. The son of an evangelist, Steve matured to become a beloved member of America’s most acclaimed Christian music groups, including Gold City, The Anchormen, and Anthem Edition. For over a decade, Steve has journeyed both domestically and internationally, ministering to audiences with inspirational songs like “Come Sunday Morning,” “One More River,” and “Preach the Word.” These harmonious melodies have transformed into personal anthems of encouragement that Steve carries wherever he goes, as he testifies to lives touched, healed, and uplifted.

On a personal note, Steve’s latest musical journey reflects his pursuit of freedom in recent years. It’s a powerhouse of music that transcends genres, a resonating harmony for all tastes. Professionally, he stands tall with accolades—the Gospel Music Association Hall of Fame, a “New Artist of the Year” nomination, a chart-topping Number One Single featuring the incomparable Jason Crabb, and a stellar record of seven Top 40 Singles. On release day, his album ascended to the elite Top 20 chart for iTunes Christian music. Furthermore, Steve’s heart extends to partnership with Childfund International, exemplifying the fusion of music and purpose.

While his extraordinary journey began within his family and burgeoned through award-winning quartets, his reemergence as a solo artist has been a testament to the Lord’s unwavering faithfulness. It radiates in his wife Maegan, his daily walk, and the very essence of his life. Steve Ladd’s odyssey is more than just a story; it’s a symphony of faith, resilience, and the power of testimony.

High. Marching bands, love songs, and a conman with a heart of gold ... what could be better?

By turns wicked, funny, warm, romantic and touching, The Music Man is family entertainment at its best. Meredith Willson’s six-time Tony Award-winning musical comedy has been entertaining audiences since 1957. Fast-talking traveling salesman Harold Hill sets his sights on an easy mark: the town of River City, Iowa. But things don’t go exactly as he planned when he falls for the local librarian. With heartfelt tunes including the rousing march “Seventy-six Trombones”, the wistful “Good Night

My Someone”, the folksy “Wells Fargo Wagon”, the classic love song “Till There Was You”, and of course the comedic “Gary, Indiana”, this show is a must-see! Shows are set for 7:30 p.m. Oct. 2, and 1 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Oct 3. General admission tickets are $10 for adults, $7 for students. Tickets can be purchased online below, or at the door the day of the show. Book, Music and Lyrics by Meredith Willson. The Music Man is presented through special arrangement with Music Theatre International (MTI). All authorized performance materials are also supplied by MTI. www.MTIShows.com.

Matthews Lions Club prepares for 56th Covered Bridge Festival

Annual community celebration expected to draw thousands to Matthews

By Greg LeNeave

The Matthews Lions Club is preparing for the 56th annual Covered Bridge Festival, one of the community's longtime traditions and a major event for the Matthews area.

Each year, the festival attracts an estimated 10,000 to 12,000 visitors, bringing residents and visitors together for a weekend filled with food, crafts and community fellowship.

This year's festival will feature several new craft vendors as well as a few new food vendors, adding fresh options for returning festival-goers while maintaining the familiar attractions that have helped make the event successful year after year. Roger Richards of the Matthews Lions Club said the addition of new vendors is particularly significant because vendors are eager to return to the festival.

"That is a big deal because all vendors want to return every year since the event is so successful," Richards said.

The continued interest from vendors reflects the festival's reputation as a well-attended community event. The large crowds provide an opportunity for local organizations, artisans, food vendors and visitors to come together and celebrate the community.

For the Matthews Lions Club, the festival is also an important part of its ongoing commitment to the community.

The Lions Club is a service organization whose members work together on projects and activities intended to benefit the local area.

The Matthews Lions Club meets twice each month, on the second and fourth Tuesday, at the Lions Den in Matthews. Meetings begin at 7 p.m.

As the 56th Covered Bridge Festival approaches, organizers are looking forward to welcoming both longtime festival supporters and newcomers. With thousands of visitors expected and new vendors joining the event, this year's celebration promises to continue a tradition that has become an important part of the Matthews community.

