Long Time Marshall County Co-Op Manager Set to Retire

By Kelsey Edwards
Marshall Times Editor

Tim Ferrell, the manager of the Marshall County Co-op who has been in the position for three decades will retire in January 2026. The Marshall County Co-op is a farmer’s cooperative that has been a staple within the community since its founding in 1946. Ferrell, who joined the Co-op in 1996, played a huge part in shaping the co-ops growth and success over the years. Ferrell’s leadership and vision for the co-op has left a permanent mark on the organization, and not only will he be missed by the staff but also several community members. Ferrell leaves behind a legacy of hard work, integrity, and commitment to the mission of the Co-op.

Many are wondering who will step in to fill the role of Tim Ferrell, and that will be Jennifer Neal Daniels, many of whom have seen her at the Co-op. Daniels began her time with the Marshall County Co-op in 2003, where she originally joined on a temporary basis. However, over the years, she would take on more responsibility and became a big part of the team. She was recognized in 2021 for her dedication and contributions by being promoted to assistant manager, a role in which she worked closely with Tim to help guide the Co-op’s operations and long-term planning. Daniels has a great understanding of the Co-op’s values and her commitment to its mission has made her the ideal choice to lead the organization into the future. For over 75 years, Marshall County Co-op has been a big supporter for local farmers and residents, as it provides essential services that contribute to the area’s well-being and it will be exciting to see how this new leadership will continue to shape the business.

By Kelsey Edwards
Marshall Times Editor

At the Marshall County Board of Education meeting on September 18, several students and staff presentations were given along with the approval of the district’s working budget. The meeting started with presentations, one of which was from the principal of Jonathan Elementary, Lyndsie Dempsey, and one from the Marshall County FFA Chapter. Dempsey spoke on Jonathan’s theme for the year, which is ‘Rise up and Shine,’ as well as how the school has put into place ways for the school to work towards the district’s theme of ‘From Good to Great’. Dempsey stated, “All of the things that I have here are what we’ve put into place already this school year that we’re continuing to build. The first one is growing resilience in mindset, that’s promoting perseverance and growth mindset and students and staff. We’re building a culture of kindness and belonging. So, fostering teamwork, empathy, and strong school connections. We’re promoting accountability and school pride, so encouraging goal setting, ownership and pride in our learning, in our environment, and also we are celebrating growth and success, and that is with our recognition of academics, behavior, and personal achievements.” Dempsey went on to introduce Mackenzie Harper, who is a second grade teacher and PBIS Coach. Harper shared ways that the school has been working to encourage good behavior out of the students. This led to the addition of the school’s ‘STANG Expectations’ which is named for the school’s mascot, the mustang and the expectations are to encourage the students, and serve as schoolwide rules. The elementary school has also worked to encourage students to set goals to improve their math and reading scores over the course of the year.

The board of education then heard from the Marshall County High School FFA chapter. Jourdan Palmeri and Brain Jarvis, the Agriculture teachers and FFA advisors introduced the students and spoke about ‘All in for Ag Week’ before allowing the students to begin their presentation. The students not only shared several activities that the chapter has participated in so far this year, but also events, competitions, and activities that will come later in the year. The students attended the Kentucky State Fair and competed in several competitions, as well as held the club’s annual cookout, and have recently completed their annual mum sales fundraiser. In the coming weeks and months, the club is set to send underclassmen to Murray State University for a leadership development program called Racer Roundup, they will be holding an FFA Alumni Homecoming event prior to an October home football game, and will also attend the organization’s national convention.

After the presentations were complete, the meeting moved on to the staff reports, which started with Superintendent Bill Thorpe. Thorpe reported that he had spoken to several other districts about the Lifewise Academy that operates in the county, as well as attended a conference where he heard the governor speak and spoke to state legislators. He also reported that he, Darla Doss board chair, and Kevin Jackson the Secondary Supervisor of Instruction had selected four seniors to be involved in a board advisory role. The group of seniors will select a chair amongst themselves to attend board meetings, and will assist in selecting two representatives from each remaining grade level at the high school to form a committee. Thorpe went on to share that he was in the process of facilitating a survey of MCHS parents, students, and staff, about their expectations and preferences for the next principal of the high school.

The board then heard from Jackie Reid, the Supervisor of Instruction, who shared that the STAR assessment data would be available in October, and that she had recently been in contact with all of the elementary/ middle school English and language arts teachers about their implementation of high quality instructional materials so far this year. Reid then handed off the report to Kevin Jackson. Jackson addressed the upcoming transition from the ACT to the SAT for high school student testing. It had been previously suggested that the school would allow all sophomores and juniors to take the practice SAT in the fall, before the test was given in the spring. Jackson went on to share that it was determined the school would be better able to get the results and allow students to study and improve by offering a mock SAT rather than the PSAT in the fall. Allan Smith, Director of Transportation and Facilities gave his report where he shared that the Marshall County Technical Center renovation is approximately 87.2% complete, and stated that he had been looking into accessible playground equipment and solutions for the elementary level. Amanda Henderson then spoke on behalf of Director of Pupil Personnel Brent Lovett, who was absent. Henderson shared that a procedure update was needed in order for the student handbook to match the official procedures for school safety, and particularly the backpack requirements to which the change was approved.

Due to an increase in interest, the board went on to approve a $500 stipend for a middle school tennis coach and serve both of the middle schools. The board heard from Brooke Gibbs, the district Finance Officer, who gave the finance report and presented the 2025–2026 working budget. The working budget is similar to the tentative budget, however, it includes information that was unavailable at the time of the tentative budget, like tax revenue and grant funding. Gibbs went on to note that the SEEK funding would not be available until the end of September, so that portion of the budget is still composed of estimates. The next board meeting is scheduled for October 16, 2025 at 6 p.m.

Marshall County High School Launches New Organization/Club

By Kelsey Edwards
Marshall Times Editor

A new program has officially been launched by Marshall County High School. The new program is ‘Jobs for America’s Graduates’ and this is where students are encouraged to develop skills that will help them transition into the workforce after they graduate. To mark the new program, they held an initiation and installation ceremony where both the parents of the involved students attended, along with several administrators. The event opened with a warm welcome from Mickey Hill, who is the affiliated teacher. Hill gave an overview of the program to the parents and administrators where he stated, “It’s all about getting them ready for whatever they’re going to do after high school. Some of them may go right to the workforce, some may go to college and then go to the workforce and get a job, some may start their own businesses, some may go into the military. It’s any of those things. It’s to help them get ready for whatever’s the next step in their lives”. This new program is both an elective class and a club, which is similar to other organizations in the school, however, what sets it apart is that it is not limited to one type of career, and will actually encourage students to find a career aligned with their skills and interests.

Bill Thorpe, the Superintendent also addressed those in attendance by sharing that the program was brought to him by a member of the board of education, following an event the board members had attended. He stated that the board member had seen this program at an event that they go to, and she brought that back. He continued saying that they had reached out and were able to connect with Stephanie Rickman, who is the Western Kentucky JAG Liaison, and were able to get a presentation at the board meeting. It was also announced that the organization selected a theme, and has determined a way to give back to the community. The students who are involved in the program, settled on the theme “You’ve got a friend in JAG,” which Hill said was loosely inspired by the movie Toy Story, and will be hosting a toy drive later in the year. Also at the event, the students who were elected to serve as officers were installed into their respective roles. Hill did state that the program would have other events in the future, but every year there will be an annual ceremony to induct new students.

Kentucky has $17.8 million pledge for EV charging stations

By TOM LATEK, Kentucky Today

Kentucky has secured $17.8 million in previously pledged federal funds to build out electric vehicle (EV) charging stations across the state, enabling longer distance EV travel for both residents and visitors.

The EV Infrastructure Deployment Plan's

dollars returned to the commonwealth, and these investments to expand our state's EV network will help Kentucky continue building on its status as a global automotive leader."

Last month, Beshear joined 19 other states and the District of Columbia to challenge the Trump administration's decision to freeze $32 million in NEVI funding. In total, Kentucky expects to receive nearly $70 million in NEVI funding, the remaining $14.8 million in NEVI funds is anticipated to be available later this year.

Federal approval of Kentucky's latest EVIDP allows new funds to support Phase 2 and Phase 3 of Kentucky's EV plan, which will expand charging infrastructure along other priority corridors, in communities, and at destination sites statewide.

The plan was developed by the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet (KYTC) in cooperation with the Energy and Environment Cabinet (EEC) and the Federal Highway Administration (FHWA).

Kentucky has awarded 46 fast-charging stations statewide with five stations open and three additional stations under construction. The five active stations are in Berea, Grayson, Hazard, Richmond, and Sparta. All of the awarded stations are expected to open in 2026. They represent an investment of $31.6 million in obligated NEVI federal formula funds.

"Accessible fast-charging stations across the Commonwealth will make a real difference for Kentuckians and visitors alike," said Transportation Secretary Jim Gray. "We look forward to having nearly 50 NEVI funded fast charging stations up and running in the Commonwealth next year. Kentucky is leading the charge on the EV front."

Kentucky is a leader in automotive production and is the EV battery production capital of the United States, helping create thousands of high-quality jobs for Kentuckians. Kentucky touts $13.5 billion in EV-related investments in the state with the creation of nearly 10,200 full-time jobs statewide.

Dr. Stapleton recommends getting the flu shot anytime from early September through October. While flu shots may not prevent you from getting the flu, they do lessen the symptoms and shorten the duration of illness.

A flu shot will also decrease the chance you will infect someone else.

"The influenza vaccine is not only beneficial for you, but it's also beneficial for your family and friends. If you do come down with the flu, you're not shedding as much virus when you're vaccinated," added Dr. Stapleton.

Dr. Stapleton advises everyone to talk to their health care provider to discuss the benefits and risks of a flu vaccine, but she adds the flu shot is very safe for most people.

teacher at Glasgow Middle School. This is her 23rd year teaching. Full biographies for all inductees will be released on November 7. The Governor Louie B. Nunn Kentucky Teacher Hall of Fame was established in 2000 through a generous gift from former Governor Nunn, aimed at honoring the essential contributions of Kentucky’s classroom teachers and their positive impact on the state’s economy. WKU was chosen as its home due to its century-long legacy in teacher education.

Support Local Veterans: American Legion Auxiliary Unit 3 Events

By Laurna Todd, KPI Writer

The American Legion Auxiliary Unit 3 is inviting the community to participate in two upcoming events at American Legion Post 3, located at 152 Fairground Drive in LaCenter. These events are designed to support area veterans, active-duty military families, and the wider community while providing a chance to enjoy fellowship and see the recent renovations at the Legion Hall. First, on Saturday, October 11, the Auxiliary will host a Veterans Breakfast starting at 9:00 AM. This buffet breakfast is open to all veterans and their spouses. Following the meal, a business meeting will be held at 10:00 AM, with new memberships and renewals being accepted. Later in the month, the Fish Dinner Fundraiser will be held on Friday, October 24, from 4:00 to 7:00 PM. Attendees can choose to eat in or take out. The menu features fish, slaw, white beans, French fries, hush puppies, along with drinks and dessert. Plates are priced at $12 for adults and $5 for children age 10 and under. Proceeds from this fundraiser go directly to supporting veterans’ programs, active-duty military families, and local community projects. Supporting fundraisers like these is essential for sustaining local veterans’ programs and ensuring the needs of those who have served our country are met. These events are also a great opportunity for community members to gather, enjoy good food, and show appreciation for the sacrifices of our veterans. For more information, contact American Legion Post 3 or attend either event to support a cause that strengthens both our veterans and our community.