MHS students, grads earn AP Scholar honors and more

Several current Marion High School students and members of the MHS Class of 2026 have been recognized by the College Board for their cumulative excellent performance on multiple Advanced Placement tests in the 2025-26 school year or earlier in their high school career. Every year, the College Board, which administers AP exams, awards students who have excelled on multiple exams. AP exams are scored on a scale of 1 to 5. A score of 3 designates the student as "qualified" and capable of doing the work of an introductory-level course in a particular subject at college, according to the AP Program's website. Many colleges and universities grant credit and placement for scores of 3, 4 or 5, but the AP Program's website notes that each college decides which scores it will accept. Here's a complete

High school sports participation increases for fifth consecutive year

Staff Report

INDIANAPOLIS — Led by the continual growth of girls’ flag football and girls’ wrestling, participation in high school sports increased for the fifth consecutive year in 2025-26 and set another all-time record.

The annual NFHS High School Athletics Participation Survey indicated that 8,415,684 participants were involved in high school sports in 2025-26 – up 149,440 from the previous year. The total includes 4,761,095 boys and 3,654,589 girls – both record highs – according to figures obtained from the 51 NFHS member state associations, which includes the District of Columbia.

The continual spike in the number of girls participating in flag football and wrestling since the pandemic has been nothing short of phenomenal. In the first post-pandemic survey in 2021-22, there were 15,716 girls participating in flag football nationally. That number has now ballooned to 102,360 – an increase of 87,000 participants in just four years.

Amazingly, participation in girls flag football increased 48.7 percent last year – 68,847 to 102,360 – and the sport cracked the Top 10 list for most popular girls’ sports. The number of schools reporting girls flag football participation increased from 2,736 to 3,990 in the past year, and a total of 37 states will be either sanctioning the sport or conducting independent/pilot programs by next year.

The popularity of wrestling for girls is not far behind flag football. Participation in girls wrestling increased 19.9 percent from the previous year – from 74,064 to 88,771 – and the number of schools sponsoring the sport for girls now rests at 8,853.

Since the return to activities from the pandemic, the number of schools offering the sport has jumped from 4,802 to 8,853, and the number of participants has increased from 31,654 to 88,771. In addition, all states are now reporting some participation in girls wrestling, and 40 state associations are now conducting state championships.

There was also good news on the girls’ basketball front. Participation in girls’ basketball was up 6,142 from the previous year to halt a downward trend that has seen numbers decline 100,000 during the past 20 years. A total of 362,382 were reported in girls’ basketball in 2025-26, up from 356,240 the previous year.

Overall, girls’

participation in high school sports increased by 114,993 – a 3.2 percent jump. Girls’ volleyball continued its annual climb with another 9,257 participants and topped 500,000 for the first time. At 502,056 participants, volleyball is No. 2 in popularity for girls, trailing track and field now by only 7,014 participants. In addition, girls’ golf participation increased 6.3 percent to 90,176.

“We are pleased to see the number of students involved in high school sports continuing to rise every year,” said Davis Whitfield, NFHS executive director. “Education-based sports within our nation’s schools is a privilege not available in most other countries, and we are thankful these opportunities continue to expand.

“We salute the coaches, athletic directors and school administrators for making these experiences happen, especially with some of the recent growth in several emerging sports. It is great to see new sport opportunities created to involve as many students as possible in high school sports.”

Five of the top 10 boys’ sports registered increases in 2025-26, including 11-player football, outdoor track and field, soccer, golf and tennis. Eleven-player football registered a 1.4 percent increase with another 14,128 participants and now stands at 1,043,716 – by far the most popular sport for boys or girls. The sport is continuing to rebound from the pandemic and posted its highest mark since the 2016-17 season.

In addition to 11-player football, a total of 33,191 boys were involved with 6-, 8- and 9-player football, and 4,334 girls were involved in all four versions of the sport, bringing the overall participation in high school football to 1,081,241 – up 11,597 from the previous year.

Golf had the largest percentage increase among boys’ sports with an 8.3 percent rise to 175,757 participants, while outdoor track and field was up about 4,000 participants, and tennis and soccer each gained about 3,000 participants.

Texas (911,405) and California (859,022) remained atop the list of state participation – by a wide margin. Ohio (347,994) ranked third, followed by Illinois (326,756), Pennsylvania (315,647), New York (312,563), Florida (311,233), Michigan (295,634), New Jersey (273,711) and Minnesota (241,536).

The NFHS High School Athletics Participation Survey was started in 1971 and provides the most comprehensive national view of participation in high school sports. The first survey in 1971 indicated 3.6 million boys and 294,015 girls involved in high school sports. Thanks to the passage of Title IX in 1972, the number of girls in high school sports jumped to two million by the end of the decade and now has exceeded 3.6 million.

In addition, students can earn other AP awards as part of AP Capstone, a diploma program based on two year-long AP courses: AP Seminar and AP Research. These courses are designed to complement other AP courses that the AP Capstone student may take. Instead of teaching specific subject knowledge, AP Seminar and AP Research use an interdisciplinary approach to develop the critical thinking, research, collaboration, time management, and presentation skills students need for college-level work. Several MHS students earned recognition in this category as well:

AP Capstone Diploma (earning scores of 3 or higher in AP Seminar and AP Research)
Mary Herrington, senior (also AP Scholar with Honor)
Gavin Johnson, senior (also AP Scholar)
Maizey Kuch, senior (also AP Scholar)

Seminar and AP Research and on four additional AP Exams)

Since 1955, the rigorous Advanced Placement Program has enabled millions of students to take college-level courses and exams and to earn college credit or placement while still in high school. According to a study cited on the AP Program’s website, AP students have better four-year college graduation rates than those who did not take AP. Taking AP also increases eligibility for scholarships and makes candidates more attractive to colleges. AP Scholar honors put the spotlight on students who excel in multiple subjects, and students may cite this academic distinction among their credentials on applications, resumes, and portfolios. (Learn more about the honors here.)

MHS AP students surpass state and global success rates: In six subjects, MHS students surpassed the state and/or global percentage of students passing the exams in the 2025-26 school year. And in four subjects, 100 percent of test-takers at MHS passed! Overall, 87 students passed at least one exam, while 30 of those passed multiple exams — both an increase over the previous year.

Marion Community Schools is proud of these students’ excellent achievements, and is proud of the early college opportunities MHS continues to offer to its students. For information about how your high school student can take advantage of these early college credit opportunities and more, check out the enrollment section of our website.

Living...in a troubled world

If you don't like the harvest, change the seed

Scripture teaches that what we cultivate in our hearts can shape the course of our lives.

By Teresa LeNeave
leneave2@comcast.net

Scripture is clear about the source of blessing: It comes from the Lord. I love a verse in 3rd John where he expressed a heartfelt desire for the well-being of his readers: “Beloved, I wish above all things that thou mayest prosper and be in health, even as thy soul prospereth” (3 John 2). Who among us would not want to prosper, enjoy good health and experience a life marked by God’s blessings? This does not mean we don’t suffer and go through hard times, but in those times we “have a friend that sticks closer than a brother”. That’s a blessing beyond measure.

Scripture points to something even more important than outward prosperity; it talks about the health and prosperity of the soul. The Bible leaves little doubt about the source of every good thing. “Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of Lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning” (James 1:17). Theologians have sometimes described the message of 3 John 2 as “nothing missing, nothing broken.” John’s prayer is that we experience wholeness, not simply in material circumstances, but in our health, our relationships, our spiritual lives and, ultimately, our souls. As the soul prospers, our lives can begin to reflect that prosperity. The question, then, is how does the soul prosper? Solomon offers an important answer in Proverbs 4:23: “Guard your heart above all else, for it determines the course of your life” (NLT). What we allow into our hearts and minds matters. What we see, what we hear and what we continually think about can influence our emotions, attitudes and decisions. It is worth asking ourselves: What causes us to become angry? What produces fear? What leaves us confused, discouraged or troubled? What causes us to make bad decisions? Once we recognize those influences, we can begin making wiser choices about what we allow to occupy our thoughts and emotions. That’s called “guarding the heart”. What we plant in our hearts can eventually become the harvest we experience in our lives. So, if we don’t like the harvest, perhaps it is time to examine the seed. What are we planting through our thoughts, words, habits and influences? If we want a different harvest, Scripture suggests that we begin by changing what we cultivate within our heart. Guard the heart. Feed the soul. Seek God. And plant good seed.