Paducah’s 31st Annual BBQ on the River Celebrates Food, Music, and Community Spirit

By Laurn Todd
KPI Writer

This past weekend, Paducah’s riverfront was transformed as thousands gathered for the 31st Annual BBQ on the River, which took place from Thursday, September 25, to Saturday, September 27. What started in the mid-1990s with just a few teams has grown into one of western Kentucky’s largest events, attracting pitmasters, food enthusiasts, and visitors from across the region.

The festivities began on Wednesday evening with Porkstock, a VIP fundraiser for Paducah Main Street. Guests enjoyed a three-course meal, drinks, and live music, all while supporting downtown revitalization. This event set the tone for the upcoming days filled with food, fun, and community giving.

By Thursday, the streets of downtown Paducah were filled with the enticing scents of smoked chicken, pork shoulder, and ribs as BBQ on the River officially commenced. Over 80,000 pounds of meat were cooked and served by local restaurants, traveling pitmasters, and community teams, each raising funds for their chosen charities. The event typically attracts around 50,000 visitors, making it one of the largest gatherings in the region.

One of the biggest stories of the weekend was the dominance of Tilford’s Q Krew, who proved once again why many say they have the BEST BBQ around. They brought the smoke, the flavor, and the passion—and they’re bringing home the 2025 Grand Champion trophy! Along the way, the team also captured top honors in several categories, including Anything But Beef (Brisket), Anything But Sides (Pigsicle), 1st Place Circuit Pork Shoulder, and 1st Place Circuit Whole Hog. Fans are already asking the big question: Who’s ready to celebrate with some championship-worthy BBQ?

Several other teams earned bragging rights as well. Ballard Memorial Bomber Baseball earned 1st place in chicken and hog, 3rd place in ribs, 5th overall, and 1st place in the “silent rib testers” category. Prepare Before Disaster Strikes: Build Emergency Kit

By Laurna Todd
KPI Writer

Emergencies can happen at any time—storms, power outages, or road closures—and when they do, it’s easy to forget the essentials. Being prepared ahead of time keeps your family safe, comfortable, and calm.

The cornerstone of preparedness is a well-stocked supply kit. Every kit should include flashlights with extra batteries, portable phone chargers, first aid supplies, and at least three days’ worth of food and water. Don’t forget pets and family members with special needs.

When it comes to food, focus on items with a long shelf life that require little or no cooking. Stock up on canned months to ensure freshness. Store at least one gallon of water per person per day.

Start small if needed, but start now. Make sure everyone in your household knows where the kit is and how to use the supplies. Check your kit regularly, update it as your family’s needs change, and replace expired items.

Preparedness is about more than having supplies—it’s about creating peace of mind. By stocking the right foods, keeping essentials organized, and planning ahead, your family will be ready to face emergencies safely and confidently.

vegetables, beans, tuna, and chicken; dried pasta, rice, and instant oatmeal; peanut butter and nuts; and shelf-stable milk or powdered milk. Ready-to-eat meals, granola bars, and dried fruits are also excellent staples. Rotate your food and water every six

Teen Arrested After Road Rage Incident Involving Firearm

By Laurna Todd,
KPI Writer

McCracken County, KY – On Tuesday morning, the McCracken County Sheriff’s Office responded to a report of a road rage incident on U.S. Highway 45, near the Graves County line. According to the investigation, a 17-year-old female from Graves County became involved in a heated exchange with another driver while traveling along the highway. During the incident, the juvenile allegedly pointed a loaded .45 caliber handgun at the other motorist. Deputies located and stopped the teen shortly after the report was made. She was taken into custody without further incident and transported to the Boyd County Juvenile Detention Facility. No injuries were rported. Due to her age, the identity of the juvenile has not been released. Charges are pending, and the case remains under investigation. In Kentucky, it is illegal for individuals under the age of 18 to possess a handgun, except under very limited circumstances such as supervised hunting or shooting activities. The legal age to carry a handgun in public without a permit is 21. The juvenile’s possession and use of a firearm during this incident was unlawful. If you are the victim of road rage, authorities recommend staying calm, avoiding eye contact, and not engaging with the aggressive driver. Do not pull over or exit your vehicle. Instead, call 911, report the location and vehicle description, and drive to a public area or police station if you feel unsafe. Anyone with additional information is encouraged to contact the McCracken County Sheriff’s Office.