Don't fight every scorpion

By Brandon Bramlett
Pastor - Bandana Baptist Church

The baby slept soundly in his swing while a scorpion stealthily skulked down the suspension cord above him. His father, Kino, stared like a snake ready to strike, carefully calculating how to kill the eight-legged intruder. But the predator didn’t give him time to play chess, and injected the infant with his toxic tail. The boy was engulfed in agony and Kino was consumed with anger, prompting him to seize the fiend, smash him into a paste within his hand, and hurl the scorpion’s remains into the dirt. The newborn’s mother frantically attempted to extract the venom with her lips, and they hurried him to the town physician in hopes of saving his life—a debacle that could have been averted entirely had Kino simply grabbed the baby instead of facing down a foe he was powerless to conquer. Kino, why didn’t you snatch your son from the scorpion? Why did you fight when you should have fled with the boy? That is what you will shout from the reader’s chair while reading John Steinbeck’s short novella, The Pearl. The book commences with the aforementioned fictional story of baby Coyotito being struck by a scorpion because Kino ran headlong into a fight he should have ran away from while cradling his son. Sometimes, the surest strategy for subduing certain foes is retreating rather than trying to prove how strong you are only to demonstrate that you aren’t. Likewise, the Author of Scripture repeatedly shouts to believers, “Don’t fight when you should flee.” The Lord certainly commands Christians to stand firm against Satan and valiantly fight the good fight (Eph. 6:11; 1 Tim. 6:12), but there are some spiritual skirmishes that believers need to run away from rather than run toward with guns ablazing. Paul exhorted the Corinthians with desperate urgency in his voice, “Flee from sexual immorality” (1 Cor. 6:18), and later on, “Therefore, my beloved, flee from idolatry” (1 Cor. 10:14). When intense temptations for sexual sin and idol-worship come crawling down the rope, that is not the time to show off how spiritually mature you are—that is time to get out of Dodge and make a run for it. Retreat doesn’t mean defeat—sometimes the best strategy for survival is to run as far away and as fast as you can. Joseph of old employed this tactic when Potiphar’s spouse sought to seduce him. He didn’t negotiate with temptation or stick around to prove his competence—he ran for the hills (Gen. 39:12). Samson, on the other hand, lingered with Delilah foolishly thinking that he could conquer the allure of sin with his great might—and he lost (Judges 16:4-22). Don’t fight every spiritual scorpion that slithers your way—know when to run like your soul depends on it, because it does. “The prudent sees danger and hides himself,” wrote Solomon, “but the simple go on and suffer for it” (Prov. 22:3).

Outdoor Truths: The Ross Fire

By Gary Miller

Jacksboro Texas is a special place to me. Of all places, this little town of fewer than 5,000 people changed the direction of my ministry 13 years ago. It was there that a few men gathered at the Davis Ranch, on the back deck, and talked about life and ministry. A little while later, I was invited back for a weekend of hog hunting and teaching. This was the first of what later became our Circle Events. Today, we hold them in several states. In the beginning, most of these events were held at the Davis Ranch. We invited 12 men to hog hunt, or turkey hunt, or to just do an extended Bible session. Other ranches in Jack County became a part of what we were doing. The Blue Mountain Ranch was a beautiful place full of turkeys and deer, with countless fishing ponds loaded with big bass. Yes, this place, just an hour northwest of Fort Worth, will forever hold a special place in my heart. But today, the people there need our help. The Ross Fire started on August 24th. Since that time, Jacks County has only received 0.03 inches of rain. At the time of this writing, the fire has consumed more than 89,000 acres. The firefighters have spent countless hours trying to contain it. They are spent. They are relentless, and right now, they are our heroes. They need help. They need resources. The people of Jacksboro were there for me. I want to be there for them. On September 11th Outdoor Truths Ministry will make a donation to the Jacksboro Fire Department with the money we raise between now and then. I am simply using this platform because I know some of you will want to help as well. If you would like to donate, you can mail a check directly to the Jacksboro Fire Department, or you can donate through Outdoor Truths specifically for this effort. There will be a special place on our website to give. These men and women are working nonstop to protect their homes and the homes, land, and property of people throughout North Texas. We can stand with them. Pray for rain in North Texas and help me give back to a place that has given so much to me and Outdoor Truths. Any amount is meaningful.