University of Kentucky Beam Institute, partners reach success in phase one of hydrogen-based spirit production

By Grace Sowards

LEXINGTON, Ky.— The University of Kentucky James B. Beam Institute for Kentucky Spirits (JBBI), housed in the Martin-Gatton College of Agriculture, Food and Environment, has completed a critical phase to demonstrate hydrogen as a domestic energy source for use in the distilled spirits industry. The project, titled “Kentucky Distilled Spirits Industrial Decarbonization and Sustainability,” was announced in November 2024. It was funded by the Kentucky Energy and Environment Cabinet (EEC) and led by Seth DeBolt, JBBI director. The team evaluated the entire distillation process. DeBolt collaborated with experts at the UK Center for Applied Energy Research (CAER) who have long been at the cutting edge of energy research in the state of Kentucky. “We are pleased with the early results from this research collaboration,” said Rodney Andrews, CAER director. “Co-firing natural gas and hydrogen in bourbon production is a novel concept, and we are thrilled to see some promising data coming from the project. We look forward to seeing what happens next.” At the end of this first phase, the JBBI team confirmed co-firing natural gas (typically used for spirit production) with hydrogen can produce results.

A blend of hydrogen and natural gas is used to feed the boiler, which produces steam for the distillation process. DeBolt, along with JBBI Head Distiller Glenna Joyce-Welsko, monitored natural gas blend, 10 with just natural gas production — that now sit in the Independent Stave Company Boswell Family Barrel Warehouse, where they will age for the next four years.

“Kenya Stump, executive director at the EEC Office of Energy Policy, thought to connect the two in a large-scale demonstration. Our distillery at the institute provides the unique capability to conduct this test while tracking key information on production quality and safety.” The project also demonstrated the many safety and compliance checks needed to use the emerging domestic energy resource. The next test of whether hydrogen can be used by the distilling industry will come when the spirit is tasted after aging. If the hydrogen base does not affect the flavor of the spirit, as JBBI predicts, this initiative could largely contribute to the demonstration of hydrogen as a domestic energy resource. Preliminary data shows that the distillate is high quality. “Today’s news is another great step for Team Kentucky’s ‘all-of-the-above’ energy strategy, which aims to unleash our economy while meeting the energy needs of tomorrow,” said EEC Secretary Rebecca Goodman. “We’re excited to partner with UK’s Center for Applied Energy Research and the Beam Institute to boost the use of hydrogen energy and support Kentucky’s signature industry in achieving its energy goals. The successful blending of hydrogen in the distilling process is a great example of innovation and teamwork in action.”

BMHS Class of 1975 celebrates 50th Reunion

Submitted by Karen Hargrove

A Joyful Blessed time was had by the group of 65 individuals who came from far and near to celebrate old friendships, dear acquaintances, and walking the halls of days past in the former Ballard Memorial High School where they attended classes with former classmates. Of 107 who graduated that May of 1975, 38 in attendance were actual graduates of the Class of 1975. Any that even attended Ballard perhaps for even a brief moment BUT yet rubbed shoulders with us at one time or another were invited. The events started on Friday evening, September 12, at the Courtyard Marriott so as to be a convenance for the guests that came in from out of town. With a Pizza Party planned in the lobby, firepit area and business room there were about 18 in attendance. Classmates traveling the furthest came in from Lufkin, Texas; Huntsville, Alabama; Dayton, Ohio and Chelsea Alabama. Smokey D's represented with a gift of their prize winning Bar-B-Que sauce to each traveler. Saturday morning the 13th, events continued with 'Breakfast at the Bluegrass' with 15 in attendance.... then onto the 'NEW' (new to us, I might add) High School. A tour was given of the High and Middle Schools by tour guide Monica Ingram. All of the out of towners showed up for that along with locals for 10 in attendance. Then the Main event began with a Meet and Greet time at the "The Studio by Woods & Co." at 5 p.m. The elegant affair was set with black table clothes on tables topped with fresh greenery and brides breath, fairy lights, candles in clear vases of varying sizes and candlelit votives. Balloon arches, a welcoming 1975 banner, a table of the 1975 classes historical documents on display were all there to add a bit of nostalgia for the group to celebrate this special, once in a lifetime event in our lives. Soon the program began with BMHS' own ad libbing Speaker for the night welcoming all, Mr. Pat Terrell. Monty Moore soon followed with a toast to all parents, caregivers, spouses, classmates and children that have left this world before us. Those who traveled in for this event stood and were thanked,

Those Class Officers who served at any-time thru High school were acknowledged along with a round of applause for an honor to have all four Senior Class Officers in attendance. A tribute was given by Sherie Lane Danelis who is the D.A.V. Adjutant Secretary for the area and honored all the classmates who served in the Armed Service. Both living and dead. BMHS Class of 1975 was revered to have 8 classmates (that they knew of) to represent not only the class but our country! Thank you for your service! A catered meal by Neils Catering was blessed by Brian Butler and enjoyed by all. Closing dinner was a special time to name all 19 that had passed before us. A beautiful memorial board with all of their senior class photo's displayed along with a beautiful sentiment 'Wherever a Beautiful Soul has been, there is a trial of Beautiful Memories'. The Photo Booth soon opened up and everyone enjoyed BUT what they really enjoyed was the fellowship and celebrating 50 years from that graduating Rite of Passage. We were blessed!

Students, Businesses, and Communities Unite for “See You at the Pole”

By: Laurna Todd
KPI Writer

On Wednesday, September 24, 2025, students across Western Kentucky joined over one million young people worldwide for the annual “See You at the Pole” prayer event. Gathered around school flagpoles before the start of the school day, students lifted up prayers for their families, friends, teachers, schools, and communities. The sight of young people taking a moment to prioritize their faith served as a powerful reminder that belief remains strong in the next generation. While the event traditionally occurs at flagpoles, some schools also hosted “See You at the Pole—Gym Style” gatherings, bringing students together indoors for group prayer and worship. Regardless of the setting, the core purpose of the event remained the same: seeking God’s presence and guidance. Several businesses in Western Kentucky also participated in the movement. CFSB team members gathered at their banking centers on September 25 for a special “Prayer at the Pole” service. Alongside community members, they prayed for local law enforcement officers, first responders, and emergency management teams who work tirelessly to keep the region safe. Witnessing students and adults united in prayer was uplifting, especially at a time when division and negativity often dominate the news. As Scripture reminds us in Matthew 28:20, Jesus promised, “I am with you always, to the end of the age.” Likewise, Hebrews 13:5 echoes that assurance: “I will never leave you nor forsake you.” Events like “See You at the Pole” showcase that prayer is not just for one day but should be an integral part of daily life. During challenging times, believers are called to pray not only during moments of spiritual joy but also through life’s difficulties. Matthew 18:18-19 reminds us that when two or more gather in prayer, God hears and responds. This year’s “See You at the Pole” was more than just a moment; it was a call to incorporate prayer into everyday life, uniting schools, businesses, and communities under the hope and promise of God’s presence.

Murray State Nursing Expands Training with $499K Award

By: Laurna Todd
KPI Writer

MURRAY, Ky. – The Murray State University School of Nursing and Health Professions (SONHP) has been awarded a $499,000 continuation grant from the Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA). This funding is part of the Nurse Education, Practice, Quality and Retention Simulation Education Training (NEPQR-SET) program and represents the third and final year of a $1.5 million grant previously awarded to the school. The grant will support the expanded use of simulation technology, allowing nursing students to practice critical skills in a safe and controlled environment. Dr. Dina Byers, dean of SONHP, praised faculty members Drs. Dana Todd, Tonia Mailow, and Jennifer Rogers for their efforts in developing the grant proposal in collaboration with Baptist Health Paducah. “Simulation training builds confidence and enhances decision-making,” said Mailow, the BSN program chair. “Students engage in high-pressure, real-world scenarios that bolster clinical judgment, teamwork, and communication across various disciplines.” SONHP has incorporated simulation into every nursing course, resulting in measurable improvements in student readiness. According to Mailow, graduates enter the workforce with stronger competencies and require less orientation. The program also addresses healthcare needs in rural and underserved areas, equipping students to treat conditions such as strokes, heart disease, maternal health issues, and behavioral health challenges. A key aspect of the project is the academic-clinical partnership with Baptist Health Paducah, where nursing students work alongside registered nurses during 12-hour clinical shifts. Many students have accepted job offers at Baptist Health following their graduation. Dr. Marilyn Riley, vice president and chief nursing officer at Baptist Health Paducah, noted that the partnership has been mutually beneficial. “This grant has increased our clinical capacity and allowed Murray State to expand enrollment,” Riley explained. “Students gain a realistic perspective on a nurse’s shift, and we’ve been able to hire more graduates. In May 2025 alone, we hired 11

Murray State nurses.” Looking ahead, SONHP plans to further expand its simulation opportunities when Jackson Hall, the university’s new nursing building, opens in 2026. This state-of-the-art facility will feature additional simulation suites to accommodate growing enrollment. “This is an exciting time for Murray State Nursing,” Mailow stated. “We’re preparing future nurses who are ready to serve patients and communities from day one.”

WKCTC Criminal Justice Students Visit Paducah Police Department

By: Laurna Todd

PADUCAH, Ky. – Criminal justice students from West Kentucky Community & Technical College recently had the opportunity to explore career paths in law enforcement during a visit to the Paducah Police Department. The students were welcomed by Officers Blake Quinn and Samantha Taylor, who guided them on a tour of police headquarters. The officers explained the daily responsibilities of serving as a law enforcement professional and provided insight into the challenges and rewards of the job. The visit concluded with a question-and-answer session led by Chief of Police Brian Laird. Students asked thoughtful questions about career preparation, public safety, and the importance of community service. Chief Laird emphasized the department’s commitment to building positive relationships with the community and encouraged students to consider how their education could prepare them for a future in law enforcement. The experience offered students an inside look at policing and highlighted the variety of career opportunities available within the field of criminal justice. Department leaders said they are always pleased to engage with the next generation of professionals and look forward to supporting students as they continue their academic and career journeys.

Food Pantries in Paducah, Kentucky

By Wilbur Jackson
KPI Writer

Paducah, Kentucky, like many communities across the country, is home to individuals and families who face food insecurity. Whether due to job loss, rising costs, or unexpected life changes, access to nutritious food can be a challenge. Fortunately, several local food pantries and organizations in Paducah are working tirelessly to bridge that gap and ensure no one in the community goes hungry.

One of the most well-known resources in the area is the Paducah Cooperative Ministry (PCM). Located at 402 Legion Drive, PCM provides emergency food assistance to residents in need, offering not just canned goods and staples, but also fresh produce and frozen items when available. Their mission is rooted in compassion and community support, serving people regardless of background or situation.

Another valuable organization is Martha’s Vineyard, a grassroots ministry founded to serve the homeless and low-income residents of the city. In addition to meals, Martha’s Vineyard offers clothing, hygiene products, and other essentials. They often partner with local churches and businesses to gather donations and extend their reach.

The Family Service Society, also based in Paducah, provides a food pantry alongside other emergency assistance programs. Families can receive a variety of items including meats, grains, and baby supplies. Their holistic approach helps address the root causes of poverty by also offering utility and prescription assistance.

Churches throughout Paducah also play a major role. For example, St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church and Broadway United Methodist Church host food pantries and community meals regularly. These faith-based programs often rely on volunteers and donations to keep their shelves stocked.