Sudoku Puzzle

How it Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle! Good Luck!

Put-and-take pheasant hunt reservations open September 9th

Staff Report

INDIANAPOLIS — Reservations for put-and-take pheasant hunts will open for purchase beginning Wednesday, Sept. 9, at 7 a.m. ET at GoOutdoorsIN.com. The hunts take place from Nov. 21-29.

New for this year, pheasant hunt reservations will open for purchase in phases by property as listed below. All sales begin at the date and time listed and remain open until Nov. 9 or all reservations are sold.

- Glendale and Tri-County Fish & Wildlife Areas (FWAs) hunt reservations open Sept. 9 at 7 a.m. ET.
- JE Roush and Atterbury FWAs hunt reservations open Sept. 16 at 7 a.m. ET.
- Pigeon River and Winamac FWAs hunt reservations open Sept. 23 at 7 a.m. ET.

Also new for this year, a limit of 20 hunts per customer applies for each sales phase. For example, a customer may purchase up to 20 hunts total for the Glendale and Tri-County FWAs sale and then purchase up to 20 additional hunts for the JE Roush and Atterbury FWAs sale.

Put-and-take pheasant hunts are no longer offered at Willow Slough FWA to allow for the continued re-establishment of wild ring-necked pheasants and bobwhite quail. Wild ring-necked pheasant hunting is available at Willow Slough FWA and associated properties during the regular season (Nov. 1-Dec. 15).

Hunt reservations are sold on a first-come, first-served basis. A $30 fee and $1 tech fee are charged for each reservation. Hunters must possess a valid hunting license and a game bird habitat stamp to hunt pheasants. Hunters should print their reservation confirmation sheet and bring it with them on the day of their hunts.

More information, including property details and purchasing instructions, is available at on.IN.gov/reservedhunt.

City of Marion Awards $75,000 in Opioid Settlement Funds to Expand Access to Recovery, Treatment, and Community Support

MARION, Ind. — The City of Marion is pleased to announce the award of $75,000 in Opioid Settlement Access Grants to five local organizations working to address substance use, recovery, behavioral health, and related needs throughout Marion and Grant County.

The Access Grant initiative is funded through the City of Marion’s opioid settlement funds and is designed to strengthen local services, reduce barriers to care, and connect individuals and families impacted by the opioid crisis with critical community resources.

The City has awarded funding to the following organizations:

- Family Recovery Court — $15,000 to support services for families impacted by substance use and involved with the court system.
- Grant County Rescue Mission — $15,000 to expand access to supportive services for individuals experiencing homelessness, substance use, and other barriers to stability.
- Radiant Health — $5,000 to support behavioral health and substance use services and improve access to care.
- BIGJAWS Youth for Christ — $15,000 to support prevention, intervention, and supportive programming for local youth.

- Bridges to Health — $25,000 to support community-based services and provide contracted community trainings aimed at increasing knowledge, prevention, and response related to substance use and behavioral health needs.

“These investments allow us to put opioid settlement dollars directly into programs that are serving people in our community,” said Mayor Ronald Morrell Jr. “Addressing the impact of the opioid crisis requires a comprehensive approach from prevention and education to treatment, recovery, and support for families. These organizations are important partners in that work.”

The Access Grants are part of the City of Marion’s broader strategy for utilizing opioid settlement funds to address the ongoing effects of the opioid epidemic. By investing in established community organizations, the City seeks to expand access to services while supporting coordinated, locally driven solutions.

Funded organizations will be responsible for using the awards for approved opioid remediation activities and providing required documentation and reporting to the City.