Local residents can also turn to Feeding America, Kentucky’s Heartland, which operates mobile food pantries and supplies food banks across the region. They frequently hold distribution events in Paducah and McCracken County to reach as many people as possible.

The growing demand for food assistance has led to increased collaboration between these groups, ensuring resources are used efficiently and no one is left behind. Donations, volunteer support, and community awareness remain key to keeping these services running.

In Paducah, food pantries aren’t just about handing out groceries—they’re about preserving dignity, offering hope, and building a stronger, more resilient community. Whether you’re in need or looking to help, these organizations welcome your support.

How a Government Shutdown Could Impact Western Kentucky

By Wilbur Jackson
KPI Writer

A federal government shutdown could have wide-reaching consequences across the United States, and Western Kentucky would not be immune. While some effects may seem distant or slow to appear, others could be felt almost immediately by families, businesses, and local governments throughout the region.

One of the most direct impacts would be on federal employees and contractors living in Western Kentucky. Many work in roles connected to agencies like the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA), the National Park Service, or the Department of Veterans Affairs. During a shutdown, non-essential federal workers are typically furloughed without pay, while others are forced to work without immediate compensation. This can put serious financial strain on households, particularly in smaller communities where federal employment plays a vital role in the local economy. Federal programs that support low-income families could also be disrupted. For example, the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) and the Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants, and Children (WIC) may face funding delays or reductions if a shutdown lasts more than a few weeks. Many families in rural areas of Western Kentucky rely on these programs to meet basic food and nutrition needs.

Agriculture, a key part of the region's economy, could also be hit hard. A shutdown would likely delay USDA services such as farm loans, crop insurance processing, and market reporting. For farmers facing tight planting or harvesting schedules, these disruptions can have costly ripple effects.

National parks and federal recreation areas in Western Kentucky, like Land

Between the Lakes, could close or limit operations. This would not only affect tourism and local businesses that depend on park traffic, but also restrict access for residents who use these areas for outdoor recreation.

Local governments and nonprofits may also feel the strain, as they often rely on federal grants to support services like housing, healthcare, and education. A delay in funding could force them to cut back or pause essential programs. While not every aspect of life in Western Kentucky would grind to a halt during a government shutdown, the cumulative effects could build quickly. From financial stress on families to disruptions in agriculture and public services, the region would be reminded that even national political gridlock has local consequences. As always, preparation and community resilience are key to weathering uncertain times.

VICTORIOUS Living ...in a troubled world

MYSTERIOUS SURGERY:

He removes the stony heart and replaces it with a heart of flesh

By Teresa LeNeave
Leneave2@comcast.net

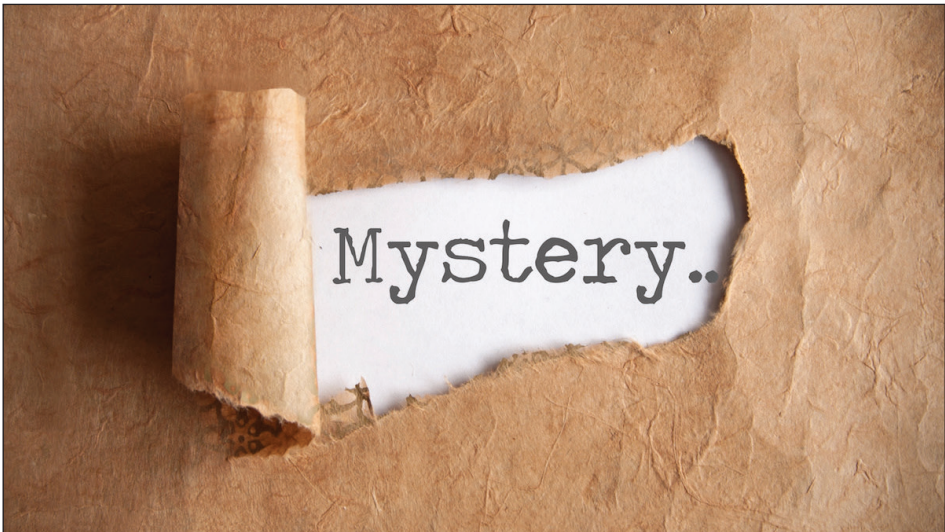

Whether its health or salvation, change always comes from the inside. To me, that is Jesus’ main message: “Verily, verily, I say unto thee, except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God” (John 3:3). That’s not where it ends. There is more: something beyond being born again. Although, being born again is the gateway, the Bible teaches there is much more than just believing. In fact, “the devils also believe, and tremble” (James 2:19).

I’m reminded of a man named Nicodemus who was a devout Pharisee, a member of the Sanhedrin and a respected teacher of Jewish law. He had all the credentials for believing. He apparently, like all the other Jews of his time, was expecting a coming Messiah – a Messiah who would be King of the Jews. At the same time, Jesus, a Rabbi who was healing the sick and drawing huge crowds, captured the attention of Nicodemus, but he just couldn’t seem to connect all the dots. Nicodemus had lots of questions.

Because Nicodemus really did have a good heart toward God, and toward his fellowman, Jesus and His message, it was probably very enticing to Nicodemus. He was curious and wanted to know more about this mysterious man. Nicodemus being a highly educated man, was probably amazed at Jesus’ wisdom and his ability to perform great miracles. He was sure that only someone who had been sent from God could do these things.

While Nicodemus was fascinated by Jesus, the rest of the Sanhedrin were upset with Jesus. They were strongly against a law-defying, preacher turning the hearts of the people toward something they couldn’t understand. Because of the Sanhedrin’s opinion of Jesus, Nicodemus eventually arranges a secret meeting with Jesus in the darkness of night so no one would see him. He begins to question Jesus about the law.

He even tells Jesus, “All you’re teaching - I’m doing”.

After some conversation, Nicodemus admits he believes Jesus is truly the promised Redeemer since only a man sent from God could do what He was doing. Christ responds by saying, “...except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God”. Nicodemus was shocked and quickly asked, “How can a man be born when he is old? Can he enter the second time into his mother’s womb, and be reborn?”

This is where change comes from the inside: Jesus explains that a person who wants to follow God must be born two times. They must be born once in the natural and once in the spiritual. Jesus was explaining that no matter how much a person knows, or how much good they do, everyone needs to be changed on the inside.

Unfortunately, at this meeting, Nicodemus chooses not to join Jesus’ team. There were things he wasn’t, yet, willing to give up. In my heart, I believe Nicodemus finally does commit his life to Christ, although we can’t be sure of that. I also believe Nicodemus represents most all of us. We want change, but change is uncomfortable. And, being born again is hard to understand, but it simply means we have a new identity with a new purpose for living.

Only Jesus can perform this miraculous surgery: He removes a stony heart and replaces it with a heart of flesh. He changes us from the inside out. God says, “A new heart also will I give you, and a new spirit will I put within you: and I will take away the stony heart out of your flesh, and I will give you an heart of flesh” (Ezekiel 36:26). What a great promise! This surgery takes us beyond simply believing Jesus is real to believing He lives in our heart and has the power to mysteriously transform us into His likeness.

I have hunted big game most of my adult life. I have written about my experiences over 20 years. Those experiences are not spectacular. Most of them have come in random places at random times, and without the resources to make them anything special. That is, I have only paid for one hunt but have relied on special friends for the opportunities I have been given. I have no trophies that would cause anyone to think I am some special or gifted hunter. I am a blue-collar, mediocre private land hunter. Don’t get me wrong, my Midwest opportunities are special, and they create for me an opportunity that many don’t have. But even these only come because of special friends and their unmerited graciousness to me. I have also made ministry to men the biggest part of my life for these past 20 years as well. During that time, I have traveled and spoken at places I would have never dreamed. But again, most of the places fall within what most of us would call normal churches and venues. None of them fall into stadiums or coliseums. I have written 5 books. Four of these are compilations of my articles. Again, nothing outstanding. And their sales? Mediocre at best. But compared to some others, I have been beyond blessed and extremely successful. Why am I telling you all of this? Because I want us all to see that privilege and blessings are not always by our good decisions. That our positions, prosperity, and health are not all actions of our decisions or our free will. Some things – in fact many many things are pre-determined by God. For instance, we had no say in what country we would be born in, what race we would be, what would be our mental capabilities – or incapacities, or who, or what our parents would be. We had no say if our mother would be a drug addict, or our father would begin abusing us as a child. These were forced on each of us by God and by a sinful world. Why? I don’t know. But what I do know and believe is this. Jesus sat and ate with tax collectors and “sinners.” He was criticized for it because everyone believed, at that time, tax collectors were dishonest and sinners were well, sinners. And those who were born blind or had other handicaps, were believed to be that way because of their sin or the sin of their parents. But Jesus knew better, and that’s why he went to them. He understood that many of their predicaments had nothing to do with any decision they made. It had everything to do with what God determined and what sin in general, destroyed. He went to the hurting, hungry, and handicapped, and healed, fed, and restored. And then told his apostles to do the same. He used this sentence.

“I desire mercy and not sacrifice.” He was telling the religious crowd that while your religious activity was fine and your spiritual sacrifices were okay, the compassion and kindness you show to those who have not had your privileges are the best.

Remember, if you are one who God has blessed with basics or abundance, find those who seemingly haven’t been. It will remind you to be humble in your position and thankful for your determined and unmerited blessings. And perhaps who will be the one God uses to heal, feed, and restore – until God makes everything right in heaven.

The world will know us by our love

By William F Holland Jr.
billyhollandministries.com

Each day we witness more division within our culture. There are only two sides, hate and love, and the separation is growing larger. Sadly, for those on the dark side, violence is becoming more acceptable. It’s obvious that insisting is not enough for those who now endorse terrorism. Today’s violence has a specific reason: it’s about politics and religion, just like it’s been since time began. Destruction, death, and even wars have been fought simply because one side disagreed with what the other side believed. From recent attempts to murder the president, to others being assassinated, one side hates the message and wants to silence the messenger. As these two sides become more recognizable, one side has a conscience, while the other side does not.

It’s disturbing to see millions of people, including even people we know, who are pleased with violence. How in the world could anyone in their right mind, especially someone who considers themselves a Christian, rejoice over people being killed, just because their worldviews are different? This is evidence that many are allowing hatred to control their minds, and this resentment has allowed a strong delusion to distort and blind their conscience. Political, religious, and social views are based on whether or not a person cares about what God demands. We know that millions of individuals have been murdered throughout the Old and New Testaments, because of their convictions. The number is too vast to know exactly how many have been silenced for their opinions, but only one side grieves because they know this is what Satan wants. The OpenDoors World Watch for 2024 reports that each day on average, more than 13 Christians are killed for their faith in Christ. This means that every two hours, a believer is murdered. From October 2023 to September 2024, nearly 300,000 Christians were forced to leave their homes, go into hiding, or flee their country of origin. Global persecution is real, and consistent, and yet we seldom think about how this brutality and suffering could one day be a reality for us. According to a recent survey by the American Psychological Association, nearly 75 percent of adults in the United States are stressed by mass shootings, and a third say this fear causes them to hesitate going to certain places and events. Arthur C. Evans Jr., PhD, and APA’s chief executive officer says, “It’s clear that mass shootings are taking a toll on our mental health, and we don’t have to experience these events directly for them to have a negative impact on us.” Many people try to avoid thinking about how evil and persecution are increasing, but Christians are told to study the Bible to guide their faith as they obey His voice. Learning God’s will allows us to understand what is coming and how to develop confidence to speak boldly, and teach those who want to listen. Sadly, many who call themselves followers of Jesus would rather hide in the closet. II Timothy chapter 3:1-5 is one of many passages that reveal the future and how we are to stand against sin. “This know also, that in the last days perilous times will come. For people will be lovers of their own selves, covetous, boasters, arrogant, blasphemers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, evil, unnatural perversion, back stabbers, false accusers, rebellious, fierce, haters of those who are good, traitors, conceited, highminded, lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God, and having a form of religion, but denying God’s power. Do not associate with these types of people.” Now is the hour to prepare and put on His armor, as verse 12 promises, “Yea, and all that will live godly in Christ Jesus will suffer persecution.” The end of the chapter encourages us to embrace what we have learned as His truth makes us wise unto salvation. As Christians, we are children of the light, and though we make mistakes, and occasionally might fall into a lukewarm and discouraged state, we are saved by the grace of God! We are opposite from the dark side. We constantly pray and battle our flesh and the demonic attacks, so that we can live holy and pleasing unto the Lord. We will not hate the other side, we do not want to kill them, or destroy anything or anyone. We pray that we can live in His freedom and His peace. The world will know we are Christians because of our compassion, intercession, forgiveness, wisdom, discernment, sanctification, faith, hope, and love. Please read II Corinthians chapter 4.

WKU HILLTOPPERS head to Delaware for Friday Night matchup

BOWLING GREEN, KY – WKU Football will look for its third consecutive win and to keep a perfect record in Conference USA play when it travels to Delaware for a 6 p.m. CT game against the Fightin' Blue Hens on Friday. The game will be televised nationally on CBS Sports Network.

FOOTBALL GAME INFO

WKU (4-1) at Delaware (3-1)
Friday, Oct. 3 • 6 p.m. CT
Delaware Stadium, Newark, Del.
Watch: CBS Sports Network

ABOUT THE TOPS

The Hilltoppers are coming off of a 27-22 win at Missouri State on Saturday. For the second week in a row, WKU got two second-half touchdowns from running back La'Vell Wright to help secure the win. With the victory, WKU improved to 4-1 overall this season and 2-0 in CUSA play. Head Coach Tyson Helton improved to 36-13 in regular-season CUSA games with the win.

WKU is one of two teams in CUSA that enters the week with a 2-0 record in CUSA play, with the other being Louisiana Tech. Running back La'Vell Wright was named the Conference USA Offensive Player of the Week and left tackle Marshall Jackson was named the CUSA Offensive Lineman of the Week, the conference announced Monday. The awards are the seventh and eighth CUSA weekly awards WKU has received this season. Wright's Offensive Player of the Week recognition marks the third time a Hilltopper has received the nod – quarterback Maverick McIvor received it after Week 0 and Week 1 – and Jackson's Offensive Lineman of the Week honor is the second time WKU has received that award, following Laurence Seymour's recognition after Week 0.

WKU has outscored opponents 55-9 in the fourth quarter this season. The plus-46 point differential is the second-highest in the fourth quarter by any FBS team in 2025, behind only Missouri's plus-47.

WKU punter Cole Maynard enters the week ranked second nationally in punting average, booting the ball 50.82 yards on 22 attempts this season. He has a long of 71 yards.

WKU is one of just 11 teams in the country, and one of three G5 programs, that has played in a bowl game or College Football Playoff game in each of the last six seasons.

WKU is the only non-Power Conference program to have a player selected within the first three rounds in each of the last four NFL Drafts.

MURRAY, Ky. – In a special-called meeting on Sept. 19, the Murray State University Board of Regents approved the naming of the Michael Muscarella Classroom for Assisted Care and Rehabilitation in Jackson Hall, the future home of the School of Nursing and Health Professions. The recognition honors Dr. Muscarella, a longtime healthcare leader at Baptist Health Paducah, for his exceptional service and unwavering commitment to healthcare education in the region.

Dr. Muscarella has played a pivotal role in strengthening the partnership between Murray State and regional healthcare providers. His contributions include service on advisory boards such as the Purchase Area Health Education Center (AHEC) and the Occupational Therapy admissions committee. His leadership has influenced academic program development and improved student outcomes across multiple healthcare disciplines.

“This naming opportunity will serve as a way to honor Dr. Muscarella and his commitment and support to Murray State University for many years to come,” said Dr. Dina Byers, dean of the School of Nursing and Health Professions. “His advocacy has been instrumental in connecting students with healthcare careers and supporting our faculty and programs.”

terson, president of Murray State, praised Muscarella’s decades-long dedication to education and public service: “This naming will honor his commendable legacy for years to come.”

Set for completion in summer 2026, Jackson Hall will provide cutting-edge classrooms, labs, simulation areas, and collaboration spaces. The Kentucky General Assembly allocated $45.5 million for its construction in 2023. The University aims to raise an additional $5 million in private funding for technology and equipment enhancements. Naming opportunities remain available for donors and partners.

Reflecting on the honor, Muscarella said, “It is an honor to help Murray State pathway our scholars toward the career of their dreams. Murray State is the keystone educational institution in our community.”
